EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS GUIDE.

NEW YORK, MARCH 29, 1913

SHALL BUILDING HEIGHTS BE RESTRICTED?

By ROBERT GRIER COOKE

Absolutely Necessary in the Case of Fifth Avenue Where Retail Trade Is Being Blasted by Factories.

The Overproduction of Factory Buildings is Impairing Values and Draining Old Buildings Near Them.

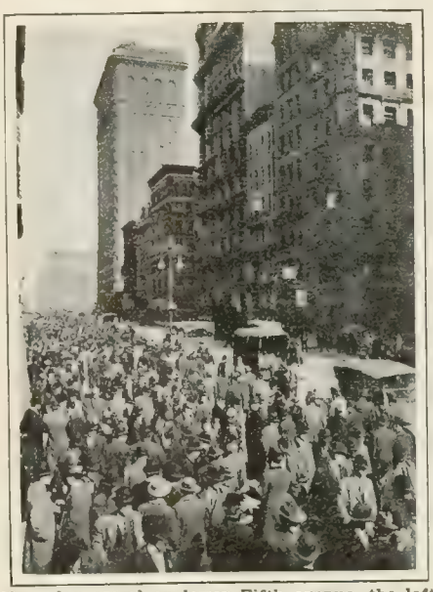
AT FIRST sight, the proposal to "regulate the height, size and arrangement" of buildings to be erected in New York City, which the recent action of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has placed squarely before the public, may seem revolutionary. This is an entirely mistaken view. New York, great as it is, progressive as it is, is simply behind the times in safeguarding its future in the matter of the size and character of its buildings. Boston, Washington, Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, St. Louis, and other cities, both in this country and in Europe, have long since realized the vital necessity of making their buildings and streets conform to the highest standards not only of usefulness and efficiency but of beauty, safety and healthfulness. In many communities restrictive and regulative building laws have been in effect for years, and the courts, so far as I know, have invariably upheld them.

The time has now come for New York to fall into line in this movement. The resolution of the Board of Estimate for the appointment of a commission to investigate the advisability of restricting the building height throughout the entire city, by a zone system or otherwise, is the first step in the direction of a long-needed reform.

The Financial District an Exception.

By this I do not mean to say that the building height should everywhere be limited. There are sections, such as the Financial District, where the small available amount of space and the tremendous requirements make it inevitable that the skyscraper must not only exist but continue to multiply and perhaps even reach an average height greater than that of to-day.

There are, however, no such conditions as these in the Fifth avenue section, which is conspicuous as a part of New York where the skyscraper, or even the ultra-high building, is not wanted. In making this statement—and I cannot make it strongly enough—I am stating the views not alone of the Fifth Avenue Association but also of a large number of property owners, business men and residents of the avenue and of the great section of Manhattan of which it is the main artery. There is no question but that the many bitter experiences which the substantial Fifth avenue interests have suffered in the last half dozen years or so, as a result of the invasion of the district by hundreds of loft buildings with their crowds of garment workers and other factory operatives, have molded a public sentiment in favor of regulating the size and character of future



MR. COOKE IS PRESIDENT OF THE FIFTH AVENUE ASSOCIATION.

Fifth avenue structures. This sentiment is too powerful to be withstood.

Blasting Retail Business.

One has but to visit the avenue below 23d street any business day during the noon hour to see what will be the fate of the thoroughfare north of that street, unless some change is speedily made to prevent the further erection of high loft and factory structures in what is now the finest retail and shopping section in the world. Nothing so blasting to the best class of business and property interests has ever before been seen or known in any great retail district in any large city as this vast flood of workers which sweeps down the pavements at noontime every day and literally overwhelms and engulfs shops, shopkeepers and the shopping public. This appalling condition of affairs, directly due to the presence on or near the avenue of high buildings, housing multitudes of toilers, has made it imperative on all who take a real pride in Fifth avenue and want to see it preserved, to demand the restriction and regulation of future buildings throughout the district in order to put an effectual stop to the evil.

But it is asked, "How is the mere cutting down of the height of buildings to 125 feet to rid the section of the crowds of garment workers and other factory hands?" We answer that we do not expect the limiting of the size of future structures to do all the work of reform. What we do hope and expect is that the new regulations proposed by the State Factory Commission, making it obligatory on builders to provide more and wider staircases, to greatly reduce the number of operatives in a room, and to provide more light, better ventilation and improved hygienic conditions, will work, together with the laws compelling a reasonable height of building, so as to make it impossible for factories to exist in the heart of New York's best shopping section. This will lead to their seeking localities more suited to their real needs.

Practical Considerations.

Although there is no street for which Americans have a higher sentimental regard than Fifth avenue, the demand for keeping future buildings in the street within reasonable limits as to height and architecture is not actuated by sentiment but by the highest practical considerations. Those who love and admire Fifth avenue cannot afford to have it become a mere cheerless canyon like so many of the city's streets farther downtown. As the fairest and most charming street of the New World, Fifth avenue is and has been for many years one of New York's most valued assets. Tolerate the skyscrapers and it will lose the characteristics which have made it second to no street anywhere and which have made its land values among the highest in the world.

Misconstruction.

It is high time to put a stop to the operations of a certain type of builders, who, growing more and more bold as the years have gone by, have ruthlessly invaded neighborhood after neighborhood in New York and entered upon a riot of building out of all proportion to the character and needs of the district. Wherever they have operated, they have worked serious harm; rents have fallen, and a cheaper class of tenants has come in. It is this class of conscienceless builders that offers the greatest menace to Fifth avenue to-day.

The indignation felt by many owners of property on Fifth avenue against the practices of builders of this class is typically expressed by a woman propertyholder, who, in a recent letter to the Fifth Avenue Association, earnestly advocating the lessening of the building height in the district, says: "It seems to me that the health and comfort of the many should be of more account than the permitting of the few to exploit New York to their financial advantage as now, and to the detriment of all its citizens except the owners of the skyscraping monstrosities. The city is a pathetic ruin wherever the eye rests, made so by the interests to which I have referred. They have destroyed and are destroying every residential neighborhood in New York. If you can save Fifth avenue it will be much!"

A Hydra-Headed Menace.

Every consideration which led to the adoption by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of Borough President McAneny's resolution for a thorough inquiry into the desirability of limiting building heights throughout the city applies with particular fitness to Fifth avenue. In the continued erection of high loft structures in the shopping section, Fifth avenue, its property owners and business interests, face the hydra-headed menace of the "shutting off of light and air from other buildings and from the street, unwholesome and dangerous congestion in living and working conditions and in street traffic, and increasing hazards of fire and of peril to human life."

As to the limitation of the height of buildings affording a relief from the fast-increasing congestion in the shopping district, especially in street and traffic congestion, there is not the slightest doubt. And it is obvious to everyone that Fifth avenue traffic is growing at a rate which makes safe and satisfactory handling one of the most serious of the avenue's problems. Eliminate the towering loft building with its manufacturing plants and army of employees and a vast amount of this hybrid traffic will go with it. At the same time the fire peril and the danger to human life growing out of herding people both inside and outside of buildings will largely disappear also. In place of all these undesirable features, the smaller and more harmonious buildings with their smaller floor space will command much higher rents; property will steadily increase, and Fifth avenue's place as the foremost business street and the most magnificent thoroughfare in the world will be secure for all time to come.

Natural Zones.

Whether the ultimate plan to be adopted for New York shall be along the lines of laying out the city in districts or zones, in each of which the height, size and arrangement of buildings shall be prescribed in accordance with the district's character, is for the future to determine. Legislation may or may not be called into requisition to fix zones in which different building standards will prevail. Yet, whether it is or not, a little consideration of the present trend of development in Manhattan will show that there is a marked tendency on the part of certain sections of the city by entirely natural processes to become zones devoted to some particular industry. A notable instance is that of the silk business which in the last few years has centered on and about Fourth avenue.

It may never be necessary or desirable to establish any particular regulations for future buildings in the Silk District, but the fact that this and other similar sections are coming into existence leads some observers to believe that the zone plan for the city's leading industries may soon become an actuality. It also suggests unmistakably that one great zone, at least, is already well defined—the Fifth avenue district—and that as such it has an undoubted right to safeguard its future by excluding buildings which are not only out of harmony with its character and purposes, but actually destructive to them.

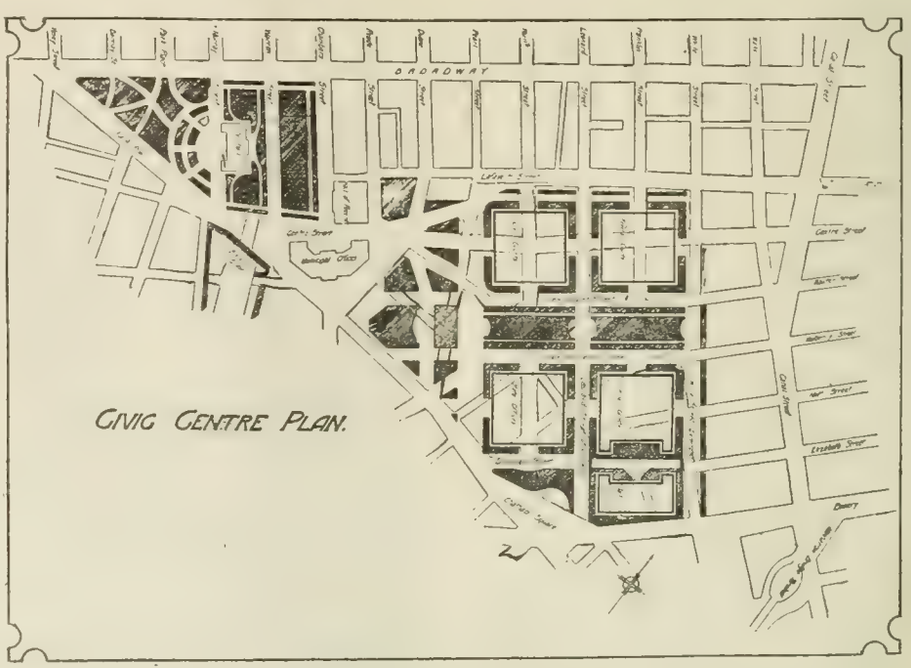
GREAT PLANS FOR COURT HOUSE SQUARE

Park Row to be Widened—New Tombs and Criminal Courts—Architects Submit Plans For Civil Courts Next Week—City Will Take Title May First.

ACCORDING to present expectations the City of New York will take title to the new Court House site on or about the first of May. The commissioners in condemnation proceedings will then have finished their work, and the city will be ready to utilize the site. By putting off the formality of taking legal title, an interest charge of twelve hundred dollars a day is being saved to the municipal treasury.

Next Tuesday, April 1, the competitive plans for the new building will be received from the twenty-two selected architects by the Court House Board at its offices, 115 Broadway. On the following Monday the members of the jury will meet to judge the plans, and on the 11th of April the Court House Board will receive the report of the jury, which will comprise J. L. Mauran of St. Louis, Frank Miles Day of Philadelphia, and R. S. Peabody of Boston.

It is not expected that the decision of the board will be announced at once, for the reason that the jury is likely to leave room for the exercise of some discretion on the part of the board by selecting more than one plan as of equal merit. This may well come about in view of the high ability of the competing architects. It is hardly expected in architectural circles that one design and plan will be so much preferred over the others as to leave no room for choice.



"Court House Square."

The Court House will form but one constituent part of the great civic center which is to connect City Hall Park and the Manhattan Bridge Plaza. Other constituent parts will consist of Federal, State and Municipal buildings. According to the latest plans of the Court House Board, first there will be laid out with State authority a "Court House Square," which will be large enough to supersede the present Chinatown section, the Court House Board hopes. It will involve a remodeling of the street system, in order to provide for the free and unimpeded movement of traffic between Brooklyn Bridge and Manhattan Bridge, and in order to increase the facilities for traffic going north and south.

Center and Worth streets will be cut off, Park Row and the Bowery widened, and there will be a new Criminal Courts building and a new and larger jail, besides the buildings which the State of New York and the U. S. Government will erect. Over half the area of the proposed square is owned or under process of acquisition by the city.

Condemnation Proceedings.

For several months a commission in condemnation proceedings, of which Abram I. Elkus is chairman, has been listening to expert testimony as to the value of the parcels to be taken for the Court House site in particular. Messrs. Herbert A. Sherman, Herman De Selding, H. L. Moxley, E. A. Tredwell, C. F. Noyes, Samuel Goldsticker, McMonegal and Drennan have given testimony for the owners, and Irving Ruland, Bryan L. Kennelly, Charles S. Brown, John N. Golding, Joseph P. Day and Charles Lyons of L. J. Phillips & Co. will testify for the city. Assistant Corporation Competitive architectural plans for the Civil Courts will be received next week. The site is the subject of condemnation proceedings. Sites for the Federal and State buildings will be acquired. The Criminal Courts and the Tombs will be rebuilt and Park Row widened.

Counsel Charles D. Olendorf is representing the city in the proceedings.

Opinions Differ on Values.

Sixty-five pieces of property, including several owned by the City of New York, will be taken. They are situated in Center, Lafayette, Leonard, Worth, Pearl, Baxter and Park streets. The most valuable parcel is designated as No. 1, and is situated at the southeast corner of Lafayette and Leonard streets, comprising the buildings 49-51 Lafayette street and 124 to 128 Leonard street. Mr. Tredwell, testifying for the owner, put a value of $410,767 on the land and $402,500 on the buildings, or a total of $813,267, while Mr. Ruland, appraising for the city, couldn't see more than $228,700 as the worth of the land and $364,000 for the buildings, or a total of $592,700.

The aggregate of the valuations put upon all the parcels by the owners' appraisers is about $10,000,000. Mr. Ruland, who made estimates for the benefit of the Court House Board a year ago, and who has testified to the value of every piece of property affected by the present proceedings, estimates the total at but $5,591,000. Other experts are yet to be examined in behalf of the city by Counselor Olendorf, but it can be said that the Court House Board does not expect that the city will be asked to pay more than five or six million dollars. The building is estimated to cost ten million, exclusive of the expense of decorating, equipping and furnishing.

In every instance the estimates of the experts are so wide apart as to occasion some wonder as to how the commissioners will be able to judge between them. In the case of parcels Nos. 15 and 16, appraised as one, and consisting of 25 Lafayette street and 516 and 520 Pearl street, owned by Kate and Joseph Falk and Joseph E. Arnold, the owners' appraiser set a value of $669,570, while Mr. Ruland considers the property worth no more than $227,500. The building at the northwest corner of Center and Pearl streets, owned by T. P. Fitzsimmons, was figured by the owners as worth $295,075, and by Mr. Ruland at $126,000.

The total of Mr. Ruland's valuations, $5,591,000, is within two per cent. of the Tax Department's valuations, which were increased from $4,311,000 in 1912 to $5,471,000 in 1913.

The Competing Architects.

The list of twenty-two competitors for the commission to prepare the plans for the Court House building comprises twelve who were specially invited by the Court House Board, and ten who were selected after a preliminary competition:

McKim, Mead & White, Carrère & Hastings, LaFarge & Morris, Tracy, Swartwout & Litchfield, James Riely Gordon, H. V. Magonigle, York & Sawyer; Charles Butler and Charles Morris, Associated; Trowbridge & Livingston, A. W. Brunner, Cass Gilbert, Geo. B. Post & Sons.

George and Edward Blum, Griffin & Wynkoop; Charles C. Haight, A. H. Githens and Aymar Embury II. (three associated); Howells & Stokes, Guy Lowell, Maynicke & Franke; Kenneth M. Murchison and Howard Greenley (associated), Shire & Kaufman, Walker & Gillette, Wilder & White.

MANY CHANGES IN WOODHAVEN, QUEENS

Once An Area of Country Estates and Farms, The Growth of the City Has Absorbed the Community For City Homes.

THE FLORIAN GROSJEAN MANSION AT WOODHAVEN.

VIEW OF THE GROUNDS OF THE GROSJEAN MANSION, WOODHAVEN.

THREE years ago a bare stretch of acreage to a great extent, Woodhaven, from Jamaica avenue south to Liberty avenue and even beyond, in Queens Borough, is fast being built up as an integral part of the greater city. The building movement began in the vicinity of Woodhaven and Jamaica avenues and it has gradually extended southward. When it first began reasonable priced detached houses comprised the character of improvements; but, now houses in rows are the type that are being built, some of them of brick and some of stucco and frame. Houses that are built to sell from $5,000 to $6,500 each are in the majority.

Before the building movement became extensive and for many years previously Woodhaven was a territory of fine suburban homes and country estates. Notable among them were those on Atlantic avenue, near Woodhaven avenue, owned and occupied by the members of the agate-ware firm of Lalance & Grosjean whose immense factory is in Woodhaven. Most prominent among these estates was that of Florian Grosjean the picturesque grounds of which attract the eye of passengers on the Long Island Railroad on their way to and from Jamaica.

The Passing of Fine Estates.

Woodhaven lies between Union Course and Richmond Hill. So rapid has the growth of Woodhaven been that the Grosjean and Lalance mansions are surrounded with rows of attached houses, the rural character of the section is destroyed and the properties that were once attractive for summer homes are being sub-divided, and in about two years or less hence rows of homes will occupy their sites.

The passing of these fine estates furnishes the most striking evidence of the overflow of population from Brooklyn into Queens.

Florian Grosjean, who made millions through his invention of agate-ware, is dead; and, his estate sold his country place a year ago to a syndicate headed by Col. William M. Griffiths, of Jamaica, formerly president of the Queens County Trust Company and formerly private secretary to Governor Black. Col. Griffiths has been active in Queens County real estate dealing for several years now. There are one hundred and twenty-four lots in the Grosjean grounds and streets will be cut through the plot and houses built upon the lots; in fact, one building operation has been begun on the rear part of the tract. Lots here are worth $1,200 each for inside lots and about one-third to one-half more for corner lots. The old Grosjean mansion is still standing; and, it will be sold either to some institution or demolished and the land it occupies reimproved with homes. Lots are 20x 100 feet each in size.

Land Values.

On the south side of Atlantic avenue, opposite the Grosjean estate grounds is another large tract which was bought from the same estate by the F. W. Scutt Company, of Jamaica. This property has an old mansion on it also surrounded with fine old trees. The owning company has cut a 50-foot street through the parcel and is selling lots to builders for improvement with detached frame and stucco dwellings. Lots are 20x100 feet each and sell for from $1,000 to $1,200 each. It is probable that the old house on the other part of this property will be razed and another street cut through from Atlantic avenue south and improved with detached dwellings also. Nearby is the Woodhaven station of the Long Island Railroad.

DIAMOND AVENUE, WOODHAVEN.

The Jamaica avenue trolley of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, which connects with the elevated railroad at Cypress Hills, serves that part of Woodhaven immediately north and south of Jamaica avenue; the Long Island Railroad serves the part adjacent to Atlantic avenue; and when the subway system planned for Queens is carried into effect the extension of the Kings County elevated road from the city line of old Brooklyn to Jamaica will pass through Liberty avenue, Woodhaven, and thereby aid property values in the southerly part of the place. The building movement is steadily southward. Lots in the section of Woodhaven adjacent to Liberty avenue range in price from $700 to $1,000 each.

Trend of Residential Growth.

At Woodhaven, Vanderveer and Fulton avenues, in Woodhaven, St. Anthony's Hospital is erecting an immense modern fireproof hospital building, which will cost more than $1,000,000, after plans by I. E. Ditmars, of 111 Fifth avenue, Manhattan. This building is approaching completion; and, the fact that it is being built in a growing part of the Borough of Queens shows the trend of residential growth of the city of New York.

Woodhaven is only a short distance from Forest Park, which is one of the large parks of the city of New York, much of which yet awaits landscape improvement and development. Seven miles from Manhattan, Woodhaven is situated along the lines of steady growth and improvement. So much of the place as fronts on Jamaica avenue has been improved with flats and stores; and, eventually Atlantic avenue, in Woodhaven, will be improved along the same lines, as it is essentially a traffic thoroughfare.

Revival of Apartment Hotels.

The time has come when apartment house builders must take another step in advance. The "new-law" elevator house does not meet the requirements of the wealthy families now going into apartments. They have learned through travel and otherwise that New York is behind some American and foregn cities in providing comforts for apartment house life. There are indications that the coming type of house will be more elegantly appointed, not from a decorator's standpoint, but it will have more built-in furniture, and it will provide meals for its tenants. It will be, in fine, an apartment hotel rather than an ordinary housekeeping apartment, no matter how exclusively situated or superbly constructed. Bing & Bing evidently have caught the flash of the new idea that is abroad. In East 58th street, east of Madison avenue, and opposite the Antoinette apartments, they have this week acquired a site for a twelve-story apartment hotel. A. S. Cochran will build one of twenty-one stories in 59th street west of Fifth avenue. A hotel may lawfully be built to any height, irrespective of the width of the street, and this alone is a great advantage over the plain apartment house, whose height must be governed by the width of the street.

New Ruling for Mortgages.

Register Grifenhagen, of the County of New York, has been instructed by the State Tax Commission of the State of New York, acting under the opinion of the Attorney General, that every mortgage, which by its terms secures the payment of any money or moneys except taxes, assessments or water rates, beyond the principal amount secured by such mortgage, is to be considered as an Indeterminate Mortgage under Section 256 of the Tax Law, and before being accepted for record must pay the tax on the maximum amount which the terms of the mortgage impose on the property, and such maximum amount is to be determined under the provision of said Section 256 of the Tax Law.

Following is that part of Section 256 providing for the determination of the amount at which an Indeterminate Mortgage is to be taxed:

"Such mortgage shall be taxable under section two hundred and fifty-three of this chapter upon the value of the property covered by the mortgage, which shall be determined by the recording officer to whom such mortgage is presented for record, unless at the time of presenting such mortgage for record the owner thereof shall file with the recording officer a sworn statement of the maximum amount secured or which under any contingency may be secured by the mortgage."

SAVE RIVERSIDE PARK.

An Attempt to Commercialize the Waterfront—West End Owners Act.

The lands under water fronting Riverside Park, between 72d street and Manhattanville, are held by the city as a trustee charged with the duty of forever preserving the lands for park purposes. Ever since the lands were acquired at a cost of more than $2,000,000, it has been the hope and purpose that they would be filled in and landscaped like other park grounds.

A bill has suddenly appeared in the Legislature, introduced by Mr. Pollock, which seeks to destroy this trusteeship and give the lands under water over to general purposes, to be used for docks, warehouses, railroad tracks, and what not. A delegation of members from the West End Association went to Albany on Tuesday and opposed the bill before the committee having it in charge. They learned that the bill was introduced as a city measure to further the arrangement which the Board of Estimate's committee on West Side waterfront improvements is concluding with the New York Central Railroad Company. In order to give the railroad company more trackage room, the bill would destroy the trusteeship created many years ago in order to preserve the land to the people. The building of the new subways has afforded the first opportunity to obtain spoil with which to make the fill, and the process is now well advanced.

The West End Association is making a fight against the violation of the trusteeship. At a meeting on Monday evening at the Hotel St. Andrew resolutions were adopted, "That pending legislation tending or attempting to abrogate, impair or nullify the trust for park purposes created pursuant to chapter 152 of the laws of 1894, or further to commercialize any part of the waterfront between 72d and 129th streets, is inimical to the public interest and a violation of property rights, and to such the West End Association is resolutely opposed."

Dock Commissioner Tomkins some time ago expressed the opinion in a report to the Mayor that ultimately the lands under water fronting Riverside Park would be required for commerce, and he suggested that the new-made land be entirely shedded and landscaped, the roof to be used for park purposes and the ground underneath for railroad and wharf purposes.

As far as they apply to Riverside Drive between 72d and 129th streets, the plans submitted by the railroad provide for six main-line tracks to cross 130th street over a viaduct and come to grade at 122d street, just below Grant's Tomb. They continue to 86th street, where they increase in number to ten at 79th street and to twenty-six at 72d street, where a yard is located. These twenty-six tracks would occupy a space 379 feet wide, thus encroaching upon land held in trust by the city.

The law committee of the West End Association has been investigating the whole matter for some weeks, and its report, recently made, sets forth why the plan as proposed by the New York Central should not be adopted.

The chairman of the committee is Charles L. Craig. The other members who signed the report are James A. Deering, Joseph A. Arnold, Charles W. Lefier and Thomas P. McKenna.

NEW FACTORY LAWS.

Bear Down on Real Estate—New Advisory Committee—Aimed at Garment Workers.

The State Department of Labor persists in becoming a more powerful factor in the real estate affairs of New York City. Bills now pending in the Legislature which were introduced at the instance of the Factory Investigating Committee, of which Senator Wagner is chairman, will take from the Building Department and the Fire Department a considerable amount of authority over building construction in the one case, and over fire prevention matters in the other, and bestow this authority on a new industrial commission which is to be part of the organization of the Department of Labor.

The bills contain many provisions which are virtually building laws, requiring many alterations in old buildings and adding to the cost of new work. Upon lessees of loft buildings used for factory purposes the general effect will be to limit, if not lessen, the number of operatives which may be employed by a manufacturing firm, and consequently to diminish the availability of buildings and therefore their market value. The bills have aroused wide opposition from real estate interests. During the prolonged hearings on the bills protests were entered in behalf of the property owners' associations. On the other hand, the bills were strongly urged by philanthropical bodies, settlement workers and factory inspectors.

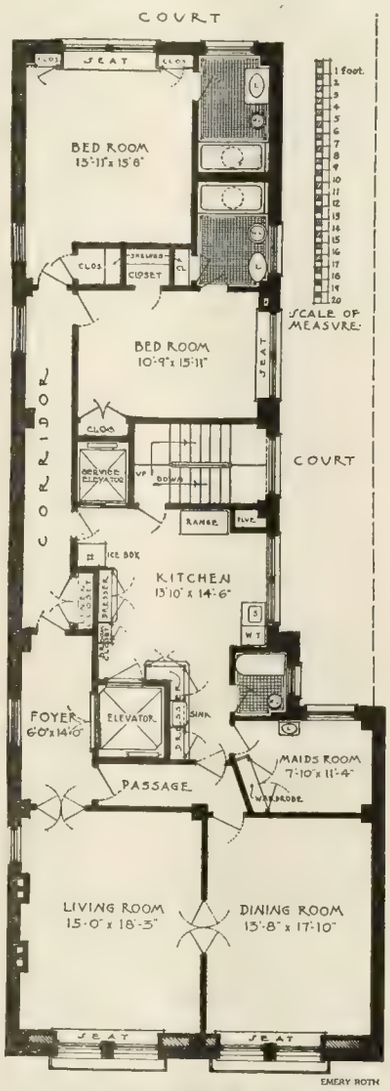
It is reported that the bills have received support from property owners in the Fifth avenue section under the belief that the bills will help to keep the textile industries within bounds.

One of the bills referred to provides for a reorganization of the State Factory Inspection Bureau, under which there shall be an advisory board to the State Department of Labor to be composed of seven persons appointed by the Governor, with the consent of the Senate. One of the seven is to be a woman. The Board is to meet at least once every two months in the office of the Department of Labor in the city of New York. It will have the power to make rules and fix standards, in order that the provisions of the statutes relating to factories may be made effective. Public hearings must be held by the board on all proposed rules, regulations and standards. A violation of any regulation promulgated by the board will be a violation of the law itself, and is to be punished as a misdemeanor.

Remunerative Jobs.

The pay of the Commissioner of Labor is raised from five to fifteen thousand dollars, or to more than the Governor himself receives, and more than a Congressman's salary. Two deputy commissioners are to be paid five thousand a year and two other deputies four thousand five hundred. Sub-offices are to be opened at Rochester, Syracuse and Utica, besides Buffalo and New York.



The Commissioner is to employ chief counsel at five thousand a year and assistant counsel at three thousand five hundred. The State will be divided into two inspection districts, and the counties of New York, Kings, Queens and Richmond will constitute the first. There are not to be less than one hundred and twenty-five factory inspectors, divided into twelve grades, the highest salary to be three thousand five hundred dollars.

The inspectors of the eighth, ninth, eleventh and twelfth grades will constitute the division of industrial hygiene; the inspectors of the seventh and eighth grades will be medical men.

A UNIQUE APARTMENT.

Smallest House of Its Class for the Madison Avenue Section.

A building now nearing completion at 42 East 66th street, near the corner of Madison avenue, for the Jackson Realty

TYPICAL FLOOR PLAN, 42 EAST 66TH ST.

Co., is unique, inasmuch as it probably is the smallest high-class apartment building in the city, and the only high-class six-room apartment to be built for but one tenant on a floor.

The plot is 30 x 100. The building is equipped with two elevators, one for passengers and one for service. Each floor is provided with three baths, and in addition to the rooms on the floor there is, in the cellar, a separate laundry and separate storeroom, enclosed with wire partitions, for each tenant, and in the pent house one additional servant's room for each apartment. The schedule of rents is from $2500 to $3200 per annum. This building was designed by, and is being erected under the supervision of, Emery Roth, architect. Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Against Unregulated Billboards.

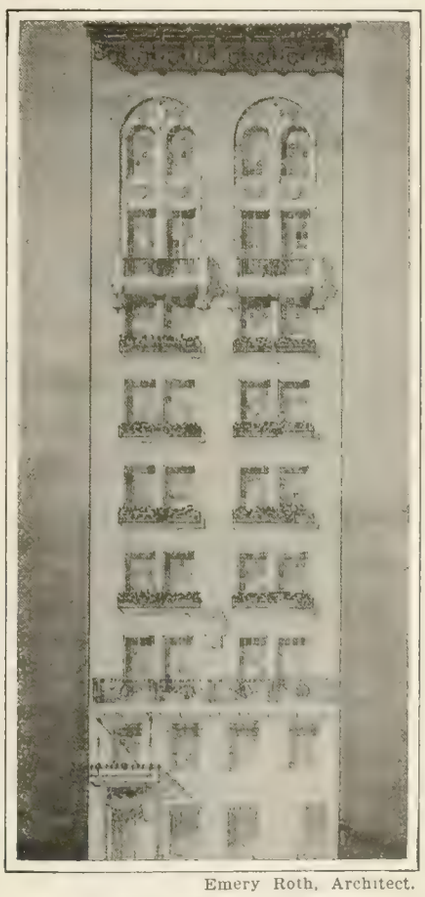
The Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York has declared that billboards and sky signs should not be taxed in addition to the tax already levied upon them as a part of real estate; but they should be prohibited in special localities such as park streets and streets of exceptional character like Fifth avenue. There should be, however, no general prohibition, as in many cases they add materially to the income capacity of property.

—Old Corona village, which will soon see a subway extension under construction, is temporarily in a comatose state. The builders are undecided whether to go in for tenements or private dwellings.

THREE-FAMILY HOUSES.

Again Strongly Advocated By Bronx and Brooklyn Builders.

The bill amending the Tenement House Law so as to take three-family houses out of the jurisdiction of the Tenement House Department has again been introduced in the Legislature and is being urged by Bronx and Brooklyn builders, as heretofore.



Superintendent of Buildings Patrick J. Carlin in a speech before the members of the Real Estate Protective Association of Brooklyn on Monday afternoon, declared that the Tenement House Department was an unnecessary expense to the city and that its functions could be satisfactorily handled by the Department of Buildings.

Mr. Carlin said he was thoroughly in accord with the purpose of the association, which consists of a group of architects, builders and real estate brokers, organized to have the tenement house law amended so that the three-family dwellings shall be eliminated from its provisions.

A. G. Calder followed Mr. Carlin in his talk about building matters, and produced plans for three-family buildings, such as are now being constructed under the Tenement House laws. In contrast to these buildings he presented plans for the three-family building which might be built under the amended law and come under the jurisdiction of the Building Department. This latter type of house could be built at a saving of from 15 to 20 per cent. to the builder, he said, and have all the advantages now claimed for the tenement house type of building. In addition, it would have more floor space and a higher rental value.

S. Cedarstrom said that the proposed measure would permit men of moderate means to occupy practically private houses for the rental now being paid for cramped quarters in tenement houses.

Resolutions favoring the bill now pending in the Legislature to amend the Tenement House law by eliminating three-family houses from its jurisdiction were adopted at a meeting of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

MOST SUCCESSFUL HOUSES.

Are Those Which Have Hotel Conveniences—A Manager's Problems.

By W. W. Hannan.*

THE desirability of the apartment house or hotel as a form of investment is no longer questioned. The trend of modern life is decidedly along community lines, and this in an age of increasing individualism. Just as we agree to limit by statute unrestricted personal inclination in some directions, in order to secure a larger measure of protection for individual rights in all directions, so does the modern family cheerfully relinquish some of the liberties and the freedom of the individual dwelling, in order to secure to a large degree immunity from the petty cares of individual housekeeping.

To have the heating problem alone solved is a great relief to the small family of modest income who cannot well afford to hire a man to take care of their furnace. The next greatest problem for which the apartment form of dwelling offers relief is the maid question. With specialization in labor, the general utility maid is no longer worth hiring at any price; competent labor will no longer attempt general work. The apartment hotel can secure good service because it is in a position to offer one kind of work and regular hours to every employee.

The Three Essentials.

Just how valuable an investment any given apartment house will prove to be will depend upon three things: Location, Construction, Management.

As to location, it is difficult, even with the exercise of the best possible judgment, to so locate an apartment house or hotel that it will continue to be well situated during the life of the building. Ten of the most capable men in a community might agree as to the desirability of a certain location, and yet the trend of business and unforseen growth of the city in other directions might later discredit their judgment.

Apartment-house dwellers manifest a strong predilection for living on the fringe of things. They want always to be just at the point where business ends and the residential section begins. Because this desirable point is a movable one, to render an apartment-house investment equally profitable during the life of the building it is essential to have the interior arrangement such that it can be remodeled to suit the varying demands of its procession of tenants.

Several apartment houses in Detroit that originally contained suites of eight or nine rooms have recently been remodeled into suites of two, three and four rooms. While the owner will eventually have an entirely different class of tenants from those for which he originally planned the building, yet the real purpose for which the building was erected, to secure a good rate of return upon an investment, it being achieved today quite as well as when the building was new—indeed, I am perfectly safe in saying that the return is certain to be greater today than ever, because rents are higher and the demand for small suites is more steady, and increasing more rapidly than in any other class of apartments.

To secure permanency in the investment it is well then that the original plans should contain elements of elasticity and flexibility.

When to Engage a Manager.

To secure the best results it is imperative that the building manager, who should be a man or woman with practical experience in the real estate field, should be consulted, and the time to consult him is before the architect's plans are perfected or accepted—not afterward. If the prospective manager is equipped for the position, he should be able to offer suggestions of the utmost value as to the general character and outlines of the different suites, and the various conveniences that will be demanded by the class of tenants which the owner desires to attract to his building.

MR. W. W. HANNAN.

To the investor who contemplates the erection of several apartment houses I would say change your architect occasionally. Architects are notably conservative and are slow to advise radical departures from conventional types. Your conservative man, more than any other, is liable to get in a rut. Every architect tries with infinite painstaking to find ways in which to improve upon his last plan. He notes small details that may be perfected, but he reluctantly discards his old type of construction altogether to start out in a wholly new line.

Basic Requirements.

Tenants, however, are anything but conservative. They seek change and variety, though their basic requirements remain fixed. They insist upon comfort, convenience and as large a measure of the artistic as they can pay for, but they also insist with equal peremptoriness upon the architect and builder devising new forms in which to provide these essentials, so that their appetite for novelty may be gratified.

Proper management of all kinds of buildings is rapidly gaining the recognition which its importance warrants.

Running a modern apartment building with all its complex problems is as much a specialized business as running a department store or a factory, and requires just as certainly a capable, trained and efficient manager.

We are a long way from the day of the frowsy, red-handed, unsuitably garbed housekeeper of the earlier apartment hotel.

A Care-Free Existence.

As the rentals of apartments have increased, and architecture, convenience, equipment and appointment have improved, so have the requirements of tenants multiplied and become more exacting as to service, and also as to that indefinite accessory essential in an abiding place—character. Not only have standards of living risen, but refinements in the art of living have become pronounced and widely imperative.

If people must pay well, they insist, and rightfully, upon living well.

The ideal manager of a high-class apartment building or hotel of today is in no sense in the servant class. His function is executive only. Tactful efficiency in the role of genial host or suave hostess leads the paying guests to realize that to live in a well appointed, perfectly administered apartment building and to be able to have appetizing and properly cooked food perfectly served, is to enjoy a care-free existence impossible in the individual home. But in order to get the grade of manager who can achieve this result and make it pay, you will have to offer something more than janitor's wages. To secure able management the office must be dignified and the pay adequate.

I consider the question of management the most important phase of an apartment-house investment. The time was when the investor actually believed that, if he had a fine building, this was the only thing necessary, but today the appointments of the building sometimes sink into insignificance in the light of the proper or improper management.

Income Depends on Cleanliness.

Preach the doctrine of cleanliness to your managers and employees. Make them understand that the income on the investment depends in a great measure on the manner in which the building is kept. A tenant may have a magnificent apartment and be satisfied with it in every respect, but if the manager does not see that halls are kept clean, that employees are courteous and that no detail contributing to the comfort of the tenant is overlooked, the tenants will move. They will go where there is proper management. Proper management consists in securing the greatest degree of comfort and service for the tenant which the amount of rent paid warrants. Scientific management is that analysis of detail and systemization of labor which will procure for the tenant this maximum of comfort at the minimum of cost to the owner in time and labor. Proper and scientific management may be given combined expression in the one word, "efficiency."

*Mr. Hannan has a national reputation as a building manager, and is one of the leading men in general real estate affairs in Detroit.

The ideal manager should be a man or woman of strong character and business ability. He should stand in the same relation to his apartment house as the conductor does to his train and the captain to his ship. He should be in absolute control. He cannot afford to permit the manifold suggestions and complaints of the tenants to sway him from the proper cause. He must have sufficient backbone and judgment to convince the tenants that he and not they is managing the building.

Giving Up Housekeeping.

In the early days of the large apartment house it was deemed essential that all apartments should be fully equipped for housekeeping. To-day our best and most sought-after apartments have discarded that feature and offer the tenants the privilege of a well-managed cafe. This is, to my mind, the most successful and lucrative type of apartment house, the apartment hotel.

The cafe, however, demands the most exacting attention. On its quality will depend the success of the building. While we as Americans have acquired a taste for dining in public cafes to an extent which would have been unthinkable a generation or so ago, yet with this habit we have also acquired a fine discrimination as to quality of food and service. The cafe has the power to make or mar the reputation of the building. The successful apartment hotel of today must be above criticism in a few essentials, and among these the quality of its cafe is above all the most vital to the profit of the investment.

Dealing With Tenants.

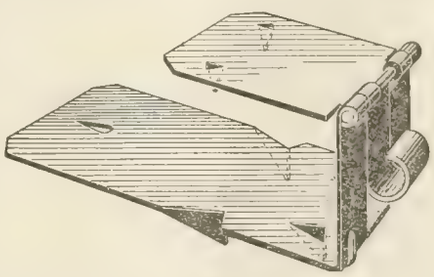
Tenants no longer seek the landlord, and the manager who would be successful must adopt all the modern methods of brokers for securing new lessees. He must keep track of expiring leases and in most cases must search for new tenants months before they intend to move. A great number of loft occupants date their leases from February 1, and when they intend to move they generally seek new quarters at least six months before that date. The handling of tenants requires great tact and good judgment on the part of the manager. A friendly tenant is often worth more than a good many dollars spent in newspaper advertising, and some buildings are able to show a profit year after year, due mainly to the reputation which they have acquired by the good treatment of their tenants.—Edwin H. Hess.

Elevator Accidents.

A building manager was once asked what the chief cause of accidents in elevators was, and he replied that it was largely due to the common practice of elevator operators to start the car before the elevator door is closed. The danger lies in the fact that frequently a passenger thinks of something and starts to go out, and in the meantime the elevator is started while the door is still open. There are devices on the market which will prevent the starting of the car until the door is closed, but managers upon figuring their cost hesitate.

Efficiency means taking advantage of every second in the elevator shaft, but the average passenger prefers safety.

NEW THINGS



Uninfluenced by advertising considerations, this information is offered on its merits for the benefit of building managers.

A New Scaffolding Bracket.

The accompanying illustration shows the new Richards-Wilcox roof scaffold bracket. This bracket is so designed that it can be placed on a shingle roof in a few seconds and will not give way or split the shingles. It is stamped from heavy steel. The bottom plate has four half-inch sharp projecting lugs which are forced into the roof when weight is applied to bracket, preventing the bracket from slipping out of place. The top plate is strongly hinged to upright end of bottom plate, and has extending arm against which the 2x4 rests. When the 2x4 is pushed against the extending arm, the two sharp lugs projecting from the top plate are forced into the top of the 2x4 and hold it tightly and securely in place. This bracket does not require any nails to hold it in place, or any hammering. The more weight you put on the bracket the better it takes hold. Brackets are placed about ten feet apart and two brackets will carry four men on a roof.

Further information regarding this device may be obtained by addressing the company at Aurora, Ill.

Shipyard Idea for Building Construction.

A crane system of handling concrete in building construction is being introduced by Drew-Bear, Perks & Co., Ltd., of London. The construction plant for the whole job is self contained and has caused considerable comment in engineering circles.

Over the site is erected a steel gantry on which the traveling crane moves back and forth on a runway. These gantries have been modelled on the lines of those used in shipyards, and it is believed that they will effect economy in time and expenditure as compared with the usual type of derrick crane.

In this operation the vertical lattice members of the gantry are placed in three rows at distances apart of 81 feet, 66 feet and 66 feet, and the cross girders are built up of steel sections in open lattice type used in pairs, well braced, across the top and stiffened by diagonal struts between each pair to give strong and light design. Electrically-driven travellers run over and serve the whole area and they are each capable of hoisting or lowering and of travelling in transverse or longitudinal directions. They can handle three hundred cubic yards a day and are capable of lifting the full load of thirty cwt.; and while carrying this load can lift at 150 feet a minute and travel crossways at 150 per minute, or longitudinally at 480 feet per minute.

A powerful automatic brake is provided capable of sustaining the load and arranged for lowering by gravity; and there is a foot-lever-brake for controling the longitudinal movement of the crane. A platform with hand-railing is provided alongside one of the cross-girders, and the controlers are placed in a cage fixed underneath the cross girders.

The erection gantries are put up by means of small derrick cranes, which travel in trenches; the upright and longitudinal members being erected in the first instance and the end girders being then pulled up by little cranes at the top, which remain in position to be utilized in dismantling.

A New Stack-Lining.

Something comparatively new in the matter of stack lining for use in cases where great heat is present is being introduced by the H. W. Johns-Manville Company of this city. It is known as "Vitribestos" and is applied as a lining to a depth sometimes as great as two inches, and when applied presents a solid interior surface. It is designed to serve the double purpose of protecting the metal stack from sulphurous and other destructive acids and gases as well as insulating the metal from great heat.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Areas of Paint Spread.

Is there any definite way of finding out how much surface a gallon of paint will cover?

Answer: No, because the spreading quality of paints vary. The following rule will give you an approximate basis: Divide the number of square feet of surface to be covered by 200 and the remainder will be the number of liquid gallons of paint required to give two coats. By dividing by 18, you will have the number of pounds of pure white lead required to give three coats.

Tax Rate for 1910.

Can you tell me what the tax rate was for 1910?

Answer.—For the Boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx, for City, County and State purposes, 1.7579; Borough of Brooklyn, Kings County, 1.81499; Borough of Queens, Queens County, 1.81079; Borough of Richmond, 1.87501. The assessed valuation upon which this rate was based was: Manhattan: real estate, $4,743,916,785; personal estate, $298,030,-483; total, $5.041,947,268. Bronx: real estate, $493,757,919; personal estate, $7,-716.550; total, $501.274,469. Brooklyn: real estate, $1,404,036,521; personal estate, $59,331,825; total, $1,463.368,346. Queens: real estate, $335,563,960; personal estate, $5,358,480; total, $339,922,-440. Richmond: real estate, $67,917,489; personal estate, $2,207,487; total, $70,124,-976. Total for city, $7,736,637,499.

Preventing Pitting in Boilers.

A superintendent of a commercial building writes that he found the following processes efficient in painting boiler sheaves to prevent pitting, He first cleaned the shelf plates thoroughly with a scraper and wire brush. He then painted the plates with a mixture of boiled linseed oil and Portland cement. When the first coat dried he put on a second coat, composed of one part graphite and three parts Portland cement. This coating remained three years without pitting.

It is evident from the incomplete returns already published that the loss of life and property by storm and flood in the Middle West will reach proportions rarely, if ever, exceeded in the past in the United States. The destruction of property and prostration of industry are widespread throughout Ohio, Indiana and other States, comprising a populous and notably prosperous section of the country; and the economic effects are bound to be felt in every commercial and financial center, including New York.

A plan for the roofing over of the New York Central tracks on the West Side above Seventy-second street, and the depression of the tracks south of that point has finally been agreed upon between the Board of Estimate and the railway company. It has the merit of calling for no money expenditure on the part of the city, and will leave the Board of Estimate in a position to vote the necessary funds for beginning the contemplated waterfront improvements along Riverside Drive. A public hearing on the plan is announced by the board for April 8.

An interesting set of figures bearing on the increase in the cost of living during the last eighteen years has been compiled by G. S. Barnes, of the Labor Department of the British Board of Trade, for a committee which is investigating the conditions of employment in the British postal service. Mr. Barnes's figures show that the purchasing power of the English sovereign, as measured by its capacity to buy quantities of the twenty-three articles of food included in the British Board of Trade's index numbers for retail prices, was only 16 s. 3 d. ($3.95) in 1912, compared with £1 ($4.86) in 1895.

Not Too Rigid Restrictions.

The Record and Guide firmly believes in the establishment of restrictions on the height of buildings in New York City; but it sincerely hopes that the system of limitation which will be recommended by the committee now studying the matter will not be too rigid. We do not believe that any good reason can be alleged in favor either of an absolute prohibition upon all buildings over a certain height or upon the establishment of a fixed relation between the height of a building and the width of a street. The essential object to be secured by any regulation is that of surrounding every structure erected in New York City by a sufficient amount of light and air—which means that the higher a building goes the more it must be disengaged from surrounding buildings. A thirty- or forty-story tower erected in the centre of every business block and separated from all neighboring towers by a sufficient distance would not cause congestion, or in any way endanger the public interest.

What is needed is some rule, similar to that proposed by Mr. Ernest Flagg, which forces a property owner to add to the size of his lot in proportion as he increases the height of his building. The higher the building goes the smaller the proportion of the lot which it may cover. A rule of this kind would very much diminish the number of skyscrapers, particularly in the beginning, while at the same time it would not do away entirely with the economic advantages which may result from their erection. If New York keeps on growing in the future as it has in the past, an immense amount of business will have to be transacted in Manhattan, and provision should be made for its accommodation on the most economical possible terms. Such provisions may well include a certain limited number of very tall buildings. They will add to the industrial efficiency of the city—provided they are not permitted to interfere with one another and with the interests of those owners of real estate whose property is less favorably situated.

Pioneering in Real Estate.

The announcement that Mr. Oscar Hammerstein is to build another opera house in New York, and that it is to be situated on Lexington avenue in the Fifties, will be received with mixed feelings of surprise and doubt at the manager's daring. Mr. Hammerstein has always been a pioneer in the selection of new locations for places of amusement. About twenty-five years ago he constructed the Harlem Opera House, which was the first large modern theatre erected in 125th street. Some years later he was shrewd enough to anticipate the future distinction of Long Acre Square as the theatrical centre of the Borough of Manhattan and erected, if we remember rightly, no less than three theatres in that neighborhood.

When he entered the field of grand opera, he selected a site for his opera house in 34th street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues. No site could have looked less promising; but, in spite of its disadvantages, Mr. Hammerstein made a success of his venture and forced his competitors to buy him out. A site on Lexington avenue, in the Fifties, looks quite as unpromising as a site in 34th street west of Seventh avenue. At present this particular locality is one of the least accessible in Manhattan, because it is not reached by any cross-town surface railway, and its nearest rapid transit line is the Third avenue elevated. After the new subways are in operation, it will be much more accessible, because it will be connected with the whole of the Interborough system. Even then, however, it will not be easy to reach from the West Side; and the West Side must contain a larger proportion of opera patrons in proportion to its population than any other part of the city.

However, Mr. Hammerstein is a law unto himself, and seems to be able to survive more failures and carry more unpromising enterprises through to a successful conclusion than any other business man in the country. In one respect, however, he has always failed. He has never yet built a place of amusement which was not designed and decorated in most atrocious taste. It is very much to be hoped that his new opera house will in this respect constitute an improvement upon its predecessors. It is not to be expected that, considering the location, Mr. Hammerstein will sink very much money into an expensively decorated building; but without spending any more money on the appearance of his building than he has done in the past he can certainly secure very much better results. It is important that he should do so, because New York has become accustomed of late to a higher standard of theatre decoration than that which prevailed when Mr. Hammerstein built his last opera house. Another ugly and vulgar building might cost him a substantial sum in box office receipts.

Reform the State Finances.

Governor Sulzer has made a good start in his difficult and arduous enterprise of introducing economy into the financial system of the State; and it is very much to be hoped that he will fight it out along the lines marked out until he succeeds in introducing some sort of order and efficiency into the spending of the State's money. But he certainly has a long and bitter struggle ahead of him. He will not only have to meet the selfish opposition of those who profit by the prevailing system; he will not only have to make headway against the mere inertia of long-established and easy-going methods; but he will be obliged to force his financial reforms down the throat of an unwilling Legislature. The fact that Governor Sulzer is a Democrat, and that his party possesses a handsome majority in both houses, will in this respect make no difference.

What the Governor has entered upon is at bottom a fight with another department of the government, which has systematically encroached upon the proper and desirable discretionary power which ought to be exercised by the administration. The Legislature of New York, like the legislatures of the other states in the Union, and like the Congress of the United States, has been attempting to do an impossible thing. It has really been trying, by virtue of its control of appropriations, to conduct the executive business of the State; and, in order to make its own control more secure, it has preferred to leave the administration disorganized and to prevent its officials from using any discretion in the expenditure of money. The Legislature, that is, has attempted to establish its control by virtue of legal proscription of administrative action instead of by exercising careful supervision over officials, who were allowed sufficient power to accomplish economical results. Neither will they abandon this practice until they are forced to do so.

It involves one of the most fundamental questions in the American political system—the question of the relation which ought to subsist between the administrative and legislative branches of the government. Heretofore the Governor and the administration generally have been supposed to be merely the servants of the Legislature, in whom was vested the effective responsibility for the government of the State. Governor Sulzer has, however, disputed this assumption by announcing his own leadership and by insisting that the Legislature accept his program of reforming legislation—in which respect he has been merely following in the footsteps of men like ex-President Roosevelt and ex-Governor Hughes. The questions resulting from this fight will soon be placed before the people in a very definite form. They will be asked to decide whether they prefer a system in which a strong executive makes himself responsible for the carrying out of the popular will, or a system in which a Legislature, controlled by a partisan organization, remains the dominant power in the State.

It will be many years before these questions will be finally answered. Some of them will be fought out in the coming constitutional convention, which promises to be an exceptionally interesting gathering; but in all probability that convention will not finally settle them, because public opinion in its attitude towards these problems has not as yet ripened. The advocates of a stronger executive power cannot, however, make their fight upon stronger ground than in insisting upon the necessity for a State budget, in the preparation of which the State administration has the initiative. Such will be the probable result of Governor Sulzer's proposed reform of the New York financial system.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

As last week contributed a striking sale to the market by the purchase of the old buildings at the northwest corner of State and Whitehall streets by William H. Chesebrough and Oakleigh Thorne, so has this week brought a notable purchase in the sale to Oscar Hammerstein of an opera house site surrounding the southeast corner of Lexington avenue and 51st street. This purchase portends a far-reaching change in the neighborhood because of the prominent and unusual character of the proposed improvement in that part of the city. In East 44th street and east of Third avenue a tenement house site was sold for reimprovement with a modern mercantile building. There has been wonderment in many real estate minds as to what the future of the Third avenue neighborhood will be. Business buildings of consequence have so far reached only to Lexington avenue, but the 44th street sale, particulars of which will be found in our news columns, tends to show a movement eventually of business there that will be marked. It illustrates what Borough President McAneny said at a dinner one night this week that eventually all of Manhattan will be given over to trade, and its business men will find their homes in the other boroughs or in the great suburban area contiguous to the city. This East 44th street sale is simply a fresh straw that shows which way the wind is blowing. The sale of 143 Cherry street and of 412 to 416 Water street, which had not changed hands before since 1828, formed an echo of the days when the retail dry goods and clothing business was near the Catherine Street Ferry, and there seemed to be little prospect then of trade moving from that section of the city as there seems now little prospect of trade invading certain other parts of this spacious town. Harlem and Washington Heights were important factors in the dealing of the week just closed. Several elevator apartment houses and numerous private dwellings in those parts of the city were bought. The bulk of the dealing on Manhattan Island just now is north of 59th street. Brooklyn is handling an active real estate market. A notable sale there, which was predicated on the building of the subway through to Fort Hamilton, was the purchase by Desmond Dunne of a block front on Fourth avenue not far from the fort. This veteran real estate speculator and investor evidently foresees a harvest of profit. The Fort Hamilton section is sewered and has all the municipal advantages to attract builders except the quick accessibility to and from Manhattan. Now that the subway contracts are signed, this part of Brooklyn will probably witness the erection of many apartment houses. Nearby is the Shore Road which skirts New York harbor for several miles. Another sale of moment, in Brooklyn, was the purchase, also by Desmond Dunne, of the four-story restaurant building running through from Fulton street to Flatbush avenue close to the junction of the two thoroughfares. Here the great business of Brooklyn is centering. It is understood that the building mentioned will be converted to mercantile uses.

Real Estate Board Protests Against Oppressive Legislation.

The following letter has been addressed to Senator Robert F. Wagner as chairman of the State Factory Investigating Committee by the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York on a subject of the highest importance to real estate interests of the city. It makes plain to the Legislature through Senator Wagner the harm that is being done to property here by the stream of semi-socialistic measures that for several years has been emanating from the Factory Bureau of the State Department of Labor:

Dear Sir:—In reference to Senate Bill No. 1325, providing for fireproofing and alterations in old manufacturing buildings in the City of New York:

The consensus of opinion at the present time among professional real estate men who handle these properties is that this bill is most drastic in its requirements and unnecessarily so, and that the expense to be incurred for necessary changes for fireproofing in old five and six-story business buildings in this city will practically leave the owners no return on their investments in real estate, and perhaps in some cases it will be prohibitive of any tenancy that would be profitable, except for lines of business like storage, etc., which means a greatly reduced rental, and necessarily a reduced capitalized value which must be reflected in the assessment roll.

The Real Estate Board of Brokers desires to enter a protest against the passage of this bill in its present form as being unduly severe and calling for a set of revised factory conditions in old buildings of five and six-story type not warranted by the facts.

We desire also to call your attention to the flood of more or less socialistic mandatory legislation now before the Senate and Assembly relating to real estate, all of which seems based on the idea that owners of realty in this city are not public-spirited citizens; that they are getting more than substantial return on their investments, and that somehow they are taking advantage of the public necessities, and are, therefore, a fit subject for exploitation for the public benefit.

We are not taking the position of demanding a stop to this present course of legislative action; we are not asking you as a favor to use your efforts to that end, except in the personal sense where the favor would be appreciated; but we are saying to you that this present-day action of the Legislature must stop or the assets on which the public depends for its taxation returns will be irreparably damaged, and this effect will be not only personal to those whom we represent but it will have its political bearings as well.

As agents for owners of realty in the City of New York, we cannot conceive that we have so neglected our business or theirs that we should be visited by the many afflictions which it is the Legislature's apparent purpose to visit upon us. If our habitations or factories are not perfect, please bear in mind that we have no perfect tenants to put in them, nor perfect agents to run them, and I again beg to say to you that we neither demand nor beg for relief.

We state to you in all friendliness that there must be a stop put to legislation that amounts to oppression and that is tremendously destructive to values in this city. It is on record that Samson pulled down the pillars of the temple to his own destruction. The Legislature may do the same with real estate, but our injury is not to the benefit of either city or State, or to the people of New York.

If we could be advised of when there is to be a hearing in committee on this bill we should like to send a delegation to present our view of the matter as professional real estate agents to your committee.

E. A. TREDWELL, President.
New York, March 27.

Bills Enacted at Albany.

The present session of the Legislature has until now been occupied mainly with committee work. A considerable number of important measures have been received from sources outside the Legislature, and several have been drawn up by committees in charge of special investigations. As yet, however, few bills have been actually passed and signed by the Governor. The list of new laws of special interest to the professions connected with real estate and building in New York City is particularly short. It comprises the following acts, designated by their chapter numbers in the Laws of 1913:

Chapter 90—By Assemblyman Denney, amending sections 1 and 2 of chapter 676, Laws of 1907, entitled "An Act to authorize the extension of Riverside Park, in the City of New York, by filling in certain land under water so as to permit the construction therein of a water gate and monument to Robert Fulton, the inventor of steam navigation, by the corporation known as the Robert Fulton Monument Association of the City of New York."

Chap. 62—By Assemblyman Kennedy, to grant to the City of New York certain lands under water in Flushing Bay and Flushing Creek and vicinity and providing for the improvement thereof.

Chap. 100—By Senator Carswell, amending section 4 of chapter 4 of the Laws of 1891, entitled "An Act to provide for rapid transit railways in cities of over one million inhabitants," in relation to exempted parts of the Borough of Brooklyn.

Chap. 88—By Assemblyman J. D. Kelly, amending section 11, Lien Law, in relation to service of copy of notice.

Chap. 55—By Senator Foley, to amend sections 67, 68 and 70 of the Real Property Law, in relation to creation and division of estates.

Chap. 76—By Assemblyman Levy, adding new section 982a to Code of Civil Procedure, relating to the place of trial of actions to recover damages for injuries to real estate situated without the State.

Chap. 49—By Senator Ramsperger, to amend section 172 of the Insurance Law in relation to the by-laws of title, credit guaranty and securities guaranty corporations.

Chap. 81—By Assemblyman Walker, amending section 170 of the Insurance Law, in relation to the capital of title, credit guaranty and securities guaranty corporations.

Chap. 82—By Senator Wagner, amending section 84 of the Labor Law, in relation to cleanliness of workrooms in factories.

Robert Speir Fleet.

Robert Speir Fleet, who died last Sunday, at his residence, 85 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, at the age of 79 years, was all his life one of the largest property owners in Brooklyn. With his brother, Clarence C. Fleet, he owned practically all of the block front in the north side of Fulton street, from Fleet place to Duffield street, and the valuable block front on DeKalb avenue from Fleet place to Gold street, besides many scattered parcels in the vicinity. The Fleets have seldom sold a parcel of real estate and most of it is well rented. They have been very conservative managers of their property.

All of the Fleet holdings comprise part of the old farm of Samuel S. Fleet, which fronted in Fulton street, at Duffield street, and extended north almost to the Navy Yard. When Brooklyn began to grow in its early years the Fleet farm was absorbed by city blocks and improvements. The old Fleet farmhouse in Fulton street was torn down in the early seventies; and the chairs in the office of Mr. Fleet, who has just died, were made from the wood of button-ball trees that surrounded the old homestead. A fine water-color picture of the place hung on the wall of the office. Fleet place and Fleet street are named for the family. The deceased was married many years ago to Miss Josephine Kalbfleisch, daughter of Martin Kalbfleisch, who was Mayor of Brooklyn during the Civil War, and subsequently a Representative in Congress. Mr. and Mrs. Fleet had lived in the old brick mansion of Martin Kalbfleisch, at the foot of Bushwick avenue, Williamsburg, all their married life; and, although the neighborhood has deteriorated, they maintained the house in the style of one in the finest part of the borough. Mr. Fleet was born in the old Fleet farmhouse on December 23, 1833. In his early life he was a member of the famous Excelsior Baseball Nine. He was an uncle of the late surgeon, Dr. S. Fleet Speir, to whom Brooklyn has erected a statue on Prospect Park Plaza. Mr. Fleet is survived only by his widow and brother.

Building Encroachments in The Bronx.

Borough President Miller of The Bronx gave a hearing on the matter of eliminating architectural projections along Third, Washington and Tremont avenues on Tuesday evening at the North Side Board of Trade rooms. Albert E. Davis, former president of the Board of Trade; Joseph Harris Jones, former Superintendent of Buildings; Thomas D. Malcom, and others, spoke in opposition. At the conclusion of the hearing the Borough President said he would take no further action in the matter for a week.

—Pending the reconstruction and full completion of the Steinway Tunnel, the Public Service Commission has ordered the Interborough to put it in temporary operation. Under the contract the tunnel will become the property of the city, but provision is made for its temporary operation. Passengers will be transferred free to the subway at 42d street and Park avenue.

—The electrification of the Belt Line railroad, which is now run by horse power, will have a good effect on real estate values along West street. The difficulty of getting about on this busy street has long deterred building improvements.

—A. L. Dean will be the manager of the new Adams Express Building now being built at the corner of Broadway and Exchange Alley. The building is to be thirty-five stories. Francis H. Kimball is the architect. Mr. Dean has resigned as vice president of the City Investing Co.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Building Financiers Point Out Effect of Floods Upon the Loan Market; But All Are Optimistic Over Future.

Mild Winter Will Bring Early Crops and Consequent Quick Recovery From Unexpected Drain Upon Securities Markets in the East—Delays in Shipments and Higher Prices Expected.

BUILDING material wholesalers and distributors in this market were considerably worried this week as to the condition of the supply in lumber, steel and stone when the full extent of the Southern floods and storms becomes known. Already forward orders are being taken subject to delay, and prices are quoted subject to rise. In the Hudson valley reports continue to come in, showing that floods are expected in the vicinity of the brick plants and cement mills, while early thaws down East have seriously interfered with logging operations.

At a time when the lumber market promised, because of subway and other heavy construction, the biggest volume of business in recent years, the possible crippling of lumber manufacturing plants along the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers makes it almost a certainty that prices will move up sharply, especially since the full spring shipments have not yet arrived here, as deliveries are delayed because of the scarcity of vessels and cars. Now that the railroads are tied up by washouts, this puts the bulk of the lumber shipping business upon ships whose rates only recently were advanced because the demand was greater than the supply.

In the structural steel market general perplexity prevailed since Wednesday. It was a question of just how long deliveries would be held up because of crippled railroad bridges and roadbeds and how much damage the big Pittsburgh mills will have sustained by the floods and fires.

For the most part, Eastern agents are inclined to think that damage to the steel plants will be slight, owing to advantageous positions, but it is probable that relief trains will have the right of way over the roads upon which steel shipments normally are made and that building operations depending upon uniform shipments from the mills all over the country will be temporarily tied up.

Indiana and Ohio stone interests here are of the opinion that work on the quarries will be somewhat delayed as a result of the floods, but there is a fair quantity of rough stone in hand in this market at present, and the only serious thing that the stone men have to worry about is the promptness of deliveries pending the normal operation of freight roads.

Metal ceiling, wire lath and wire concrete reinforcement interests also were concerned regarding the condition of their plants, but consumers need have little worry regarding the supply for these commodities, because the metal ceiling agents here carry large stocks, the wire lath interests have a fair reserve, and the Waverly stores have an adequate supply of mesh reinforcement.

There need be no apprehension regarding floods in the common brick districts, although the front-brick interests were not so free from concern. Most of the Pennsylvania front-brick plants are situated advantageously, and damage to their plants is not expected to be serious. Delays in delivery may be expected, however, and prices may stiffen slightly. The common brick making season has not yet opened and probably will not until the latter part of next month or the first of May. The only cause for worry in regard to flood damage on the common brick yards is the gullying of the yards and the damage that might be sustained by barges. The Raritan River interests are on a tributary of the Raritan River itself, and are not therefore subject to serious flood damage, even though the rivers rise considerably.

Financiers who lend money on building operations foresee a possible temporary restriction of building loans because of heavy withdrawal of savings bank deposits by relatives who will have to succor fire and flood victims. This may mean the calling in of some loans, if this tendency proves to become general, and the local security market may suffer for a while, especially if insurance companies come into the market for cash before the money market can adjust itself to the unexpected strain.

But, despite the depressing ramifications of the market, building financiers were inclined to be optimistic. The country is prosperous; the mild winter will result in early crops, which will mean a quick recovery from the unexpected drain upon national resources, and, as the present leasing market is sufficiently strong to indicate that there has been no serious over-supply of buildings, these authorities whose opinions are worth having because of their intimate relations with various factors of prosperity, cannot see any reason for even a temporary financial depression following the Western disasters.

STEEL DELIVERIES CHECKED?
Floods at Pittsburgh May Hinder Shipments Temporarily.

CONSTRUCTION interests depending upon shipments of steel from Pittsburgh mills were considerably worried this week upon receipt of news of the floods in Pennsylvania and Ohio. The chief concern is in the matter of getting deliveries by rail out of the flooded district. Some of the steel companies here were unable to give any definite information as to just how they would be able to take care of steel shipments due in the Eastern market between the first and fifteenth of April, and in view of the fact that commercial connection was practically out of the question they said that it was entirely impossible that there would be delay in Eastern shipments.

Eastern consumers of pig iron were also face to face with the same problem, but the railroad companies give assurances that unless the damage of bridges and roadbeds is extremely extensive, they will be able to resume all building metal deliveries within fifteen days. Further advices will be given to consumers on this matter when the extent of the disaster becomes known.

It is impossible at this writing to get information as to the extent of the damage, if any, to the steel mills in Pittsburgh. The general information here was to the effect that, owing to advantageous location, the mills themselves would be undisturbed, but this was merely conjecture.

PORTLAND CEMENT FIRMING.
Stiffening Tone Noted Sharply After Signing of Subway Contracts.

PORTLAND cement interests now say that there is little doubt that dollar cement will prevail at the Lehigh district mills within the near future. The tremendous demand in sight as a result of the final signing of the subway contracts makes it entirely possible that this prophesy will prove to be true.

There are signs, however, in the market of a leak in the harmony plan which was originally expected to follow the strengthening of the cement market. There are some reports that prices will not remain absolutely uniform and the rumor is gaining circulation that some interests will resort to shading if certain conditions develop.

The situation is described by one Portland cement man as follows: "At the present time the demand is about equal to the supply throughout the whole country. Mill equipment, however, has been neglected for some time and most of the plants are in a poor state of efficiency. It will, therefore, require some time to put these plants into a position to make standard grades of Portland cement economically, and until then these plants will have to buck the big companies at a disadvantage. It is no longer a question of producing cement in the required quantity, but rather one of producing cement at the lowest possible cost in order to clear even a moderate profit in a good market."

Current prices in New York are $1.58, with a ten cents repaid for each bag returned. This makes mill prices approximately 90 cents, although not all brands are selling at this high figure. Rosendale natural is selling at 90 cents.

FLOODS MENACE LUMBER MILLS.
Distributors Here Worried Over Prospect of Getting Supplies.

THE probable flooding of the lower Mississippi lumber districts and the mills along the Missouri, following the Ohio calamity, had a decided influence this week preparing the way for higher lumber prices in all grades coming from the South and Southwest. The distributors seemed to feel that when the head waters approach the Gulf damage will be done that will cripple the lumber supply for a prolonged period. Relief trains naturally will have the right-of-way for some time to come, both into the Northwest and into the Ohio and Miss.ssippi valleys, even after the bridges and railroad tracks have been repaired.

Mills may be either practically wiped out in many districts. If so it will be a month before they can get them into shape again to manufacture building orders. In the interim the wood probably will be wet and it will necessitate redrying wherever this is possible and in the meanwhile distributors here in this market will be inclined to hold their available stocks on rising prices until they can see their way to get new supplies.

Just how soon this change in quotations will take place no one among the dealers or wholesalers would make the prediction this week. Fortunately, there recently arrived in this district heavy spring deliveries so that the quantity of lumber available on the yards is about normal. Structural timber, however, is scarce.

But the wholesalers are chiefly concerned about what is to occur in this market in the latter part of the summer and early fall, when new building construction will be under progress with the lumber market exceedingly tight on prices. The present status of the market as shown by investigations since the reports were received of the flood conditions in the Lehigh and other big river valleys are:

Hardwood—Market is decidedly firm, prices held stiffly at lists with future orders subject to premium. Oak is exceptionally stiff. The supply in the local market is limited. Maple may advance a dollar at once. Hemlock is expected to move from 50 cents to $1 on next month's lists.

North Carolina pine is fairly plentiful, and good sized shipments are enroute to this port. Forward shipments of this kind of pine, however, will be seriously delayed. Premiums probably will rule on preferred movements.

Northern spruce is in fair supply. It is also held in fair reserves at manufacturing centers, but the difficulty here is in getting shipments by rail. Bottom rates have moved up sharply on both sail and steam carriers.

Cypress manufacturers are in a little more advantageous position as far as shipments are concerned.

WEATHER CHECKS BRICK DEMAND.
Little Construction Work in Progress Owing to Heavy Rains.

WEATHER conditions checked the demand for brick this week. Prices are unchanged and the cargoes under cover are slowly going out, there being only 2 left on Wednesday.

Reports of flood conditions in the upper Hudson Valley had a tendency to worry the dealers here a little, but it can be safely stated that the worst that could happen to the Kingston, Newburgh and Haverstraw districts would be the possible damages to barges. So far as brick is concerned, there is enough here in the market to take care of immediate demand and enough in shed to provide the market with brick until the yards can be resurfaced if gulfed seriously by heavy rains or floods. No increase in the price of brick need be anticipated on this account.

Official transactions for North River common brick during the last week with records covering the corresponding week last year follow:

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Brokerage Sales, Leases and Public Auctions

Important Sales, in Various Sections, Characterized the Week.

The real estate market this week displayed good form. Washington Heights and Harlem were well identified with the movement. Some elevator apartment houses changed hands, and several plots were sold for improvement with that kind of buildings. Our news columns will show some important leases. Oscar Hammerstein bought a site for an opera house at Lexington avenue and 51st street. The boroughs of the Bronx and Brooklyn were fruitful of good transactions. In fact, the entire metropolitan real estate market is in good condition.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 39.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 15, against 8 last week and 28 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 24, compared with 30 last week and 28 a year ago.

From The Bronx 17 sales at private contract were reported, against 14 last week and 11 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,029,320, compared with $651,870 last week, making a total since January 1 of $14,098,955. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $4,083,-057, making the total since January 1, 1912, $11,299,491.

Site for Modern Building Sold.

The sale of a plot in East 44th street this week would seem to indicate a tendency for builders of modern business structures to go east of Third avenue, whereas the movement along this line so far has been primarily in the vicinity of Lexington avenue. Gustave E. Walter sold through Victor Freund & Sons, Inc., to Henry Hof 305 and 307 East 44th street, two old brick tenement houses, on a plot 53.4x100.5, 100 feet east of Third avenue. The buyer has resold the site to builders who will reimprove it with a modern mercantile building.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

Manhattan—South of 59th Street.

CHERRY ST.—The Ruland & Whiting Co sold for Mary Owen Borden and William H. Owen, Jr., 143 Cherry st, a 5-sty building on a lot 25x60, running through to 412 to 416 Water st, where there is a 2-sty building on a plot 75x60. After extensive alterations the buyer will occupy the property. This is the first sale of 143 Cherry and 416 Water st since 1828, when it was acquired by the late Henry S. Brooks, founder of Brooks Bros., clothiers. In 1843 he increased his holdings by purchasing 412 and 414 Water st. Modern Improvements

Isn't it true that ofttimes some small modern improvement goes a long way towards selling and renting your houses?

Take for example the plan that has recently been adopted by some builders of placing in newly built apartment houses electric washing machines and outlets in the kitchen for electric ironing and cooking.

Does any one doubt, all other things being equal, that these apartments are the ones that will be sold or rented first?

Families of today are educated to demand the comforts and conveniences of electric service, and they are quick to see the advantage of living in an apartment that will minimize the drudgery of housekeeping.

We have other ideas along these same lines. Drop us a line and we will talk them over with you.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Public and Local Works Contemplated in the Greater City.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

One or more hearings are granted in connection with all proposed improvements. In the case of local improvements, the first hearing is by the Local Board. Such hearings are noted in this news department of the Record and Guide under the general head of Local Board Calendars. Hearings by all other bodies are noted in the present column.

In acquiring title to land for streets, sewers, parks, approaches to bridges, etc., condemnation proceedings are commonly resorted to. A proceeding having been authorized by the Board of Estimate, the Corporation Counsel makes application to the Supreme Court for the appointment of three commissioners. If the cost of the land is to be paid wholly or in part by property owners benefited, the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and assessment. They hold their meetings at the Bureau of Street Openings, a clerical and legal organization under the supervision of the Corporation Counsel charged with the management of all legal proceedings which involve awards for damages or assessments for benefit to land.

If the cost of the land is to be paid by the city as a whole, as in the case of school sites, dock property, etc., the commissioners are known as commissioners of estimate and appraisal, whose place of meeting is at 258 Broadway.

In the case of assessments for local improvements of a physical nature which do not have to be confirmed by a court of record, the assessments come before three permanent commissioners appointed by the Mayor. They constitute the Board of Assessors, which has to do with assessments for such improvements as the regulating and grading of streets, the laying of sewers, etc.

By the Board of Estimate.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

NEW YORK, APRIL 5, 1913

THE RAILROAD GRAB OF HEIGHTS FRONTAGE

An Enormous Freight Yard to Fringe Riverside Drive—Realty Interests Protesting, Fearing the Destruction of Values—An Alternative Plan Proposed.

UNDER the terms of the convention that has been arranged between a committee of the Board of Estimate and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company an enormous freight yard will be built to extend from 137th street northward to 153d, and from the present right-of-way westward to the river. Already there is a storage yard in the locality, but it has only a fraction of the dimensions of the terminal which the committee agrees the railroad company may build there.

Nearly a mile in length and with a width sufficient for forty tracks, all uncovered and filled with shrieking locomotives and rumbling, creaking and bumping cars, emitting smoke, gases and smells, this freight yard will not only interpose itself between the residents of Riverside Drive and their view of the river, but it will attract to the place teamsters and freight handlers in large numbers. In the opinion of real estate owners of Washington Heights there is no uncertainty about what the consequence will be to adjacent property interests.

Taxpayers Wronged.

One million two hundred thousand dollars the property owners of Washington Heights paid for the extension of Riverside Drive northward from Claremont. The assessment ran into thousands of dollars in individual cases, but the people willingly paid the price because of the pledge the city was giving, to forever hold and protect the grand parkway for public use. Large investments of capital have been made for real estate improvements of a high character under the belief that both the scenic outlook and the refinements of the neighborhood would be sacredly guarded. Mass meetings of realty interests have been held during the present week at which protests were voiced and committees appointed to see what can be done.

As an instance of an attempted betrayal of the people in the negotiations with the railroad company the West End Association refers to the bill now pending in the Legislature to destroy the trusteeship for the lands under water acquired in 1894 for the extension of Riverside Drive, in order that those lands may be commercialized and given in part to the New York Central Railroad Company.

The subject of the West Side terminal improvements proposed by the committee of the Board of Estimate in the final report just made is a very large one and. except for a brief explanation of the general purport of the report, the present narrative will be confined to one particular phase of the improvements which the committee will ask the people to approve on next Tuesday at the public hearing at the City Hall which the Board of Estimate will then give. For three years the city has been considering plans for the abolition of "Death avenue" and the necessary reorganization of the harbor facilities intertwined with that proposition. This is the problem: If you take the railroad tracks off the surface of the West Side avenues, where will you place them?

Tomkins' Plan Rejected.

Four plans were proposed, one by the Dock Commissioner, Hon. Calvin Tomkins, one by the New York Central, a third by the Engineering Advisory Committee of the Board of Estimate, and the fourth by the Consulting Engineer of the Borough of the Bronx. The plan of the Dock Commissioner is rejected by the committee for the stated reason that it is predicated upon the assumption that all the Jersey roads will consent to bring all their freight by car-float to the 30th street floatbridges and then lead it down by rail over the tracks of a marginal railway to the southern part of Manhattan Island. This the committee believes to be uneconomical, impracticable and impossible of realization. The Jersey roads, one and all, unequivocally decline to join in the operation of an elevated terminal railway.

Other Plans Laid Aside.

The reasons urged against the plan of the Dock Commissioner apply with equal force against the plan first submitted by the New York Central. The plan for unit water terminals submitted by the Engineering Advisory Committee is laid aside because the committee does not consider that the city should take a definite position at the present time in regard to the matter of unit water terminals, as proposed in this plan.

While the committee considers the plan of the Consulting Engineer of the Borough of the Bronx as the most promising of the three plans for a marginal railroad on or above the surface, two serious objections have been urged against it. Every pound of freight carried to and from the waterfront would have to be lifted over the elevated road, so to speak, and moreover the cost of the improvement would be prohibitive.

President Miller's Plan Approved.

The committee has found, however, that it can approve a plan submitted by the President of the Borough of the Bronx for a portion of the region north of 30th street and it makes acknowledgment of the value of the suggestion for this district.

Since the submission of the plans indicated above the Legislature passed a law (Chapter 777 of the Laws of 1911) providing that the New York Central might prepare and file with the city plans for the development of its system from the city line southward, to include the elimination of surface operation south of 59th street, and that the city might prepare counter plans; and the act further provides that the Board of Estimate and the railroad company may come to an agreement upon the basis of either set of plans or a compromise.

Pursuant to the statute, the New York Central prepared elaborate plans for the expansion of its system to a six-track trunk line from the city line southward to 72d street, and for the elimination of surface operation south of 59th street. The Board of Estimate, on its part, appointed a committee, which has been negotiating with the railroad company with the following objects in view:

(1) The discontinuance of the occupation of public streets by the railroad tracks at grade.

(2) Such municipal improvements as can be effected as part of or incident to the proposed change of location or grade for the railroad tracks.

(3) Enlarged and improved railroad facilities for the shippers of the city.

Points in the Agreement.

Having all these objects in view the committee found it necessary and desirable to suggest various changes in the railroad company's plans, and certain agreements have been reached, which are the subject of the final report upon which a hearing will be held next Tuesday. The railroad company is now making new plans in accordance with the agreement.

The starting point for the improvements is necessarily at Spuyten Duyvil, where the railroad crosses the ship canal by a bridge only six feet above high water. The first thing the committee suggested was to raise this bridge up to 24 feet above high-water mark, and this introduced a long chain of other improvements.

It has been decided to deflect the tracks at Inwood Hill, to the east, inland under the brow of the hill, cover them over and tunnel to some extent without changing the contour of the hill except at one point. A big freight yard will be established immediately south of Dyckman street. Part of the land needed will be leased from the city for a ten-year term. Dyckman street will be carried over the tracks on a higher grade, and the higher grade will extend practically nearly all the way back to Broadway.

Through Fort Washington Park, the plans of the railroad company show a four-track main line, instead of the present two tracks, and these are to be carried in a tunnel, as originally suggested by Reginald Pelham Bolton, C. E., on behalf of the citizens, and later by an advisory subcommittee consisting of Arnold W. Brunner, Frederick Law Olmsted and Charles D. Lay. It has been agreed to exchange with the city the fee of the existing right-of-way through Fort Washington Park for a perpetual subsurface easement for railroad purposes. The estimate of the cost of constructing the tunnels on the new alignment is $1,800,000, while an open cut would cost about $300,000. South of 161st street the railroad company will extend the ends of existing piers and there will be a readjustment of pierhead lines so as to leave a clear marginal way one hundred feet wide.

A Freight Yard Along Riverside Drive.

This brings us down to 153d street, from which latitude the New York Central will build a great railroad terminal yard extending down to 137th street, in front of a section of Riverside Drive completed but two or three years ago and which has been largely fringed with high class apartment houses. As a part of the new adjustment the company is willing to sell to the city about two blocks of land under water now owned by it, between 151st and 163d streets. The amended plan will give the city a continuous waterfront strip between 145th and 153d streets. The committee further recommends that the land in this yard owned by the city be granted to the company for railroad purposes only, that the height of buildings erected therein shall not exceed sixteen feet, and that the railroad yard shall not be used at any time for cattle.

Property Owners Protest.

These prohibitions do not overcome the objections to this proposed terminal, which is believed to be unnecessary and will be destructive of real estate values, and do great harm to Riverside Park and Drive. The Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association has, from the first, opposed the establishment of a freight terminal and an exposed and elevated freight railway along Riverside Drive between 135th and 153d streets.

The association has taken the point that all the needs of the locality and of the railroad can be met by the establishment of a covered terminal enclosing the space east of the easterly side of Twelfth avenue, which avenue should be extended from 135th street, where it now terminates, to 155th street, where another small section of the same avenue is in existence.

The Bolton Alternative Plan.

The association prepared and presented a plan for the re-alignment of the railroad which would overcome all the difficulties and objections arising from the freight yard and the elevated freight railroad. This plan provides for the diversion of the railroad at 150th street to a new line to the east of the present right of way, but tunneling under Riverside Park and Drive, bringing the railroad, upon a one per cent. grade, up to a position immediately under the present Riverside Viaduct which now crosses the Manhattanville Valley over Twelfth avenue. There is room under this viaduct for four to five tracks upon an elevated structure which can be constructed and carried upon the present piers. This line would then be extended by tunnel under Claremont and would reach the grade of the present tracks at about 119th street.

The arrangement is shown upon the accompanying plan which was prepared for the association by R. P. Bolton, head of the R. P. Bolton Company, consulting engineers, of 55 Liberty street. The scheme would afford, for terminal purposes, a space extending from West 150th street to West 138th street, of irregular shape, but of an extreme width of 200 feet at West 147th street, narrowing down to its extreme southerly point, but providing a total length for trackage of two thousand feet. It is considered that this area, which would be open on its westerly side to Twelfth avenue, would be a far better and more accessible form of terminal than the proposed freight yard as shown upon the railroad company's plan. The scheme affords access both from the north and south to the terminal, and Twelfth avenue as extended can be reached at 138th street, 145th street and 158th street.

So far as the disposition of land exterior to the line of Twelfth avenue is concerned, some part is now owned by the railroad, but most of this is land under water, and the title to it is really owned by the City of New York. This space would be available for park purposes from a point north of 135th street to the present commercial development at 155th street.

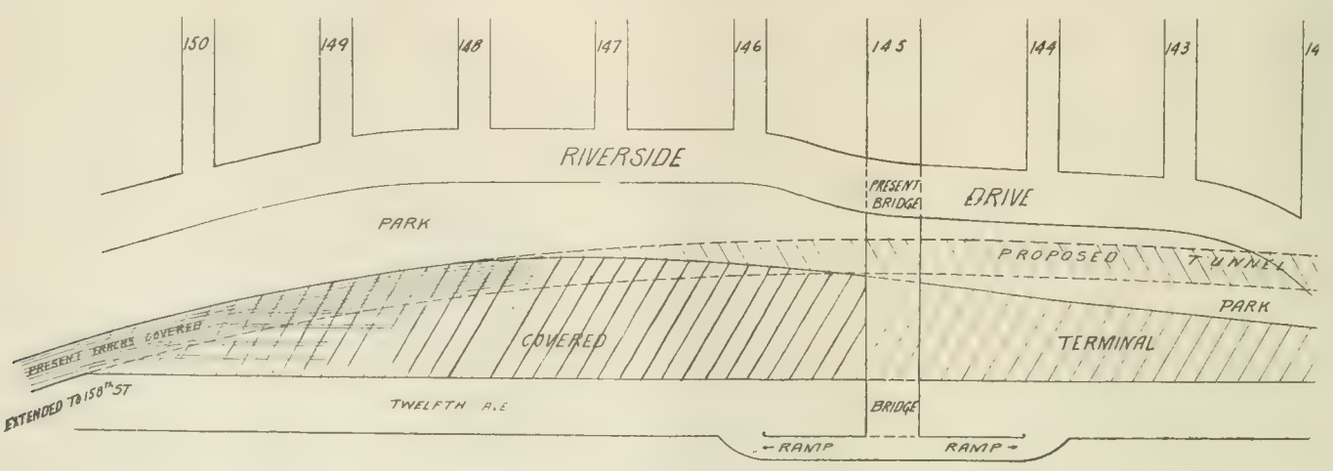
Through Park Lands.

Between Claremont avenue and 72d street the tracks of the railroad will be covered. At 72d street the throat of the railroad yard at that point will be 379 feet wide to permit of twenty-six tracks. At 79th street the yard will be 149 feet wide, and the height of the shed over the tracks will be 22 feet. This will mean a broad, flat surface of park area between 72d and 79th streets, instead of the present beautiful wooded slopes. Between 59th and 44th streets it is proposed that the railroad company construct a roof over its entire right of way, which will constitute the surface of the new Twelfth avenue. Between these points the road will be deflected through private property. It is proposed that the railroad company shall entirely at its own expense, both as to construction and cost of grade damages, change the grade of each street between 59th and 44th streets. South of 30th street the company consents to construct, at its own exclusive expense, a two-track subway, beginning at 30th street, under the bed of Tenth avenue to 15th street, thence under the surface of the present Gansevoort Market site to the head of Washington street, thence under the bed of Washington street to Canal, to Varick, to the new and extended St. John's Park yard.

The Board of Estimate Committee is composed of John Purroy Mitchel, William A. Prendergast, George McAneny, Nelson P. Lewis.

Brooklyn's Big Baseball Building.

On Saturday last, by invitation of C. R. Van Buskirk, whose firm, Van Buskirk & Leslie, are the architects of the buildings now nearing completion at the baseball grounds, Franklin avenue and Sullivan street, Brooklyn, members of the New York Society of Architects paid a visit to the works.



After partaking of luncheon, Mr. Van Buskirk conducted his fellow members over the various parts of the gigantic structure, which is the largest of its kind in the world, having a seating capacity for 30,000 spectators, with standing room for 40,000 more. The main construction is steel and concrete, with exterior facing of variegated brick and terra cotta.

The upper tiers are reached by gradients of one in six. A principal feature of the building is the immense rotunda, forming the entrance to the three galleries, access to which is so arranged that the different grades of spectators are kept entirely separate after leaving the pay windows. This rotunda has a clear span of 80 feet, and is finished in Italian marble.

The administration offices, waiting rooms, toilets, etc., are very complete and admirably arranged for the purpose they are intended to fulfil. The total cost of the buildings is $375,000.

Among the architects in the party were Messrs. B. Driesler, A. E. Fischer, A. Goldberg, H. Holder, Mr. McIntyre, C. W. Mullin, L. Samenfeld, S. Sass, C. Schubert, E. Wherlin, C. B. White, and W. Volckening.

—No legislation has yet been introduced at Albany at this session requiring two means of egress for each and every suite in fireproof apartment houses, as was anticipated last summer. But the session is not ended.

AN INCREMENT TAX WOULD STOP SPECULATION

If Real Estate Should Fail Them, Where Could Thrifty Folk Invest Their Savings?—A Long Chain of Evils Would Attend a Surtax.

THE palpable injustice of imposing any additional tax burdens upon real estate in any form causes one to hesitate in even seriously considering the proposed tax upon unearned values, and yet when such a suggestion came from the Commission on New Sources of City Revenue the matter was forced upon our attention. It does not require a statistician to show that the investor in real estate who holds it over a long period of years, even in a community of rising values, does not secure so great a return as legitimate investors in other kinds of property. This does not mean that fortunes have not been accumulated in real estate, but even where this has occurred the instances have been exceptional and due to other causes than the rate of return to the investor.

The thrifty are inclined to look upon land ownership with favor. Some of the reasons for the low rate of return are obvious and the chief reason arises from excessive taxation. The practical difficulties of administering tax laws directed against other classes of property tend inevitably to place a greater burden upon a kind of property easily reached. The real-estate owner usually derives his profit from speculation, pure and simple, but speculation involves risk, and to deprive one of the possible profit due to temporary fluctuations in value would be to remove the last incentive to land ownership and development.

Incomes from Property Decreasing.

This is a period of national prosperity and yet income dependent upon the use of real estate has been steadily diminishing during the past decade, and it is clear that diminishing returns from land ownership are due to some causes other than the fair distribution of wealth in an admittedly prosperous community. If these causes do not appear upon the surface on analysis, they may be traced to taxation.

Material prosperity appears in our great national resources, the immense production from farm, mine and factory, which are showing a steady increase from year to year. In the distribution of the vast wealth thus accumulated labor has been receiving its full share and this is clearly shown in improved living conditions among the wage earning classes. In all progressive nations the value of day laborers' work increases as well as the capacity of their employers to pay them, but at the same time, as a rule, and at least relatively speaking, the supply of labor diminishes on account of the increase in cost of production of workmen and the growth of a leisure class.

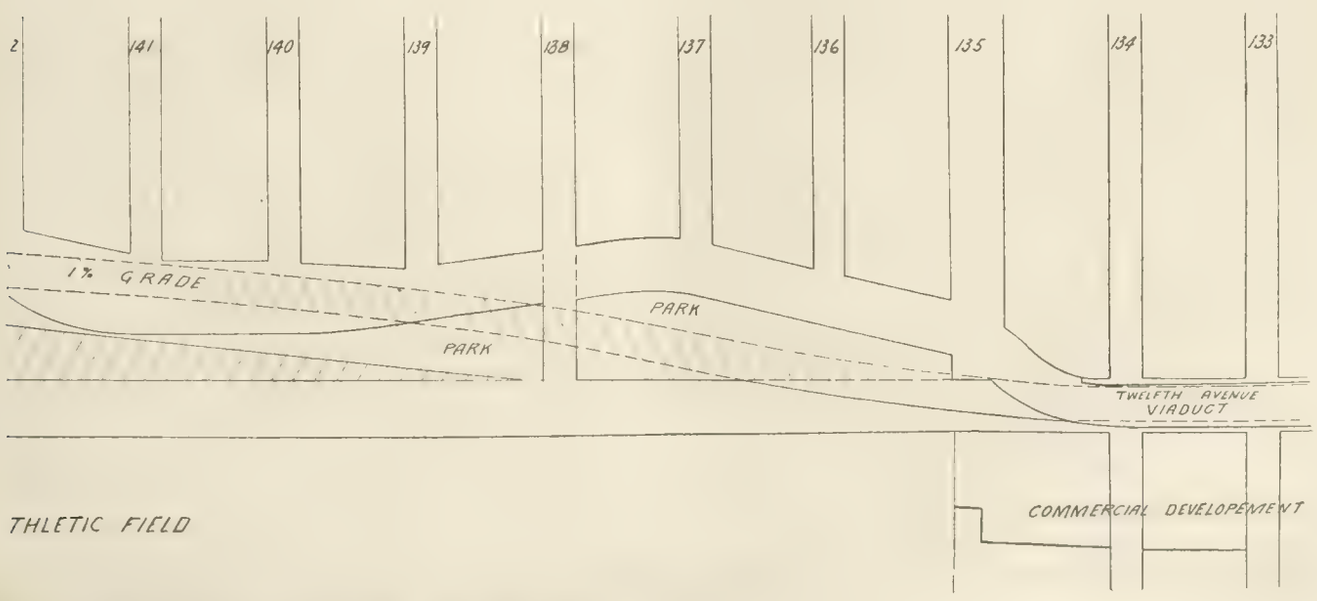
High Rents Not Due to Landlords.

The high cost of living to-day is pointed to by the labor unions as making high wages imperative. However true this may be, our workmen are not subjected to the necessity of accepting distress prices for work, which happens in nations in their decline and in overpopulated nations. Whatever the cause and significance of the high prices for food, any increase in the cost of living has in no way operated in favor of the landlord, but greatly to his disadvantage. The present scale of high prices is in a measure traceable to bad banking methods and the general inefficiency of labor, and not to increasing rents, for it is unquestionably true that in a distribution of accumulated wealth land owners are receiving less than their share, and that the smaller purchasing power of a dollar is here felt more than by any other class in the community.

Now, if land already overburdened is to be subjected to a new tax based upon the unearned increment, and owners are to be deprived of any increase in value due to community conditions beyond the control of an individual, some provision must in justice be made for their compensation when values are necessarily reduced, as so often happens. The evidences of such losses in our city are abundant.

Depreciation of Values.

The downtown business section, from Canal to 23rd street, has suffered serious losses in assessed valuations nearly enough, many think, to offset the unusual increases in the Fourth avenue and Fifth avenue sections. In many parts of the city speculation has led to overbuilding, and this too is a condition which the individual land-owner cannot control. Unless, therefore, the last incentive to real estate ownership is to be removed, no argument can be found to justify the new so-called increment tax.



Community ownership may be justified, but to deprive individual ownership of every possible advantage and profit offends one's sense of justice. It means confiscation and the driving out of capital, and cannot fail to retard growth in a progressive city.

For these reasons, therefore, the so-called increment tax would be unjust and arbitrary. Here, as elsewhere, injustice will breed dissatisfaction, and the result cannot fail to retard a healthy development.

City and Country Costs.

For newcomers, where to live in New York and its suburbs, is a problem which takes years to solve to their satisfaction. This is as true of wealthy families as of those who are limited to a moderate expenditure, and as true of bachelor men and women as of families. Apartment house life seems pinched and incomplete to those who have had spacious homes and grounds in the country, yet, where shall a home be found in the suburbs that will respond to every requirement? While rents are apparently higher in town, they yet include the cost of heat; and, if one lives in the suburbs, there is the cost of daily transportation to be added to the sum of the coal bill, the water tax, and the rent. Holiday trips of observation to one quarter or another, in and out of town, fail to find the ideal conditions. The real secret of getting along will be found in making a compromise, on the old principle that one can't get all he wants in one spot.

BEST TYPES OF WAGE-EARNERS' HOUSES

Advantages of the Tenement, the Two-Family House and the Single Family Dwelling Compared—Getting More Than Three Rooms on a Floor*

By JOHN IHLDER, Field Secretary National Housing Association.

IN order to bring a discussion on the best types of wage-earners' houses within practical limits, it is necessary to eliminate at the beginning some of the things which have a powerful influence in determining types, but which themselves are so big and complicated that they require special treatment. Among these are cost of building, public regulations, the width and arrangement of streets, accessibility, land values and lot units, each of which must be treated at some length, if at all. So in this paper they will be simply mentioned in passing.

Further, in order that there may be no confusion of mind, it is well to state at the beginning that this paper deals only with new houses, not at all with the remodeling of old houses, with houses designed for more or less permanent occupancy by families; not for transients or individuals, that it is written with the unskilled laborer as with the skilled artisan in mind, that it seeks to set practical standards, not to picture a modern Utopia.

Divisions of the Subject.

With these limitations I would divide the subject in two ways, first, as to location—whether in an already closely built section of a city, or on its more sparsely settled outskirts, or in a village; second, as to character—whether tenement (three or more families), two or one family houses. The second and third of these classes are sub-divided into rows, semi-detached and detached.

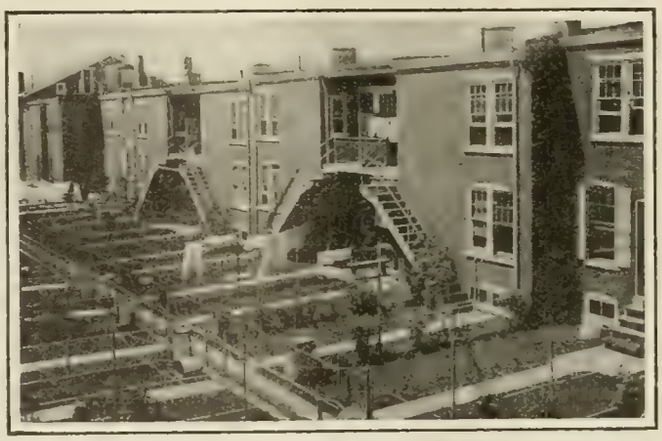
The third sub-division, the detached, single family house, is, of course, the ideal that is to be kept constantly in mind. The others are compromises which for one reason or another it is necessary to make. In all these types of houses there are certain fundamental requirements in regard to which there should be no compromise. These requirements are:

Direct air and light from out-of-doors for every room; adequate and convenient water supply; adequate, convenient and sanitary toilet facilities; protection from the weather; freedom from dampness; enough rooms and such an arrangement of rooms as will make some degree of privacy possible. Added to these, in tenement houses, especially, there must be safeguards against fire.

The Fundamentals.

Having then the ideal toward which we are to look, and the fundamentals which we must keep, the question is how nearly can we approach the ideal in the three locations mentioned. Briefly stated, it would work out as follows:

Downtown: Tenement houses, two-family houses in rows, single family houses in rows.



Outskirts: Two-family houses—terrace or group, semi-detached, detached; one-family houses—terrace or group, semi-detached, detached.

Village: One-family houses, detached.

Beginning with the downtown or already closely built section of the city, the question is which style of house should be erected; or, rather which style of house should not be erected. In such districts it is out of the question to consider detached or even semi-detached houses for any except the wealthy. They must be one or other of the three classes built in solid rows.

When Tenements Are Necessary.

The first point then is whether tenement houses should be erected. An answer in the affirmative would be based upon one of two facts. First, that the section is already in large degree a tenement house district. For if it is, land values have undoubtedly already risen to a point where only the income to be derived from multiple dwellings will yield a fair return on the investment. And any successful scheme for housing betterment must be based upon its yielding a fair return, five or six per cent net.

BACK YARDS OF MODEL HOUSES.

Justification for Tenements.

Second, that the lot is located on a business street or upon a traffic artery, which is fast becoming a business street. In cities up to one hundred and fifty thousand population, even near the center of town, there usually is not enough demand for offices to call for all the stories above the stores which occupy the ground floor. This is true in greater degree along the traffic highways which reach out toward the suburbs, and at those intersections of important streets in the outlying districts where there are little groups of businesses, a bank, three or four groceries and meat markets, a drug store, etc. The upper stories of these buildings which are primarily designed for the accommodation of small retail concerns, must be rented for dwellings or they will stand vacant.

Nor is it practicable to say that such businesses should be housed in one-story buildings until there is a business demand for more floors. In nearly all of our cities now, such buildings are from three to four stories high, and the upper floors are used as dwellings. They are tenement houses; they will continue to be tenement houses, and so must be recognized.

If for either of the reasons given above—usage already established or the needs of business—it is practically necessary to build tenement houses, then these houses should be built in such a way as to safeguard the health and the lives of their inhabitants. They must be strictly limited as to the proportion of the lot they may occupy, and they must have yards and courts large enough to permit of properly lighting and ventilating every room. Moreover, they must be so constructed as to lessen the fire hazard. When three or more stories high they should be of fireproof construction.

If it would not pay to erect tenement houses with these restrictions, then there is no justification for erecting tenement houses at all. For the tenement house is in itself unwholesome. It is not and cannot be a home suited to the life of a family; its multiplication brings physical and social problems that are a tremendous burden to the community. A few tenement (or apartment) houses fill special needs, such as providing refuges for broken families. And while they are few in number, their evil effects are minimized. The way to keep their number adequate only for such special needs is to insist that each one be as wholesome and as safe as it is possible to make it.

There are, of course, arguments in favor of the tenement house. The one most often used—its apparent lowering of rents in that it shelters many families in one lot, and under one roof, still remains to be proved. It is not proved by comparing a tenement house with a single family house on an adjoining lot, for either the tenement house is taking advantage of single family house land values, or the single family house is struggling to pay its way on tenement house land values.

The Final Choice.

If, then, tenement houses are not justified on the ground given, the choice in closely built sections lies between the two-family house and the single family house built in solid rows. There are economies in these houses even as compared with the tenement, for the walls need not be as heavy, the safeguards against fire need not be as strict, the chief requirement being that walls between houses should be fireproof. These houses, too, share the advantage of the tenement as regards warmth, and the two-family house has the convenience of having all its rooms on one floor. Both have the great advantage over the tenement house, in that a bit of private yard is available for each family, so that the younger children may have a safe place to play and the mother a chance to get an occasional breath of fresh air without making a special expedition for the purpose. In a home-owning community the two-family house has an advantage in that the owner may from the rent received from the living-rooms, much more than carrying charges of the house. The two-family house has, however, some disadvantages as compared with the single house. The family, after all, enjoys only a semi-privacy, and the house is likely to be noisy. The importance of such factors is shown by the eagerness with which a family will move to a single house when opportunity offers, for though the extra stair climbing is a burden, the sense of family unity which a single house gives, the greater privacy when bedrooms are on a different floor from the living-rooms, much more than balances the account. Moreover, the necessity for putting more than three rooms on one floor of a two-family house and giving each one adequate light and air presents a difficult problem. Even in some of the "model" two-family huses of Washington and Montreal this need is not aways fully met.

Arranging Houses in Groups.

In the outskirts of the city where more open building is possible, there is another series of choices. There the houses may be arranged in terraces or groups which often give a better architectural effect than a multiplication of little single houses, or they may be built in pairs or singly. In every case, however, there should be a greater proportion of open space than is possible downtown. Where there is space between houses it should be at least fifteen feet to let in sun and light for the side windows, to reduce the danger of fire leaping from one house to its neighbor, and again, to secure privacy. If it is not possible to leave at least fifteen feet between houses, it is better that they be built in groups.

Village houses, should, of course, be one-family and detached, for there is no valid excuse in a location where there is ample room to spread and where land values are low, to pile people up in tenements or even in two-family houses. Low land values should be taken advantage of to give each house its lawn or garden; for these have almost as much to do with making the house a home as have interior arrangements.

If the village is being developed by one man or company, or if a plan for the placing of houses has been prepared beforehand, it is possible by skillful grouping to get the advantages secured by a fifteen-foot minimum between buildings and at the same time effect very considerable economies. Moreover, such grouping or placing of houses should add very considerably to the attractiveness of the street or of the whole community. In that case it is well worth the extra trouble on other than financial grounds; for a home is more than a sanitary shelter, and whatever adds to its appeal is of physical, economic and social value.

—Nassau street, as varied in its component parts as it is unique in other respects, has lately had a decided increase in the number of eating places. Dolan's is the latest to settle there.

—West End avenue has seen the walls of two new twelve-story apartment houses topped out during the winter, and the framework of two others rising. Harry Schiff is operating on the former Nathan Straus home site at 105th street, Michael Paterno at 104th street, and Julius Tishman & Sons at 101st street.

DRASTIC TAX POWERS.

State Tax Board Would Establish Listing Systems and Suspend Laws.

Some revolutionary proposals are contained in a bill prepared by the State Board of Tax Commissioners and introduced at their request in both houses of the Legislature. This bill repeals the present section (171) of the tax law which prescribes the powers and duties of the State Board of Tax Commissioners, and inserts in place thereof a number of new provisions.

One of these new provisions is to give the State Board of Tax Commissioners authority to prescribe a listing system. It attempts to give the Board power—

"Fifth—to require individuals and corporations to furnish information as to capital stock, assets and liabilities, and all taxable and other property, as required by law."

A BROOKLYN APARTMENT HOUSE.
Arranged for four small apartments on a floor. The rooms are of good size and square and well lighted; with parquetry floors. Vestibule and hall wainscoted in marble. Rentals are $18 to $28 per month.

You Must Tell All.

A listing system for property has always been abhorrent to the people of the State because of its inquisitorial nature. Bills have repeatedly been introduced in the Legislature, intended to compel everyone to give detailed information about his property and business, but these invariably raised such a storm of opposition that they have always been defeated. This provision seems to be an attempt of the State Board to go over the heads of the local assessors and to conduct an inquisition into the business affairs of everyone in the State. The qualifying phrase, "as required by law," is misleading, for the Board seeks power in this same bill to alter the law.

Another amazing provision of this bill is one which empowers the State Board of Tax Commissioners—

"Sixth—To direct proceedings and prosecutions against public officials and officers or agents of corporations and others for neglect or failure to comply with the tax laws or orders of the commission."

It is a novel proposition that a private citizen should be prosecuted for failure to obey orders issued by the Tax Commission.

Can Change the Statutes.

But this is not all the power desired by this modest body. They are asking the Legislature to authorize them to change the statutes of the State whenever the Board thinks the law as enacted by the Legislature is wrong:

"Fourth—To prescribe all forms of books and blanks used in the assessment and collection of taxes, and to change such forms when prescribed by law in case any such change shall be necessary.

This means that the Board can alter any act of the Legislature which prescribes the form to be followed in making assessments. They are to be the judges who decide the necessity. Rules of the Board, changeable at will, are to take the place of statutes.

The New York Tax Reform Association has come out in denunciation of the measure as arbitrary and unjustifiable.

Arbitrary Power.

"It will be seen," said Secretary A. C. Pleydell, "that the State Board of Assessors is asking, first, for power to prescribe the forms used in the assessment and collection of taxes; second, for power to require individuals and corporations to furnish information in accordance with such forms, and, third, for power to prosecute persons who may disobey its orders.

"Could anything be more arbitrary? How could anyone know whether the assessment against his property has been made in legal form by the assessors? Reading the tax law would give him no clue, as its provisions might have been suspended by an order of the Board, of which he could not possibly have notice."

Representatives of the Tax Reform Association were among the many who opposed the bill at a hearing before the Senate Committee on Taxation and Retrenchment on Wednesday of this week. Hon. James D. McClelland is chairman of the committee. The bill in question is designated as Senate 1405, Assembly, No. 1939.

Building Limits in Other Cities.

Here is a list of places where under municipal or State laws a limit is put to the height to which buildings mays be erected. The number of these cities is steadily growing, and the question of the legality of the restrictions seems to be settled so far as they are concerned:

Baltimore—Fireproof buildings limited to 175 feet, and non-fireproof buildings to 85 feet.

Scranton—Limit of 125 feet.

Boston—Two and a half times the width of the street; maximum, 125 feet.

Buffalo—No height greater than four times the average of least horizontal dimension of the building.

Chicago—Absolute limit of 200 feet.

New Orleans—The height at the street line shall not exceed two and a half times the width of the widest street which the building faces, setbacks to be counted as added to width of street.

Cleveland—Two and a half times the width of street, with maximum of 200 feet. Recesses or setbacks to be counted as added to width of street.

Jersey City—No building or structure, except a church spire, shall exceed in height two and one-half times the width of the widest street upon which it stands.

Los Angeles—Limit of 150 feet.

Paterson—Warehouses and stores must not exceed 100 feet in height.

Denver—Not to exceed 12 stories. Those more than 125 feet to be fireproof.

Portland, Ore.—All buildings, except churches, limited to 150 feet.

Newark—Not to exceed 200 feet, but warehouses and stores shall not exceed 150 feet.

St. Louis—On streets less than 60 feet, two and a half times the width.

THREE-FAMILY HOUSES.

Objections of the Tenement House Department.

The objections which the Tenement House Department has to leaving three-family houses out of the tenement classification were set forth by Deputy Commissioner Frank Mann in a letter which he wrote to the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers, and which was read at the brokers' meeting on Monday afternoon held in the interest of the legislative bill. Mr. Mann said there are 51,000 tenement houses in Brooklyn and Queens, of which number 16,000 are three-family houses.

Since 1902 and down to the present time 6,374 three-story two-family houses have been built in Brooklyn and Queens. Two-thirds of them have stores on the first floor, and more than one-half of the latter have been illegally converted into tenements by having the third family in the rear of the store, which is evidence, to Mr. Mann's mind, that they were built for the purpose of evading the law.

"It would mean," the Deputy Commissioner says, "the bringing back of old conditions of interior rooms without windows to the outer air; it would continue and bring back the increased fire hazard; it would bring back the old opportunities for the spread of disease because of the number of unsanitary conditions heretofore referred to, and as a result would increase the number of fires, and would increase the danger to life and limb in case of fire, because of improper fire-escapes.

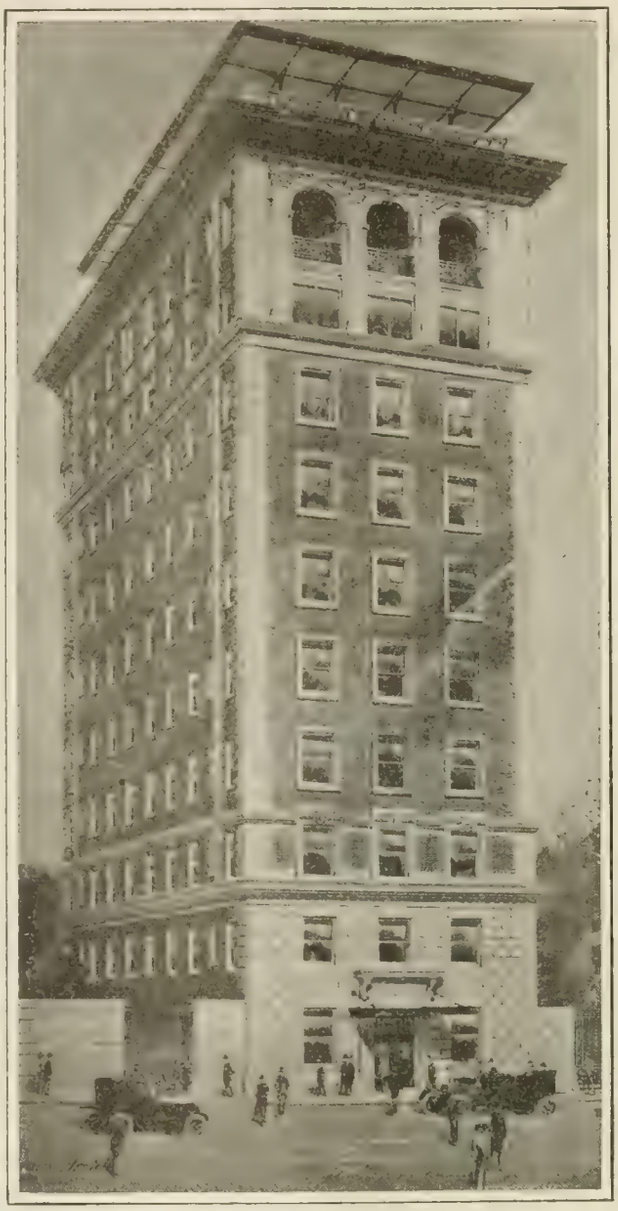
What Would Happen.

"My experience and the records of this Department would prove that if this bill became a law not less than 20,000 additional houses, not now legally tenements, would be converted into three-family houses within the next five years, thus enhancing the dangers heretofore referred to to that extent, since none of these houses would be required to have the proper lighting, ventilating, sanitary and fire-safety conditions as now required by the Tenement House law. Perhaps you are not aware that another effect of the enactment of this law would be to take four and five, or even higher story houses out of the tenement house class and enable them to be legally occupied by three families.

',Who will be benefited by this legislation? The present owner of a three-family tenement? No, since most of the owners of all three-family houses have complied with the law, and it would be unfair and inequitable to penalize them for being law abiding, and would put a premium upon delinquency and disregard of the law.

"Will it benefit the builder of the thousands of new-law three family tenements? I say no, since it would be equally unfair to these people who have complied with the law, to permit the owners of any other old or new buildings to compete with them. Here again it would put a premium upon evasion of the law and would result in contempt thereof.

Present Law Saves Lives.



"The reasonable enforcement of this law in all tenement houses, including the three-family house, has saved the city

New German Hospital Addition.

The German Hospital and Dispensary, which is erecting an addition in the north side of 76th street, 96 feet east of Park avenue, for the exclusive use of private patients from plans by I. E. Ditmars, 111 Fifth avenue, will provide in a remarkable way for the comforts and convenience of its inmates. The installation of partitions and interior equipment is going on, and it is expected that the structure will be ready for Sept. 1.

The features include vastly improved fumigating and disinfecting apparatus, vacuum cleaners, and every modern appliance for the sanitary upkeep of the property. The basement will be lined with white enameled brick, all floors with tile and wardrobes, bath fixtures, trim and doors will be of metal, no wood being used in the building. The facades are of "Harvard" brick with blue Indiana limestone trimmings. The height is ten stories, fronting 46 feet in 76th street, with a depth of 107 feet. Connection with the present hospital will be by means of an underground tunnel, so that the new building will have permanent light on all sides. The cost is placed at $250,000.

GERMAN HOSPITAL ADDITION.
East 76th Street. I. E. Ditmars, Architect.

Officers include Adolph Kuttroff, 17 East 69th street, president; Julius A. Stursberg, 18 East 67th street, first vice-president; Heinrich Sandhagen, 55 East 58th street, second vice-president; Edwin Henes, treasurer, and Carl Hege, secretary. Members of the building committee include Julius A. Strusberg, chairman, Rudolph J. Schaefer, and Col. Jacob Ruppert. The Cauldwell-Wingate Co. is the general contractor.

WATER RATES REVISED.

A New Scale for Skyscrapers, to Legalize Present Practice—Most Other Scales Continued.

Never has there been any lawful schedule of water rates for skyscrapers. Since 1849 there has been in force, without change, a scale of frontage rate charges for buildings having a frontage up to 50 feet and not exceeding five stories in height. It is twenty years or more since buildings of greater dimensions than the schedule anticipated were constructed, and since that time the Water Department has arbitrarily fixed rates where a building is over five stories in height and exceeds 50 feet in frontage.

An amendment to the existing ordinance that has been prepared for Commissioner Thompson by the Corporation Counsel's office permits of a rate for any size building, regardless of the number of stories or its frontage. Of course, the frontage rate affects the business building the same as the premises used for domestic purposes, until such time as a meter is installed.

Rates for Rear Buildings.

From 1849 until 1910 the frontage rate for rear buildings was based upon a $5 annual charge for each 25 feet frontage. This rate was probably established by one of the former Commissioners who had discovered that in the schedule of charges there was no provision for rear buildings. In 1910 a question arose regarding the rates for rear buildings, and the Corporation Counsel stated that, owing to the fact that the ordinance fixed a rate for buildings without making any distinction between front and rear, the Department would have to apply a charge for all rear buildings on the same basis as front buildings were classed.

Commissioner Thompson, however, is of the opinion that under section 473 of the Charter it was the intent to establish a different rate for rear buildings, and he has accordingly incorporated in the proposed ordinance a rate for rear buildings, which will be on the same basis as existed in the former City of New York for sixty years.

This draft of ordinance has been prepared by the Corporation Counsel and has been discussed with the different Borough Deputy Commissioners, and it is agreed that it covers every possible use of water.

All of the other extra and miscellaneous rates in the new schedule are continued, with but few exceptions, the same as for many years. The only material change affects the charge for water supplied to shipping and for water furnished to boilers used for hoisting, excavating, etc. The present rate for water supplied to boats is considered to be unreasonably small.

Practically all of the miscellaneous and extra rates included in the new schedule have never heretofore been covered by an ordinance, and it has been claimed that the Department has always been without any lawful authority to impose these rates and collect charges.

—Reports from Flushing, Murray Hill and Bayside state that builders have been doing little this winter, as the market has been singularly slow. Ridgewood is the busiest place in Queens Borough.

BUILDING CODE REVISION.

A New Way of Proceeding—General Policy Outlined.

Revision of the building code this year will be by a different process than was ever before followed. The Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen, of which Alderman Herbst is chairman, will be the actual editors and compilers, with the assistance of a specially engaged editorial and clerical staff under daily employment at the headquarters of the committee, 51 Chambers street. This staff has been for some time engaged in dissecting the several revisions of the code that have been written, printed and rejected during the last five years.

All that each of these codes has to say upon any given subject is being collated and mailed to the expert who has been selected to prepare the section or sections in the new code bearing on that matter. Some of the experts have contributed their services without price, and others will be paid promptly by the committee. The new code will not, therefore, be written by any one man. The draught prepared by the joint committee last year and also the previous revisions, so far as they are generally approved and are in accord with present policy, will form a considerable basis for the new work.

Arguments by Brief.

The committee will proceed according to the modern plan of compiling such volumes of laws, by the interchange of notes and briefs, rather than by oral discussion. Public hearings will be held as they may seem to be required, but public opinion has been very thoroughly sounded on most of the matters about which there is any question, and the committee has already made up its mind on certain things. The Superintendents of Buildings are to be left with little if any discretion, Chairman Herbst has said. Their powers and duties will be sufficiently defined. Architects and master builders will be required to register and prove their competency in order to obtain a license, if the Corporation Counsel expresses the opinion that the Board of Aldermen has the power to restrict occupations. Counselor Watson has already been officially asked to submit an opinion on this question.

In general the policy of the Building Committee will be, as stated by Chairman Herbst this week, to liberalize the code and yet to demand good and safe construction. The committee believes that fireproof construction can be had at a less cost than is compulsory under the present code. For example, Mr. Herbst referred to the item of wainscoting. When the material used is wood, there must be, under the present law, a heavy fireproof backing, which is expensive. A provision requiring fireproof wainscoting would not only simplify the case, but also give in most cases a finer trim for less money.

More Experts Selected.

The Committee on Buildings of the Board of Aldermen announce that in addition to the experts named heretofore, it has appointed the following:

Hon. William M. Calder, Congressman and builder, 551 First street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

John Gill, representing the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, 1520 Roselle street, Boro. of the Bronx, New York.

John T. Taggart, representing the United Board of Business Agents, 154 East 54th street, New York, N. Y.

Charles B. Meyers, architect, No. 1 Union square, New York.

William G. I. Roeder, engineer, 1123 Broadway, New York.

William H. Gompert, architect, 2102 Broadway, New York.

Charles F. Massey, representing the United Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union, 154 East 54th street, New York.

The committee will hold a series of hearings during the month of April on four propositions in the Building Code on the following dates:

April 7, Reinforced Stone Concrete.

April 14. Cinder Concrete (fireproof floor arches).

April 21. Brick.

April 28. Terra Cotta.

To Eliminate Generalities.

The purpose of these additional hearings is to give an opportunity to the engineers and manufacturers who are directly interested in the four subjects to appear before the Committee on Buildings and its experts, in order that they may submit to examination as to the details of their briefs, and a discussion of the merits of their arguments, so that the committee can determine on its final action.

These hearings, while open to the public, will not be held for the purpose of discussing generalities, but will be confined to a strict discussion of the facts on each subject, and those who are to appear (representing the various manufacturers, contractors, and others directly interested) must arrange for their appearance in advance by communicating with the chairman of the committee, Alderman Abram W. Herbst, so that the discussion will be limited in the manner above described.

The advance notice is given so that preparation can be made by those who desire to appear, and no further hearings will be held on any of these subjects until the committee submits its report, unless the amount of time required for the discussion on any set date is not sufficient and an adjournment is necessary.

The hearings will take place at the office of the Committee on Buildings of the Board of Aldermen, room 928, No. 51 Chambers street, New York, N. Y., and will start promptly at 2.30 P. M., on the dates mentioned.

Hearings on other subjects in the Code will be held from time to time during the month of April and the dates for same will be arranged in accordance with the requests that may be made for such hearings.

Architectural Competition.

Twenty-two sets of plans for the new Civil Courts were received at the office of the Court House Board on Tuesday, April 1. Next Monday the jury will begin the examination of them, holding meetings on at least four consecutive days, to select the design which appears most meritorious, and reporting to the Board on Friday next. Unless there is cause to depart from the selection made by the jury, the Court House Board will appoint as the architect for the new building the one selected by the jury. Possibly more than one set of plans may be reported, in which case the Board will exercise its own judgment. Within five days after the selection each competitor will be notified of the result.

The drawings that have been submitted consist of (a) a block plan of the building, (b) a plan of the basement, (c) a plan of the first story, (d) a plan of one story containing court rooms, (f) plans of all other stories and of mezzanines, if any be desired, (g) an elevation of the south front, (h) an elevation of the west front, (i) a section taken as desired, (k) a perspective of the exterior.

Each architect is to receive one thousand dollars for his work, and the winner six per cent. of the cost of the building.

FIGHTING FACTORY BILLS.

Real Estate Expects to Get Exemption For Six-Story Buildings.

For once the real estate men of New York have made a real fight against oppressive legislation. All the organized bodies have entered a protest at Albany against the Wagner factory bills and the latest reports are to the effect that the Fireproofing bill will be so modified as to exempt six-story mercantile or factory buildings from the provisions of the bill.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York, held Tuesday, April 1, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

Resolved, That in the judgment of the Real Estate Board of Brokers the present State Factory Legislation bills relating to fireproofing of old buildings should be amended by the addition of the following clause: "Except in cities of the first class buildings not over 80 ft. in height and where more than 15 persons are employed to 1,000 feet of floor surface."

The board feels that as probably over sixty per cent. of the business buildings in New York are of the low store and loft type, wherein the occupants are much safer from fire danger than in tall buildings, it is considered a grave injustice to treat these low buildings from the same standpoint as the ten and twelve-story buildings, particularly so as the expense of unnecessary fireproofing would amount in many instances to a prohibition of occupancy.

A committee consisting of Charles F. Noyes, representing the Charles F. Noyes Company and the Real Estate Board of Brokers; C. T. Coley, representing the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company; Seth Sprague Terry, representing William A. White & Sons and Carlisle Norwood, representing the Realty League were in Albany on Tuesday working in favor of an amendment to the proposed State Factory laws, so that there will be excepted from this proposed legislation buildings less than 80 feet in height. Alfred R. Kirkus, representing an ownership of over $7,000,000 worth of real estate, headed another committee of property owners which went to Albany on Wednesday to favor a similar amendment and to oppose pending legislation.

ONE GRAB BILL DEAD.

The Pollock Bill Abolishing the Trusteeship for Riverside Park.

Word was received from Albany yesterday by Charles L. Craig, secretary and counsel to the West End Association, that the Pollock bill, the purpose of which was to terminate the trusteeship of the lands acquired at a great expense for park purposes in the year 1894 and turn them over to the Board of Estimate for commercial and general purposes, will not be reported out of the committee.

This bill had a singularly mysterious origin. Nobody has been found willing to acknowledge its parentage. The President of the Board of Aldermen, Mr. Mitchel, who is the chairman of the Terminal Committee of the Board of Estimate, stoutly maintains that it is not his; Commissioner Tomkins, before leaving office, declared it did not originate with him, and the Corporation Counsel and Assemblyman Pollock know not whence it sprang. The bill has been traced, however, and a good guess could be made as to the place, where it was drafted. At any rate it is dead.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

PROGRESS IN LIGHTING.

As Reported by a Committee of the Illuminating Engineers' Society.

BUILDING managers in large cities like New York constantly are up against new illuminating problems. What may suffice for a suite of offices one day may be entirely inadequate the next, by reason of building operations in the neighborhood. With the idea of compiling in one document all the progress in artificial lighting that was made in the year 1911-1912, the Illuminating Engineering Society appointed a committee, consisting of Louis Bell, George S. Barrows and Percy W. Cobb, to make a survey of the various forms of illumination. This report has just been made public.

It shows that the year 1911-1912 was one of gradual progress in the science and art of illumination. While no radical novelties in apparatus forced their way to the front, nor did any startling innovation in methods come forward, more attention than ever before was paid to the proper installation of lamps, as a result of an awakened public realization of the necessity of adopting scientific methods in illumination.

Under the subject of gas lighting, the committee found that the introduction of the artificial silk mantle has become extensive. The committee reports that this material has shown itself capable of longer life and more uniform efficiency than anything yet tried as a material for mantles. A few inverted mantles of this type have been in use for some little time. In 1911-12, at last, they were pushed into extensive use; and the upright mantles of artificial silk, previously not available in this country, were placed upon the market. The inverted mantle has been of late rapidly replacing the older upright mantle on account of its better distribution for most purposes and its better qualities in other respects. Recently, however, the increase of interest in indirect illumination has again brought the upright mantle to the front, because of its having a more favorable distribution for indirect lighting than the inverted mantle.

The use of high pressure gas has increased conspicuously abroad, but as yet few and small permanent installations have been made in this country. Interest in the subject has been awakened, however, and the number of experimental installations has been considerably increased. Appliances of high pressure lighting have been materially improved, so that there is good reason for paying more attention to this particular phase of gas lighting.

The general efficiency of the mantle burners in commercial use has been the subject of improvement, and, what is of greater interest to the public, the manufacturers have met the demand for a wider range of burner sizes; so that there are now on the market burners, of both the inverted and the upright types, of many different powers, consuming from as little as 1 cubic foot of gas per hour up to 7 cubic feet.

It should be noted that improvement in gas fixtures during 1911-12 was somewhat noticeable. Particularly to be commended is the adoption of a standard specification calling for gas fixtures of better and more uniform quality. Such a specification is now in the course of preparation by representatives of gas companies and fixture manufacturers. It is expected that it will be generally adopted and produce a salutary effect on the quality of these installations.

Progress in Electric Lighting.

Under the subject of incandescent lamps, the most important change noted was the widespread adoption of the drawn wire tungsten filament. Tungsten wire can now be drawn to a much smaller diameter than has previously been possible; so that commercial tungsten lamps of as low as 10 watts have been produced, which can operate successfully on a 110-volt circuit. The 15 or 16-watt size, however, is the smallest tungsten lamp in any considerable use as yet. The smaller tungsten units are already in growing use abroad and bid fair to become an important factor in certain classes of lighting. The larger tungsten lamps up to 500 watts have within the last year awakened a considerably increased demand in competition with both gas and electric arcs. On the Continent tungsten lamps up to even 1,000 watts are coming into commercial use, but the largest of these sizes are still unusual.

The tungsten lamp as now used in this country remains at the same nominal efficiency as heretofore, but it must be noted that in Europe 8/10 watt per candle is a specific consumption now very frequently quoted. This is based on the Hefner unit, and is therefore nearly 9/10 watt per candle when based on the international candle. At this figure an economical life of 500 hours or more has been repeatedly claimed. It would naturally be expected, therefore, that the lamps of manufacturers in this country may presently be rated at a higher efficiency than now, since there is no reason to suppose that the American product is in any way inferior to foreign lamps; but whether the necessary sacrifice of life would be desirable and advantageous may be open to grave doubt.

The committee reports that there is some chance of a reduction in the size of the bulbs of tungsten lamps, possibly at slightly increased trouble from blackening, but in view of possible better performance of the filament still leaving a residual advantage to the user.

The metallized filament carbon lamp has found its place for usefulness in the rapid replacement of ordinary carbon lamps for nearly all purposes. It is now available in all the shapes and sizes once familiar in the latter with equally good life and materially higher efficiency.

Imitating Daylight.

The production of an artificial light capable of fully replacing daylight for color matching purposes has made great strides. One type of intensified arc with a carefully adjusted glass screen of a highly ingenious character has appeared. Two similar forms, based on tungsten lamps with colored screens, have also appeared. All three seem to produce pretty satisfactory results at, of course, a very much reduced efficiency. The use of the Moore carbon dioxid tube for the same purpose has increased.

In this category the committee reports that there might also be placed the mercury-vapor lamp with the rhodamine reflector. No device for obtaining daylight values of illumination sufficient to meet all the requirements of color discrimination has been entirely satisfactory, all of those so far devised being open to criticism on theoretical considerations, though all are undoubtedly capable of great usefulness in meeting the trying conditions of this problem. It is fair to say that they do not vary among themselves more than the different conceptions of "white light" ary.

Continuing its observations, the committee says it would be exceedingly interesting to see what could be done with mantle gas burners properly screened in meeting this requirement. A daylight unit of this character is now being developed with promising results.

The most interesting of new illuminants from a theoretical standpoint that the committee discovered is undoubtedly the neon vacuum tube lamp, developed in France. The rare gas neon, which forms a minor constituent of the atmosphere, cannot be obtained in commercial quantities as a by-product of the preparation of liquid oxygen from air. The power factor is about 0.8 and its specific consumption is 0.72 watt per mean spherical candle-power at the terminals, or about 0.9 watt including transformer and inductive losses. The color of the light is extraordinary, being a beautiful orange, entirely lacking blue rays, just as the ordinary mercury-vapor arc lacks red rays. No progress has yet been made toward the introduction of this interesting light into this country.

Finally, the quartz mercury arc lamps have made much progress. These lamps are not lacking in red rays as is the ordinary form of mercury-vapor arc, but are still subnormal in the red. It would be extremely interesting to know the result of operating them with the rhodamine reflector for a white light.

Speaking of the results of technical research in the subject of lighting during the last year, the committee says there has been a most ingenious attempt at producing a primary standard of light from incandescent platinum at the hands of two English investigators. A strip of platinum is electrically heated and held at a determinate temperature by the effect of the physical radiation filtered out through a water cell and a black fluorspar screen on a thermopile which indicates the radiant energy. The device was found to be good for a constancy within plus or minus ½ per cent., but whether it will prove any more workable in practice than various forms of the Violle standard, remains to be seen.

The committee closes its report with reference to new auxiliaries and sources of business and considers in detail the subject of reflectors of various sorts.

HELPFUL MANAGERIAL HINTS.

What Our Readers Have Found To Be Problem Solvers.

Engineers and others whose hands become grimy by coming in contact with greasy steel grindings, insulating material, tar and similar products, will find that by mixing four ounces of grain alcohol with three ounces of glycerine and three ounces of water and rubbing this into the hands in the morning and allowing it to dry in, grit will not find a permanent place in the skin no matter how dirty or greasy the subsequent day's work may be. There is nothing injurious about this mixture and does not make the hands liable to chap.

Trueing Commutators Inexpensively.

Managers frequently find among their engine room requisitions an item for trueing up commutators. A little attention and care on the part of the electrician will save this rather expensive operation and will not deprive the building of the use of the machine. All that is needed is a little piece of fine emery cloth on a trued, curved block applied once or twice a day. Two pieces of sandstone each chiseled out to fit half way around the commutator are better than the emery cloth. If the commutator is very large clamp between two boards several stones and apply when the dynamo is running at reduced speed. The idea is to keep the high spots level with the rest of the commutator by daily corrective measures.

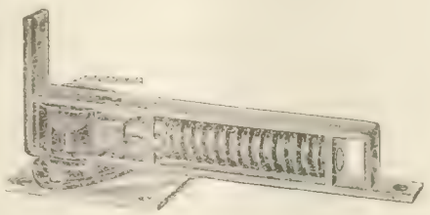
Hotel Equipment.

Some idea of the cost of equipping a modern metropolitan hotel is given in a recent issue of the New York Hotel Register and Review, wherein is reported part of an order to furnish the new Biltmore Hotel at the Grand Central Terminal, New York. This is said to be the biggest order for kitchen furnishing ever given by any hotel in the country. The order in part comprises the following: Thirty-six automatic egg boilers, five dishwashing machines, each capable of washing 7,000 to 10,000 dishes per hour; three bread and pastry ovens, six electric silver and knife cleaning machines, six puree and vegetable paring machines, thirty steam cooking kettles, twenty-six vegetable steamers and boilers, 200 feet of coal and gas ranges of their own manufacture, 250 feet of cooks' tables, made entirely of steel; forty feet of broilers, 300 feet dish heaters, 140 feet steam serving tables, twenty-five coffee urns. Dozens of minor equipment complete the "biggest" order. One point of interest is that in the carrying out of the contract woodwork has been eliminated as far as is in any way possible, and steel or other metal takes its place.

Elevator Discipline.

The man in the elevator car can be a very important factor in the success or the failure of your building. He is in a car alone, unwatched, with your tenants, their customers and callers. A "fresh" elevator operator, or one who gives short, discourteous answers, who displays his temper by vigorous slamming of elevator doors or making short stops and quick starts of the car, should not be countenanced.

A New Kind of Mop.



A new mop, known as the Wundermop, and used in conjunction with the Wundermop handle, the invention of a blind man, and is made by blind men in shops maintained by the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, has been placed on the market.

NEW THINGS

Uninfluenced by advertising considerations, this information is collected on its merits for the benefit of building managers.

Surface Floor Hinge.

A ball-bearing surface floor hinge containing a grease cup, having a lock at 90 degrees, is a novelty being introduced by the Lawson Manufacturing Company, of Chicago, Ill. The patented features include a socket alignment making the device easy to manipulate, and guaranteed to hold the door in line. The grease cup is dirt proof and encloses the vital working parts of the hinge, thus insuring absolute noiselessness of operation. It is known as Katz No. 1.

Concrete Edge Protector.

Recognizing the demand for a really efficient concrete edge protector that could be supplied at a reasonable price, the Trussed Concrete Steel Co. of Detroit, Michigan, has placed upon the market the Trus-Con Curb Bar. These bars, made of open-hearth steel and galvanized after forming, are designed to protect concrete curbs, shipping platforms, step nosings, entrance and interior columns.

The Kahn System of Reinforcing and Finishing Concrete has also produced the Trus-Con Armor Plate, which has proved of value in preventing rutting and chipping of the joint in concrete roads or pavements. Both products are fully described in booklets which can be obtained from the Trussed Concrete Steel Co. of Detroit, Michigan.

A New Type of Boiler Grate.

The Borton & Lidgerwood Co., 96 Liberty street, is introducing something new in the way of boiler grate, which is susceptible of being supplied with new grate bars or an entire new grate at almost a moment's notice and by a novice. The illustration shows the operation of this device.

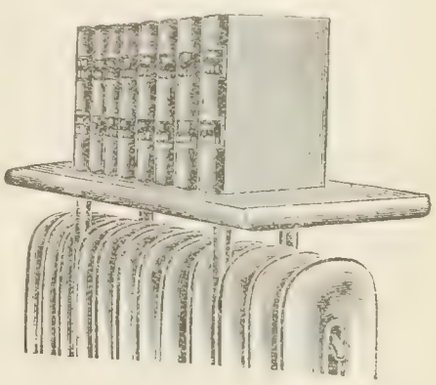
Shield for Expansion Bolts.



The increasing use of masonry has created a big market for positive fasteners of one kind or another, and something new in this line is being introduced by the Brohard Company of 3d street and Lehigh avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., in the form of an expansion bolt shield for machine and lag screw bolts used in stone or concrete work. They embrace several new features. The Brohard Climax Shield is unique among lag shields in the fact that it does not expand before the head of the bolt comes in contact with the material, thereby assuring a positively tight and secure fastening, and does not take an abnormally large hole. It does not depend entirely upon the thread of the bolt for its holding power, as the nut is the wedge which causes the expansion. Both the inside of the shield and nut are tapered, so that they are in contact at all points when expanded.

Utilizing Radiator Space.

The space above a radiator in living apartments where area is restricted represents a distinct loss to the rentpayer, because he gets no return for the space occupied for heat appliance. The Radiator Shelf Bracket Co., of 41 Union Square, has a device on the market which is strong enough to hold a good sized bookcase. It is in the form of an asbestos-lined shelf. By a simple change of arrangement it can be used as a plate warmer in the dining-room. They are adjustable at different heights and can be made to fit any radiator.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Basic Building Figuring.

I am desirous of ascertaining a few basic rules for figuring quantities of materials required for building construction.

Answer.—Quantities in average practice may be reduced to the following bases for the purpose of estimating. One thousand shingles, laid four inches to the weather, will cover one hundred square feet of surface, and five pounds of shingle nails will fasten them on. One-fifth more siding and flooring is needed than the number of square feet of surface to be covered because of the lap in siding and flooring. One thousand laths will cover seventy yards of surface and eleven pounds of lath nails will nail them on. Eight bushels of sand and one bushel of hair will make enough good mortar to plaster one hundred square yards. 128 cu. ft. of stone, three bushels of lime and a cubic yard of sand will lay one hundred cubic feet of wall. Cement, one bushel, and sand, two bushels, will cover 3½ square yards, one inch thick; 4¼ square yards ¾ inch thick, and 6¾ square yards ½ inch thick. One bushel of cement and one bushel of sand will cover 2¼ square yards one inch thick; 3 square yards ¾ inch thick, and 4½ square yards ½ inch thick.

The Bronx Society of Arts and Sciences, which maintains the old Lorillard mansion in Bronx Park as a museum, has started a campaign to enlarge its membership, primarily with a view to increasing the small, but historically valuable collection housed in that institution. The purposes of the society embrace museum extension, lectures and other activities, and should command the generous support of residents of the borough. Albert E. Davis, George E. Stonebridge, or Mrs. W. W. Niles, of 4143 Park avenue, the corresponding secretary of the society, will answer inquiries concerning application for membership.

Many considerations enter into the value of real estate. In giving each of these considerations its proper weight, the appraiser must exercise his own judgment. It is seldom, even when there is no occasion for bias, that appraisers agree as to the value of a given piece of property. Some bias, however, is natural and unavoidable when an appraiser testifies in behalf of a client. Any honest observer who knows how inchoate and primitive the "science" of appraising is must exclude from his mind all suspicion of crookedness when he finds the President of the Board of Brokers testifying that a certain property is worth $813,267, while a Vice-Chairman of the Board's Committee on Appraisals swears to a valuation of only $592,700. Such an occurrence, however, should lead the Board of Brokers to undertake a careful study of the relative importance of the different factors of value, with a view to officially adopting and promulgating a uniform system of appraising.

The Terminal Committee's Plans.

The agreement proposed by the Committee on Terminal Improvements of the Board of Estimate will probably have to be adopted for the most part. It does not by any means constitute an adequate plan for the development of the machinery for handling freight in Manhattan, but it has been evident for some time that the adoption of an adequate plan has become practically impossible. The equipment of the waterfront of Manhattan with facilities for handling freight equal to those possessed by the most efficient modern European and American ports would demand an arrangement similar in scope and in its cost to that recently concluded as a solution of New York's transit problem. It would demand the close co-operation between the city and all the transportation companies that ship large quantities of freight to or from Manhattan, and the expenditure, both by the city and the transportation companies, of a very large sum of money. None of these requirements can be met. The city is not in a position to appropriate any very considerable amount of money for this purpose. It is barely able to issue the bonds which are absolutely necessary to build piers in Manhattan long enough to accommodate the large ocean steamships, and anybody familiar with the real estate situation knows its borrowing capacity will not be increased to any considerable extent until after the new subway system gets into operation. If a large sum of money is to be spent upon improved terminals in Manhattan, it will have to be supplied by private corporations, and the really practical question is: What private corporation stands ready to undertake the work?

There is no indication that any of the corporations which enter Manhattan under or over the North River are willing to invest much money in doing away with the inefficiency of the present methods. Presumably, they know their own business and can be trusted to decide whether such an investment on their part would pay. They have consistently refused to take any interest in a freight tunnel, a bridge or any other method of reaching Manhattan on rails and without transshipment. Proposals looking in that direction have frequently been put up to them, but they have never wavered in this attitude. The most powerful of these corporations, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is already spending a large amount of money for the purpose of improving the transportation machinery of Long Island. Its ownership of the Long Island Railroad makes it much more interested in Brooklyn and Queens than in Manhattan. It is evident that little or no help can be expected from that particular quarter.

There remains the New York Central Railroad Company. That powerful corporation is the only one with which the city has any chance of doing business, and the great merit of the plan of the Terminal Committee consists in its frank recognition of this fact. The New York Central is interested above all in Manhattan. It has always carried the larger part of the freight which enters and leaves the borough. It already owns tracks through the city's streets and a well-situated terminal in the heart of the West Side freight district. Any rearrangement of the existing transportation machinery must have for its most important part a new contract with the New York Central which would do away with the inefficient and anomalous methods now used, and would substitute for them a modern and efficient mechanism of handling freight. It is such a contract which the Terminal Committee proposes to make. If it is executed, the whole group of annoying controversies with the management of the company, which have been persistently and fruitlessly carried on for so many years, will be cleaned up.

The method whereby the freight tracks of the railroad company obtain access to Manhattan will be freed for the most part from all those features which have in the past injured the local interests of various parts of Manhattan. Riverside Park between 122d and 72d streets will be practically freed from the nuisance of the railroad; its area will be somewhat increased, and it will become a far more useful place of recreation to the dense population which lives in its neighborhood. The absurdity and the wickedness of running trains on grade along an avenue of a great city will be done away with. An enormous improvement will be made in the machinery for handling perishable freight, destined for the better arranged West Side markets, and all these advantages will be obtained without the expenditure by the city of anything but an insignificant sum of money.

Of course, the proposed plan falls far short of being perfect. If it is adopted, the Manhattan waterfront will be modernized in part, and Manhattan merchants will in certain cases suffer in competition with those of other ports and those of other parts of New York City itself. But property owners of Manhattan in general must reconcile themselves to such disadvantageous conditions. In the future the borough will retain such a decided advantage for the transaction of so many kinds of business that they can afford to put up with something less than proper treatment in other respects. In any event, an increasing proportion of the total business of the port must be transacted in other parts of the waterfront, and in spite of this loss Manhattan real estate will not be lacking tenants, who will have a sufficient amount of profitable business, which cannot be carried on anywhere else.

Loft Construction Shrinking.

As the real estate market for the year 1913 develops, it is becoming increasingly evident that in one important respect it will differ from the markets of the five preceding years. Comparatively few new sites are being purchased for improvement with loft buildings in the new mercantile district, and the amount of new construction of this class will be decidedly less than that to which the city has become accustomed. Improvement of this kind will not entirely cease, but it will shrink to comparatively small proportions, and the shrinkage will be pretty evenly distributed throughout the different parts of the district. This cessation of building will be advantageous both to the old and to the new mercantile sections. It will give the new district at least a year in which to fill up its many empty spaces, and, as this year promises to be one of good general business, renting conditions should at the end of that time be very much improved.

They can be improved, moreover, without any continuation of that drain upon the business occupation of the older districts which has been such a conspicuous characteristic of the past few years. The normal increase in the demand for additional space ought to be sufficient in a year of good general business to do away with most of the ill effects of the existing over-supply of lofts. Whether the business of constructing mercantile buildings will ever again reach the huge totals of the past few years remains to be seen. It frequently happens in New York that a certain type of structure is built with the utmost freedom for a few years, owing to some temporary over-stimulation, and that after the condition which produces this stimulation passes by the former activity of construction is never resumed. Such was the case with private dwellings on the West Side during the middle years of the eighties, with apartment hotels after 1901 and 1902, with the East Side tenement house district a few years later, and so on.

It may well be that a similar fate awaits the speculative construction of mercantile buildings in the district between 23d and 34th streets. Of course, the mercantile business of New York is bound to increase, but it may seek its location in other parts of the city, and it is likely to be more conservative about moving than it has been in the immediate past. In all probability, however, the revival, when it comes, will for some years at least result in as much building as that which took place last year. The mercantile expansion of New York is just at present the dominant fact in the economic life of the city, and its momentum is so great that it will continue to have a great effect upon the real estate condition of central Manhattan.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

The real estate market was strong this week. Selling was on a large scale. Apartment houses, good-sized vacant plots for improvement, tenement houses, dwellings and whatnot in real estate embodied the dealing. Large leases also continue to be an important phase of market activity. A glance backward shows the sale of a large Washington Heights corner, marking the last of the Loyal L. Smith estate holdings in that part of the city; a plot of three lots on Eleventh avenue, near 44th street, covered with old tenement houses; several plots in Harlem, on Washington Heights and in the Bronx, to be improved with apartment houses; a lot on Fifth avenue, opposite the park; two adjoining dwellings on Park avenue; a plot in East 30th street, for reimprovement with a commercial building; a good plot in West 25th street, near Sixth avenue, for reimprovement with a business building; some dwellings in the Upper East and West Sides; a plot on West Broadway, running through to Thompson street; a business dwelling in East 34th street; a Third avenue corner; tenement houses in upper Mercer street; a dwelling for a clubhouse in West 56th street; a plot in 30th street, adjoining a Fourth avenue corner; the sale of a 12-story apartment house, in the Upper West Side, on the plans; and, a Columbia College leasehold. These are some of the important transactions of what has certainly proven to have been a good week in real estate.

Some persons assert that there is a paucity of apartment house rentals and that therefore there will be a cessation of apartment house construction; but, judging by the way large plots on Washington Heights, in Harlem, the Bronx and Brooklyn are being sold for improvement with apartment houses there seems to be but little ground for the apprehension about a surplus of these buildings. We recall that during the boom on Washington Heights, a few years ago, predictions were freely made that apartment house construction there was being overdone, and we were inclined to share in the belief; but, with the subway trains in operation it was not long before all of the apartment houses that were built were occupied and a demand for more followed. As new subway routes, for which contracts have been signed, progress toward completion, there may be a plethora of apartment houses erected; but, it is hardly likely that any one neighborhood will so suffer because henceforth apartment house construction in this great city will be more widespread consequent on the building of subway routes throughout the municipal area instead of in one or two boroughs. It is very probable that Brooklyn will share with Manhattan and the Bronx in attracting tenants to fine apartments. Already, Brooklyn has some of the best apartments, and they have been built by men who did not foresee subways throughout the borough. If Brooklyn can attract many apartment house tenants while having only surface transportation facilities, what will it attract when subways radiate through its territory?

More sales are transpiring in Brooklyn just now than have taken place there in a long while. Undoubtedly the signing of the contracts for the construction of subways has much to do with it; and, investors have gotten their courage up, at last, to the purchasing point. The knowledge that the money for subway building is available is another tonic to conditions. The whole suburban area of the City of New York is also in the throes of renewed demand, as the news columns of The Record and Guide show. The growth of the city is so constant and the opportunities for real estate investment henceforth will be so varied that all parts of the city and its environs will be susceptible to a movement of their real estate. There is also a good demand for acreage for country estates.

Legislation at Albany.

The adjournment of the Legislature, which have been scheduled for the week ending April 19, is now expected to be delayed considerably beyond that date in consequence of the decision of the Senate to investigate the charge of extortion brought against Senator Stephen J. Stilwell by George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note Company. The charge that Gov. Sulzer before election promised the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to sign the full crew bill and the fact that several nominations for Supreme Court vacancies and other important posts have yet to be made and confirmed cited as additional reasons standing in the way of an early adjournment.

During a week so devoted to political manoeuvring as the present one has been, the work of legislation has naturally remained pretty much at a standstill.

Fire Commissioner Johnson's bills relating to fire insurance policies brought out a marked division of sentiment at a hearing in the Assembly Chamber, being favored by many prominent business men, but being opposed by William F. McConnell of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, Frederick B. DeBerard of the Merchants' Association of New York, John A. Murphy of the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, the Manfacturers' Association of New York, and other interests. The opposition was based principally on the fact that the bills will increase the expenses of both insurer and insured, but Commissioner Johnson declared his willingness to compromise, so as to meet every reasonable objection.

The Kerrigan bill, introduced at the instance of the Tax Department of the City of New York, amending section 889 of the charter, relating to tax sales in this city, was amended by striking out a clause giving the city a clear title to all property acquired at tax sales, quieting all easements and restrictions. The bill now merely provides for deputy tax commissioners, before whom citizens can make statement in the matter of swearing off personal taxes instead of journeying to the central office.

Assemblyman Burr's bill, taking from the Board of Justices of the Supreme Court the power to select the Kings County Courthouse site and giving it to the Board of Estimate was advanced by being voted out of committee. The supporters of the bill, notably the Brooklyn League and the Brooklyn Heights Association, are opposed to the site, bounded by Court, Livingston, Clinton and State streets, recommended by the justices, and urge that the courthouse be placed on the proposed Brooklyn Bridge Plaza between Washington, High and Fulton streets.

A Street Car Hold-up.

After having maintained for twenty-seven years, a street car service from 135th street and Madison avenue, Manhattan, to 138th street and Park avenue, The Bronx, the N. Y. & Harlem Railroad Co. has discontinued the operation of cars over the Madison avenue Bridge and the business men and residents of the South Bronx are making an earnest effort to have the service resumed.

The original permit under which the line was operated was granted by the Park Department, but the present City authorities questioned the validity of the company's permit. The case was carried to the courts which decided that the company was not possessed of a franchise authorizing it to continue to operate its line across the Harlem River.

On December 7, 1911, the Board of Estimate adopted a resolution directing the company to apply for a franchise; but instead of doing so, the company quit running its cars altogether on Dec. 31, 1912, and they have not run since, to the great inconvenience of the public.

Under date of March 22, 1913, the N. Y. Railways Co. addressed a letter to the Board of Estimate "stating that in its opinion the service is not needed and that the money required to continue the service might be better spent to relieve congestion and give improved service where it is a public necessity, and concluding, 'Under these circumstances we are not prepared at this time to request our lessor, the New York and Harlem Company, to apply for a franchise.'"

The residents and business men of the vicinity, however, do not appear to agree with the Railways Company, and a petition signed by over 300 representative firms and individuals is now in the hands of the North Side Board of Trade to be used as a basis of future action in trying to induce the Railways Company to apply for a franchise. The Harlem Board of Commerce at its monthly meeting on Tuesday, March 4, unanimously passed resolution asking President Shonts to apply for a franchise and to resume the operation of the shuttle service.

Albert E. Davis, architect, whose office has been at 138th street and 3d avenue for over 25 years, said:

"Assuming the correctness of the company's statement that the operation of this connecting link between Manhattan and The Bronx was not profitable, it nevertheless was a public convenience and could be made profitable, I should think if a service sufficiently accommodating to the public were operated; and especially if it were extended to 138th street and 3d avenue, where all the Union Railway lines of The Bronx converge. These lines would thus become feeders to the Madison avenue line. The Pelham Bay Park branch of the Lexington avenue subway now under construction, will have an express station at 138th street and Third avenue and will bring to this focal point the great easterly section of The Bronx and form another feeder for the Madison avenue line. So it would seem that the traffic opportunities present and prospective, are sufficient to make it worth while for the company to apply for a franchise and not only to resume the service, but to extend and improve it. It might even be worth the company's while to run continuous service alternately via the Madison avenue line to The Bronx without the change of cars at 135th street that was required by the service recently discontinued."

Cauldwell-Wingate Co. Expands.

The Cauldwell-Wingate Co., builders, has opened an office in the Candler Building, Atlanta, Ga., under the management of Mr. W. B. Paye. The significance of this announcement lies in the fact that the company during the last thirty months has completed contracts in New York and vicinity amounting to $8,000,000, and has now under contract buildings amounting to more than $3,000,000. Among the latter is the recent award of the New York Biscuit Company to erect a $2,000,000 factory at Tenth avenue and 15th street, on which there is a time limit for completion within ten months. The satisfaction of the individuals and corporations for whom the Cauldwell-Wingate Company has completed buildings shows that its organization has grown in proportion to the amount of business done.

To Honor Efficient Public Men.

The committee on arrangements announce Monday evening, April 21, as the date of the banquet to be given at the Waldorf-Astoria by the citizens of Greater New York City to the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York, the members of the Public Service Commission for the first district, Hon. William R. Willcox and Hon. Seth Low to commemorate the successful conclusion of the negotiations with the transit companies and the execution of the operating contracts.

The price per cover has been fixed at $10, including wine, and the price of boxes seating 6 to 8 persons is $10. Tickets may be had by sending checks to the order of Robert E. Dowling, treasurer, and addressed to John D. Crimmins, chairman, 135 Broadway, New York City.

This will be a notable event and those fortunate enough will hear some truths about the future of our wonderful Greater New York City.

THREE FAMILY HOUSES.

millions of dollars by the decrease in the number of fires, for which the law's enforcement is responsible; and what is more, it has saved thousands of human lives and enhanced the health of the community to an extent which cannot be estimated in dollars and cents, and in verification of this statement I respectfully refer to the respective reports of the Commissioner of the Health Department and the Commissioner of the Fire Department.

"Finally, no benefit would accrue to the rentpayer, or even to the owner of a three-family house, because of a ten or fifteen per cent. reduction in the cost of construction of such a three-family house, for the reason that my experience has proven that the rents demanded and paid on the alleged two-family, three-story houses for each apartment is as much as paid and demanded on the legal three-family tenement. Furthermore, the owner who eventually purchases the house pays approximately as much as the purchaser of a legal three-family house, and the ten or fifteen per cent. difference in cost in ninety cases out of a hundred is additional profit to the speculator who builds it, the purchaser being the innocent victim, and ignorant of the fact that the rooms in the rear of the store may not be occupied by an additional family, and only discovers it after he has become the owner. The speculative builder who sells him the house studiously omits to inform him of the fact that the house cannot be occupied by more than two families, thus in many cases practising a fraud upon the innocent victim."

—Two more big apartment houses under construction in West 72d street rather strengthen the idea that it is to continue as a residential instead of being transformed into a business street entirely. Being the southern approach to Riverside Drive, it is natural that 72d street should take on in time some of the latter's characteristics.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Last of Pre-flood Shipments Will Arrive by First of the Week, When Real Shortage Will Be Felt Here.

Government Report Shows That Another Advance in Price of Coal Is Due to Come in About Six Months—Dealers Encouraging Early Buying—Common Brick Firm.

THE whole building material market rested this week on the behavior of steel as a result of the Pennsylvania and Ohio floods. Shipments proved to be about normal, and, in consequence, other materials held firm, both on price and demand. But, as the week closed, receipts began to slow down, and it is freely stated by the mill agents here in New York that by the first of next week steel will be very scarce, for the reason that all the shapes which were en route when the floods compelled the closing down of the furnaces will have arrived at destination and there can be no more sent out from Pittsburgh until the railroads get their tracks in shape again. This may entail a delay of a week or two on deliveries.

As far as other building materials are concerned, a brief curtailment in steel receipts will help manufacturers. Before the floods came the demand for every commodity, except North River common brick, was exceptionally brisk, and the Steel Corporation was getting output data together which already gave evidence of bringing record-breaking business. With the mills running close to the market, this would not have conduced to lower prices. As it is now, a fortnight's halt at the building material consuming end will enable manufacturers to catch up with orders and help to keep the current prices steady.

The situation in the lumber department is not rosy. The floods are rushing on toward the big southern lumber producing centers, and, while they all have been warned, the delay incidental to the repair of machinery and other property following the receding of the waters at a time when the consuming market here in the east is heavy and the supply light, may cause sharp price advances.

The common brick market showed a little more activity this week. In fact, the call for brick, lime, plaster and plaster-boards in the suburbs was noticeably brisk and gave many dealers a foretaste of what the spring demand is likely to be. Here in New York, where the demand for brick is slow, closely tempered by the assemblage of steel shapes, there was little change in demand, although prices were somewhat stiffer on last week's levels of $7.00 to $7.25. The last of the covered barges went out at prices considerably below the $7.50 range, at which they were held by owners.

Building managers were considerably stirred up over the Government's report on the coal situation, in which it is stated that there is no reason why, under existing conditions, there should not at almost any time be a renewal of the slight shortage, amounting to about one-half the normal production of the mines for one month, and for another advance in prices coinciding with the alleged shortage. The report points out that the last advance in price was by no means warranted under the conditions, and it therefore by implication raises the question whether Congress will allow the situation to continue and will thereby lay the foundation for a renewal of the difficulty six months from now when another coal season is about to open. Some distributors already are making special rates to encourage forward buying.

BRICK MARKET FIRMER.

Prices Unchanged, Although Demand Improves Somewhat.

THE common brick market showed a tendency to firm, but prices remained steady during the last week. All danger from the flood has passed in the up-river brick yards, and here and there are to be found evidences of preparations for starting up the new season. The Raritan River market is strong in the suburbs.

Official transactions for North River common brick during the last week with records covering the corresponding week last year follow:

MANY STEEL MILLS RESUME.

Tie-up in Transportation May Continue for Another Week.

ADVICES from the steel mills in the flood districts showed that the work of recuperation was well under way and that by the end of the week many mills would be under partial operation, and that by the middle of next week all would be under normal run. The chief concern expressed by steel consuming interests here was getting the railroad embankments repaired so that normal freight traffic would be resumed.

Local builders have not been seriously inconvenienced regarding the floods for the reason that most of the steel they were erecting this week was already on the road when the deluge came. Deliveries from now on, however, will be slow and this fact is very apt to have a quieting effect upon other commodities. Prices showed no change.

HOW LUMBER HAS ADVANCED.

Scope of Price Increase in All Departments Tabulated Since October.

BUILDERS have complained of the increased cost of construction during the last six months and have attributed this rise largely to the heavy upward fluctuations in lumber. The following compilation will show at a glance just how much each grade has moved up. Wholesalers ascribe the advance to the increased demand and the decrease in supply, indirectly aided by higher transportation costs and scarcity of labor. It is entirely probable, they say, that even the April list will move up before the month closes. The following figures show actual increase in price ranges between the current official association list and that for last October:

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Brokerage Sales, Leases and Public Auctions

Large Sales, Well Diversified, Embodied the Dealing—Brooklyn Market Active.

Real estate on Manhattan Island, this week, was in good demand. In the upper part of the borough considerable property changed hands for improvement with apartment houses. The Bronx contributed a few good sales. Brooklyn real estate is growing in favor steadily; and, the circumstance is caused by renewed faith in property there on account of the signing of contracts for subway construction through the borough.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 38.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 16, against 15 last week and 36 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 23, compared with 24 last week and 26 a year ago.

From The Bronx 18 sales at private contract were reported, against 17 last week and 22 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $2,148,106, compared with $1,029,320 last week, making a total since January 1 of $16,247,061. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $8,962,-371, making the total since January 1, 1912, $12,378,769.

A plain design—most effective as the "finishing touch." In Craftsman style, grained to match the effect of fine woodwork, it has all the advantages inherent to metal construction. No nails. All joints tongued and grooved. It does not shrink, swell or "craze." It is incombustible and does not harbor insects. Can be put up directly on wooden beams, flat tile arches or placed over plaster ceilings.

Kompolite is the "clinching" argument to use in

Renting Your Vacant Loft

Because—merchants, especially silk merchants, prefer, and some of them demand—1st, a floor which does not "dust" or gather dust.

2nd, a floor which is soft, resilient and requires no covering.
3rd, a floor with a complete range of colors—like a rug.
4th, a fire-proof floor.
5th, a floor with a sanitary, non-absorbent surface.

KOMPOLITE

is the answer. You need look no further for a feature to put up to your merchant prospects. Write or telephone.

Each error costs you anywhere from $1.00 to $1000, in lost time and opportunity. We can furnish you with an almost perfect system. A really good service is very expensive to prepare and we cater only to those who want the BEST.

Write for seven exclusive features in the Real Estate Directory, any one of which is worth the full subscription price—more complete than ever. You should examine a copy at once.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Architects Are Not Builders.

A decision having an important bearing on the expenditure of school bond money through California has been received by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Hyatt from Attorney-General Webb, dealing with the matter of whether or not architects whose plans have been accepted for school buildings are obligated to provide bonds to construct the buildings themselves within their estimates in case the contractor's figures go above the estimates.

It is held by the Attorney-General that there is nothing in the present law which makes possible an affimative answer to the question. The law, according to the Attorney-General's opinion, does not contemplate that architects shall be builders.

Brokers.

An offer of a specified commission for the sale of real estate at a certain price, within a specified time, is held in Hammond v. Mau (Wash.) 40 L.R.A (N.S.) 1142, not to give the broker the exclusive agency for that period, but it is declared that the owner may effect a sale himself within that time without becoming liable for the commission, although before its expiration the broker produces a customer able and willing to comply with the terms of the sale.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Public and Local Works Contemplated in the Greater City.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

Collecting Paving Bills from Railroads.

By the provisions of Section 98 of the present general railroad law, every street railroad company is bound to keep in permanent repair that part of the street between its tracks, the rails of its tracks, and two feet in width outside of its tracks, whenever required to do so by the proper local authorities. Upon taking office on January 1, 1910, Borough President Miller found that it had been considered bad form to require the railroad companies to pay their share of the paving of streets on which their tracks were, with the result that the companies did not volunteer to do it.

President Miller had a search of the records made and found that bills amounting to $107,000 for work done prior to January 1, 1910, were uncollectible, owing in some cases to lack of proper notices and in other cases to the fact that six years had passed and the claim was barred by the Statute of Limitations. Other bills amounting to $137,402.26 for work done prior to January 1, 1910, were collected. Since then the bills have been collected promptly, amounting in all to $252,135.17. It is due to the railroad companies to state that they are treating this matter in a businesslike way and send their checks promptly when bills are presented.

A SUBWAY TO JERSEY.

Private Capital Willing to Do What the City Can't to Solve Freight Problem.

For the West Side waterfront south of 30th street the City of New York has long sought for a plan that would not alone end surface operation by the New York Central Railroad Company upon the city streets, but would at the same time result in the reorganization of the terminal facilities of all the Jersey roads by bringing them to use a marginal terminal freight railway.

The Committee on Terminal Improvements of the Board of Estimate, when they took up the problem two years ago, were advised by all the engineers and railroad representatives with whom it conferred that no marginal freight railway could be economically and advantageously operated by the transcontinental trunk line railroads whose rail termini are in New Jersey, unless directly connected with New Jersey by tunnels or bridge.

It is impossible, the committee has just said, that the city should contemplate the construction of tunnels or bridge with municipal money for two reasons. In the first place, such an enterprise would lie without the jurisdiction of the City of New York. In the second place, it would involve an expenditure far beyond the city's present means.

At this juncture D. C. Willoughby, representing private capitalists, offers a plan to provide two or four tubes under the river, in connection with a six-track subway to extend along the marginal way of West street, from Cortlandt street to 23d street and thence north under Eleventh avenue to 30th street. On the New Jersey side they will lead into railroad yards, where the freight for Manhattan will be collected and classified.

Directly over the main subway on the marginal way of West street, at frequent intervals, nine-story warehouses will be erected. The street floor and the floor above will be used as "freight yards." The other seven stories will be devoted to warehouse purposes, refrigerating plants and manufacturing. In all, there will be seventeen of these nine-story structures.

If the Board of Estimate approves the scheme and suitable arrangements can be made the banking houses of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. and Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. will undertake to form a syndicate to provide the necessary money.

A CALL FOR ENGINEERS.

Four Hundred More for the Subways—Pushing Plans Ahead.

The E. E. Smith Contracting Company, of Manhattan, which has the contract for building the Corona rapid transit elevated line, is erecting a temporary construction plant on the Boulevard near the Packard building, Long Island City. It is expected that the concrete work will be started within six weeks.

The working plans for the Corona and Astoria routes have not yet been completed, but it is expected that they will be ready for the contractors as soon as they are prepared to begin work. Chairman McCall has made requisition upon the Municipal Civil Service Commission for 400 more engineers. Besides providing a separate squad of engineers to have charge of the plans for the local "L" lines, four other squads have been organized to work on lines in different parts of the city. One squad is working on the connection to be made for the B. R. T. at Canal street and Broadway, Manhattan.

It is important to Brooklyn to have these plans prepared right away, as the value of the Broadway line is dependent upon a physical connection at Canal street, so that trains crossing the Manhattan Bridge can get up Broadway as far as Ninth street.

A third group of engineers is at work upon the 38th street cut in South Brooklyn, where the New Utrecht and Gravesend lines of the B. R. T. are to be joined to the Fourth avenue line.

A fourth group is working out the details of the two big tunnels to the financial centre of Brooklyn, the Montague-Whitehall tunnel and the Clark-William street tunnel. In addition, a fifth group of engineers are at work upon some purely Manhattan matters.

Testing An Electric-Bell Circuit.

It sometimes happens in electric bell work that the wireman wants to know whether a bell rings or not when he can get no nearer it than the push-button switch in the circuit. The procedure followed in such a case is to bend a telephone receiver with a coil consisting of 10 feet of No. 18 wire, and, having connected one terminal of the receiver permanently to one terminal of the push button, hold the receiver to the ear and shunt the switch by touching the wire from the other terminal of the receiver to the free terminal of the bell circuit. If the bell rings a buzzing noise will be heard corresponding to the vibrations of the bell armature.

Hudson River Brick Production in 1912.

The biggest brick producing region in the United States, or the world. Here are innumerable yards stretched along both sides of the Hudson river all the way from Nyack, about twenty miles above New York, to Kingston, a good day's sail from the city.

Production? It is variable. In 1912 it aggregated about 700,000,000. In 1911 it was 1,200,000,000. Why the reduction? Various reasons. Labor troubles, for one thing. Men couldn't make brick without operatives, and operatives were very hard to find, so hard, in fact, that some makers were forced to reduce their capacity all summer.

Then, too, that new selling organization had something to do with it. If too many were made, prices would decline and a reduced output at increased prices looked better to them than the reverse. There might have been other reasons, but these were the most important and influential and they kept down production and kept up prices. Makers will hardly complain at such a combination of what may be termed fortuitous circumstances.

Seven hundred millions! That doesn't seem so many. But make a few comparisons. The old subways in New York used 200,000,000. The new ones will use 125,000,000. The Hotel McAlpin, the biggest hotel in the world, required 5,000,000. These suggestions make 700,000,000 look considerably larger.—"The Clayworker."

Employers' Liability Defined.

In a decision rendered by the Court of Appeals, in the case of Malrusciello vs. Milliken Brothers, it is held that the protection afforded to employees in actions against their employers to recover for personal injuries, by that portion of the Employers' Liability act which makes the question whether the employe has assumed the obvious risks of his employment, one for the jury to pass upon, is not extended to actions brought under the common law.

BUSINESS NEWS

A Weekly Summary of New Building Projects and Building Activities of Architects, Engineers, Builders, Real Estate Agents, Building Managers, Contractors and Realty Interests.

New General Electric Bulletin.

The General Electric Company, of 50 Church street, announces the following bulletins ready for distribution. These bulletins are prepared for the express use of specifiers on building construction and engineering work and are valuable for reference purposes.

Bulletin No. A4065, just issued, is an attractive publication of 36 pages, in colors, and illustrates fixed and oscillating desk and bracket fans for alternating and direct current, and also ceiling fans and ventilating fans. The publication contains also illustrations of various wiring devices for use in connection with fans as well as a list of supply parts for all fans.

Bulletin No. A4069, just issued, is devoted to the subject of portable and stationary air compressor sets, which supersedes the company's previous bulletin on this subject.

Bulletin No. A4066 illustrates that company's electric hardening furnace. This publication supersedes a previous publication on this subject.

Bulletin No. A4063 describes various types of polyphase induction motors. This publication supersedes the company's previous bulletin on this subject.

Bulletin No. 4994 describes and illustrates subway transformers, and supersedes a previous bulletin on this subject.

In the report of the Boston Manufacturers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, for 1912, convincing comment is made on the effect of automatic sprinkler protection on the loss ratio of the company.

From 1876 to 1895, a period when manufactories were only partially equipped with automatic sprinklers, the average annual loss ratio was 19.10 cents per $100 of insurance; and from 1896 to 1912, when plants were fully equipped, the ratio dropped to 3.35 cents. During the early part of the latter period many mill storehouses were not equipped during recent years, they have been and the annual average loss ratio per $100 of insurance has been reduced to 2 cents. When one stops to think that cotton mills, about the most combustible to staple industries, constitute the bulk of the new business, the regard for sprinklers is enhanced.

Western Larch.

The United States Department of Agriculture, in Forest Bulletin No. 122, is publishing a report on western larch by O. P. M. Goss, engineer in forest products. The bulletin presents the results of a series of tests to determine the mechanical and physical properties of this little known wood and describes the various structural uses of it.

Larch is at present little used, but it seems to have remarkable properties for use in building operations and in decorative work where weathered effects are desired.

The annual layers of growth, or rings, show distinctly in a cross section. Each year's growth consists of a dark and a light colored band. The number of rings per radial inch in the material tested varied from 11 to 60. The dark portion of an annual ring, called the summerwood, is much harder and stronger than the wood in transverse, radial, and tangential sections. The wood consists chiefly of fibres or cells running lengthwise with the trunk. At right angles to these fibres are the pith rays, running in radial planes.

Resin ducts also occur, confined generally to the summerwood. The heartwood is reddish brown in color, and the sapwood yellowish white. The latter runs from ½ to 1½ inches in thickness for trees up to 3 feet in diameter. The grain of the wood is usually straight. Knots are generally sound and not over 1½ inches in diameter; they are common, and frequently occur in groups or clusters.

In some parts of northern Idaho, western Montana and eastern Washington Western larch and Western yellow pine are practically the only woods used for building purposes. Outside of its region of growth, Western larch is rarely found on the market.

The grain in Western larch is very close and the wood is firm and hard. When cut with the grain vertical it makes an excellent flooring material which wears evenly and keeps a smooth surface.

As a rule it is somewhat difficult to cut edge-grain flooring on account of the fact that many larch logs are small. When especially ordered, however, the edge-grain flooring is furnished, but the general practice is to mix the edge and flat grain stock and sell them together. When larch is used as an inside finishing material in localities where it grows, it finishes smoothly and takes a high polish. It also takes stains well and, because of its hardness, does not mar.

It would seem that this wood might offer new opportunities to architects desirous of obtaining novel effects in interior finish and decoration.

Cost Keeping for Contractors.

A recent issue of the Journal of the American Society of Engineering Contractors contains an article entitled "Cost Keeping and Its Value in Relation to Estimating on New Work," which is significant in its substance as well as its title in that it indicates that the contractor of today is looking upon his business as not merely that a good "boss," getting a maximum amount of work out of each laborer at the minimum wage, but he is advancing it to be a profession, the laws of which should be studied and mastered if success is to be attained.

Even more significant of this—than the paper itself—was the discussion, in which several contractors stated their belief in this idea of contracting. One contractor whose work is largely reinforced concrete stated: "I keep a clerk on all of my work, and he has nothing to do but one thing, keep the time and keep track of the materials and their disposition. He checks up the materials, and that relieves the foreman of that duty. * * * It is a small job that does not pay for the clerk to keep time and check materials. I think that is as necessary as any other part of the work. If there is a bag of cement that goes over to a certain footing it is charged to that footing, and so on for other sections of the work. And all it costs to know that is the salary of the man who is taking [illegible]."

Another speaker summed up the advantages to contractors of cost keeping as follows: "The old-fashioned contractor who did not keep cost records never knew whether he had made or lost money on his job until it was completed; and if he lost [illegible] he did not know on what items he had made it. He had made money on the whole job, and that is all he knew. And he used those same figures on the next job, if it was similar to the previous one; whereas, if he had kept a cost system he would have been able to bid more intelligently on work by reducing the price on some of the items where he had made more money than was necessary, and increasing the price for those items on which he had figured too low before."

The author of the article, Berton M. Laughead, described in brief what is included in such cost keeping as follows: "In order to successfully make estimates that will enable a contractor to make safe bids, it is absoltuely necessary that he keep daily records, in detail, of every branch of his work, so that on completion, he will be able from such records to compile a final cost sheet that will show him the total cost and the cost per yard of his work."

Finds Hidden Pipe.

On page 36 on American Industries of March 15th (30 Church st, price 10 cents) is contained an interesting article on a device, which, it is asserted, will readily show the position of any concealed or underground gas, water, steam or other pipe whether covered with concrete, earth, boards, snow or ice. The "locator" consists of a special form of vibrator and induction coil, mounted in an oak box, provided with space for the necessary battery. This part of the apparatus is designed to produce the necessary current on the lost pipe.

An especially constructed detector coil with receiver is provided for tracing the circuit. The operation of the instrument is very simple; and the average workman can use it.

It is well known that a conductor carrying an electric current is surrounded by an electric field. If a coil of proper construction is brought within this field, a current will be induced in the coil; and if this is connected to a telephone receiver, the effect will be manifest by a tone produced therein. The nearer the coil is brought to the conductor, the louder will be the tone. The "locator" has been designed to produce a current of such strength that, if connected to a pipe as the conductor, the operator may trace the pipe by means of the detector coil and receiver.

New Government Publications.

The Department of the Interior, Bureau of Mines, announces the following new publication as of list No. 17, for March, 1913.

Bulletin 52. Ignition of mine gases by the filaments of incandescent electric lamps, by H. H. Clark and L. C. Ilsley, describing tests showing the liability of the filaments to ignite fire damp.

Bulletin 63. Sampling coal deliveries and types of Government specifications for the purchase of coal, by G. S. Pope, describing in detail methods of sampling and reasons therefor; cities new specifications for purchase of coal by the Government; also Technical Paper 31, describing apparatus for the exact analysis of flue gas, by G. A. Burrell and F. M. Seibert; Technical Paper 36, on the preparation of specifications for petroleum products, by I. C. Allen; and Technical Paper 40, metal mine accidents in the United States during the calendar year 1911, by A. H. Fay.

In writing for publications, order them by number and title, only one copy to a person. Applications should be addressed to the Director of the Bureau of Mines, Washington, D. C.

German Cement Industry.

The Imperial Ministry of the Interior has published data relative to the state of the German cement industry during the years 1910 and 1911. The statistics relate to the operation of 135 plants and are based on definite information furnished by 132 of them and on estimates for the remaining three. Of the 135 plants, 117 were engaged in the production of Portland cement, 6 in the production of iron Portland cement, 6 in the production of slag cement, 2 iron Portland and slag, 1 Portland and iron Portland, and 3 in the production of all three varieties. This distribution was the same in both 1910 and 1911.

The output of Roman cement was not included in the statistics of production. The total production of all other kinds of cement in the 135 plants under consideration was 34,512,283 barrels (of 375 pounds net each) in 1910 and 39,128,216 barrels in 1911. The value of the 1910 output was $29,016,246 and that of 1911 $33,382,594. Of the total output 2,226,045 barrels, worth $1,903,286, in 1910, and 2,710,901 barrels, worth $2,416,414, in 1911, were iron Portland cement, slag cement, etc.

The estimated value of the raw materials used in the production of this cement was $2,815,064 and $3,213,714 in 1910 and 1911, respectively.

A Concrete-Mixing Machine.

Builders and engineers having to do with mixing of concrete will find of particular interest a catalog and quotations of the Lakewood Line, otherwise known as the Ohio Ceramic Engineering Company, of New York and Cleveland. The new method of handling concrete by the Tower system, in which gravity and automatic handling appliances materially reduce the cost of building construction, should be of more than ordinary interest to those having this work in hand. Copies will be sent upon application to the office at 50 Church street, or in Cleveland.

Metal Electric Moulding.

The National Metal Moulding Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has issued a new catalogue devoted to National metal moulding. This modern electric construction material is now available complete with couplings and fittings of every description so that every requirement of construction may be expeditiously handled. The material is ready, together with fittings, in large quantities and stocks are available for quick shipment to every part of the country. The catalog describes and illustrates the methods of construction with National metal mouldings, and indicates the relation of one part to the other. This catalog may be secured upon request.

Wind Bracing Without Diagonals.

A discussion of three methods of wind bracing in current use with advantages and disadvantages of each appears in the March 16th number of Engineering News, 320 Broadway, on page 492, under the heading "Wind Bracing Without Diagonals for Steel Frame Office Buildings," by R. Fleming. In the same number appears an article on the "Action of Acids, Oils and Fats on Concrete," being extracts from a paper read before the Concrete Institute in England, by W. L. Gadd.

Edison Co. Making Artificial Stone.

The Edison Portland Cement Company, according to its general sales manager, Mr. E. Meyer, has received informal notification from the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings that its architectural concrete has passed the requirements of the city building department and has been approved.

The product being turned out by the Edison Company is, in reality, imitation stone produced to duplicate the surface of any building stone in use in building construction or in ornamental work. This product is the result of exhaustive experiments conducted by Thomas A. Edison in his laboratories at West Orange, N. J., but since he has demonstrated that it is commercially feasible to cast decorative placques, capitals and other structural stones in concrete, the manufacture of Edison Architectural Concrete has been transferred to the Edison plant at New Village, N. J., where the original capacity for turning out this product has recently been increased more than 100 per cent.

The Small Uses for Cement.

Spectacular works give the greatest publicity to concrete construction. Big dams, tall skyscrapers and huge factories are fit subjects for magazine articles and the speaker's platform, but the measure of the volume of concrete construction is dependent on the preponderant volume of small work, says the Universal Portland Cement Company. The greatest good to the greatest number lies in the development of the small uses.

The estimate of 1912 cement production and consumption, 3½ million barrels more than in 1911, went largely into normal, healthy increase of small work, especially into small town and rural construction. In the latter field the surface has only been touched. It is, perhaps, less interesting as a subject of discussion, but is more productive of bread and butter to a great number of designers and contractors and more significant of rising standards of building among owners.

Artificial Marble.

The following are directions for making artificial marble: 1. Burnt gypsum is saturated with a solution of lime in alum water, burnt again, ground finely, or rather pulverized, adding one-twelfth by weight of the gypsum of alum; and cast in the mold. These harden very slowly, but attain the hardness and transparency of marble. Different pigments may be added to obtain different colored marbles. 2. Pieces of burnt gypsum, the size of a fist, are put for 3 hours in a 12 per cent. solution of alum in water of a temperature of 85 to 104 degrees Fahr., burnt again, pulverized, adding one-sixteenth powdered alum, and lastly worked into molds with water containing one-sixteenth sal ammoniac for each part of gypsum. Castings made of this combination possess great hardness and brilliancy, and it may, therefore, be used for fine statues.—Neueste Erfindungen und Erfahrungen.

Iron Exports Averaging a Million Dollars Daily.

No class of articles exported from the United States has shown in recent years such a phenominal gain as that of iron and steel manufactures. The exports of iron and steel and articles chiefly composed of those materials showed, 20 years ago in the fiscal year 1893, a total of 35 million dollars; 10 years ago, in 1903, 120 million dollars; and in the fiscal year 1913 will be fully 365 million, or an average of a million dollars a day for the full year. North and South America are the largest markets for our iron and steel manufactures exported.

Structural Steel for Balboa Shops.

The United States Steel Products Company, which has the contract for the fabrication of all of the structural steel framework for the permanent shop buildings at Balboa, has advised the Canal Commission that delivery of the order will be expedited, and that it has made special arrangements for the water transportation.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF WALL PAPER.

Where It Was First Used, and How It Came into General Popularity.

The ancient Egyptians, Assyrians, Trojans, Greeks and other early races had sufficient decorative instinct to color or paint their palace or temple walls; but they didn't "hang" their coloring up, they laid it on.

With the Middle Ages, however, we find both skins (colored leather) and textile fabrics used as wall coverings, and as these were hung from rods, etc., they gained title of "hangings." Of these productions of the loom and the needle the famous Bayeux Tapestry is a striking example. Other examples of a similar kind can readily be recalled.

But while the noble could hang tapestry on the walls of his stone castle, and even wealthy merchants and traders could do the same, ordinary folk had to make shift with whitewashed walls, adorned, perhaps, with rude sprigs of stenciled blue and pink leaves and flowers.

When paperhanging— or wall paper—was introduced, and by whom is not certain. Its name, "hangings," at any rate, indicates that it was the legitimate successor of textile fabrics or tapestry—which did actually "hang." It is supposed that modern wallpaper is a French idea, and that it was invented in Paris about the year 1730. Centuries before that, however, paper hangings were in use both in China and Japan. From 1730, when the material was introduced in France, to about 1785, paper hangings appear to have been produced by the same firms as wove tapestry hangings. The first wall paper factory proper on record was that of Reveillon, in Rouen, founded in 1789. During the Revolution his workmen went on strike for more wages, and their chief argument consisted in setting fire to his factory and looting it. This proved a splendid advertisement for Reveillon, whose factory was soon again rebuilt, and his business enormously increased out of sympathy for his losses. He produced papers in imitation of magnificent stuffs, brocades, tapestries, etc., that were in themselves works of art, and gave him the title of father of the wallpaper industry.

Zuber, a friend of Reveillon, established a factory wherein the extravagant idealization of Brazilian forests, Swiss scenery, and imaginative occurrences in fabulous countries were produced. Jacquemart, Defour and Limon were the more famous successors of Reveillon, during the period of 1790 to 1820.

In 1835 printing rolls, worked on a continuous strip of paper, were introduced, and the modern printing machine was invented. These two ideas completely revolutionized the wallpaper trade. What was before an article of luxury became universal property, and wallpaper, like the newspaper, owing to its cheap production, is now a necessity of the age.

Delicourt, Mader and Desfosse belong to the period from 1820 to 1860. These were followed by Duptani, a manufacturer rich in ideas, who introduced the facsimile period, wherein wall paper became a great imitative agent. No form of mural decoration, whether marble, plaster, wood, ivory, metal, tapestry, silk, lace damask, velvet, tiles, leather, paint, fresco, glass, mosaic inlay or wrought iron forgings, has escaped imitation in wallpaper.—Decorative Furnisher.

Sand Foundations for Tall Buildings.

It is a well-known fact that sand can sustain very heavy loads with comparatively little or no compression and when it directly overlays rock or other thick, hard stratum that is securely confined or otherwise protected against the possibility of lateral displacement it forms a very satisfactory foundation and will carry with safety heavy loads as long as these conditions are maintained. It is for this and other reasons that many heavy buildings of moderate height have foundations resting on the sand, usually only a few feet below the surface. Almost all of them are at or above ground water level. Heretofore they were made with timber and masonry footings, then of concrete, and now almost entirely of reinforced concrete or steel beams enclosed in concrete.

It is the general practice to support the columns of a building singly or in small groups on isolated separate footings proportioned to reduce the loads to substantially the same unit pressure on all.

When the 15-story Spreckles Building was erected in the city of San Francisco some fifteen years ago it was built with all of its columns seated on a double grillage of continuous I-beams reaching entirely across the site in both directions and embedded in a mass of concrete more than 4½ feet thick resting on wet sand 25 feet below the surface of the street. In the case of the 26-story St. Paul Building at Broadway and Ann street, in New York City, the columns have steel beam and girder grillage with concrete footings on the wet sand about 30 feet below the street. The Engineering Record states that the sand was loaded to 8,000 pounds per square foot and in several years has settled only a fraction of an inch and with such regularity that it has been unnecessary to adopt the special provisions designed for compensating irregular or excessive settlement.

In the new Municipal Building spanning Chambers street on Centre in New York City, a part of the foundations is carried to solid rock and part is supported on wet sand nearly 90 feet below the surface. As this building is 25 stories high and has a 15-story central tower rising to a height of 580 feet above the street, the pressure on the sand is 12,000 pounds per square foot.

The foundations of the 32-story building in the city of Cincinnati consists of steel grillages enclosed in concrete and imposing a load of 11,000 pounds per square foot on dry sand about 50 feet below the street. In this case the foundations carry an estimated total load of about 104,000,000 pounds and occupy about 70 per cent. of the entire area of the building.

A Highly-Prized Wood Is Circassian Walnut.

The United States is probably the largest consumer of Circassian walnut, one of the world's best known as most expensive cabinet woods.

The high cost of Circassian walnut is due to the scarcity of the beautifully figured variety demanded for furniture and interior finish, for the tree itself is more widely distributed than almost any other of commercial importance. The demand for the best wood, however, has always outrun the supply. Even in the eighteenth century, when wars in Europe were frequent, so much Circassian walnut was used for gunstocks that the supply was seriously depleted. Early in the nineteenth century the wood of 12,000 trees was used for this purpose alone. Single trees, containing choice burls or fine bird's-eye figures have sold for more than $3,000.

The tree is native to the eastern slopes of the Caucasus and ranges eastward to the foothills of the Himalaya Mountains, from which it extends southward to northern India and the mountains of upper Burma. It has been widely planted in Europe and the United States, in this country under the name of English walnut. The wood grown here, however, has not the qualities demanded by the cabinet and furniture maker. Much of the Circassian walnut now used comes from the Black Sea and from other parts of Asia.

According to a circular just issued by the Forest Service the demand for Circassian walnut has resulted in the substitution of other woods. Our own red gum is often sold as Circassian walnut, and butternut is also similar in general appearance to the less highly figured grades. Many good African, Asian and South American woods resemble Circassian walnut, though none possess the magnificent figure, delicate tones, and velvety texture of the latter. The circular discusses the supply and uses of Circassian walnut, and those who wish to know how possible substitutes may be distinguished can learn from this circular the distinctive marks which the Government's experts have discovered.

Best Way to Finish Oak with a Polish.

The cleaner you wipe off the filler the cleaner the finished job will be. If you desire your oak stained it is best to have the paste filler colored, and you can obtain it from the manufacturer in the natural, in antique, golden or weathered effect, so that you need not stain the wood first.

If you want to do high-grade work it is well to examine the filler surface with a magnifying glass to see if the pores are well filled and no pinholes visible, says the Painters' Magazine. If there are such defects it is best to go over the surface with the filler a second time, but have it of thinner consistency than at first, and repeat the operation of rubbing, wiping off and sandpapering. Now you can apply one or two coats of white shellac, which, when hard, rub down with fine sandpaper; then put on a coat or two of hard oil finish or cabinet rubbing varnish and rub down with curled hair or hair cloth to dull the gloss. The shellac varnish may be omitted, but in that case an extra coat of varnish will be needed.

If you want merely a good eggshell gloss rub the last coat with raw oil and flour of pumice and wipe dry with soft cloth. For a good polish rub with flour of pumice and water first, then wipe dry and polish with rotten stone and sweet oil.

For high luster apply a coat of cabinet finishing varnish on the rubbed varnish surface and omit rubbing this.

—According to information given out by Luther M. Boomer of Merry & Boomer, proprietors of Hotel McAlpin, New York's newest and largest hotel, will have a roof garden, which will be higher up above the sidewalk than any other roof garden in the world. The structural steel for the frame work has been ordered and the work will begin immediately upon its arrival. The roof garden will occupy the roof of the southerly wing of the building, and will be in the form of a rose arbor. It will be equipped with windows so that it can be completely enclosed in case of storm.

EXPLANATION OF TERMS USED AND RULES FOLLOWED IN COMPILING RECORDS.

Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed omitting all covenants and warranty.

C. a G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given. When the date of drawing is other than in the current year the stated year is given. When both the dates are in the same year the year follows the second date.

The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1912.

T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

Flats and apartment houses are classified as tenements.

Residences as dwellings.

All Christian names, streets, avenues, states and months are abbreviated when possible, also in some instances names of Banks, Trusts and Insurance Companies.

The number in ( ) preceding the serial number to the right of the date line, at head of this page, is the Index number for the Checking Index.

The Star following names of street or avenue in the Bronx Conveyances, Leases and Mortgages indicates that the property recorded is in the annexed district, for which there is no section or block number.

VESEY STREET'S POSSIBILITIES

One of the City's Ancient Thoroughfares.—It Will Be Situated Midway Between Subway Stations—Seventh Avenue Extension Will Aid the Street—Other Factors.

TO be soon situated within the sphere of influence of the subway route now in course of construction from Church street diagonally under St. Paul's Churchyard to Broadway, Vesey street is a thoroughfare among others downtown that seems destined to undergo structural changes as a result of its situation. While recent years have witnessed the erection of the Evening Post Building and the Underwood Building in the Vesey street block between Broadway and Church street, there has been little, if any, structural changes in the blocks west of Church street. And it is in these blocks that notable improvements must take place if Vesey street is to be a reconstructed thoroughfare. If the old Astor House, at Broadway and Vesey street, should be torn down, the building that would replace it would undoubtedly cover the site also of some of the buildings now standing in Vesey street adjoining the rear of the Astor House; for it is known that the Astor estate bought the two or three properties there abutting a few years ago.

Superior Light An Attraction.

Such an improvement would, without question, help all of Vesey street; and it is probable that the Astor House will not stand many years longer, as the land is too valuable for any purpose but that of a large modern business building. An owner, such as the Astor estate, can, of course, afford to carry the present building until it gets ready to do what it may determine upon regarding it. Because of the permanently superior light to buildings in the north side of Vesey street, between Broadway and Church street—afforded by the presence of St. Paul's Churchyard in the south side—it is very likely that all old buildings left in the block will before a comparatively great while, make way for modern office space. With the subway mentioned completed, there will be a station at Cortlandt street and another at Chambers street and Broadway; while at Church and Fulton streets there is already the station of the Hudson River tunnel.

Important as a study in real estate, also, are the blocks in Vesey street, west of Church street, which are covered mostly with old buildings. Some of these structures were originally private dwellings and are 100 years or more old. They give an idea of the street in the early period of New York. That it was once an important residential street is borne out by the fact that Dr. Hosack, the surgeon who attended Alexander Hamilton after he received the fatal bullet from Burr's pistol, resided in Vesey street, opposite the churchyard; while the other blocks were occupied by well-to-do persons of that era of New York. The ancient roof copings, window sills and lintels of many of the Vesey street buildings west of Church street tell their age and indicate, with the aid of history, the purpose for which many of them were first used. For many years the block of Vesey street, between Church and Greenwich streets, was a center for wholesale crockery and glass and bottle dealers; but these have mostly removed farther uptown during the last two years, or since Haviland, the French china dealer, planned to leave Barclay street for a location in the central Fifth avenue neighborhood.

There are a few crockery and bottle dealers remaining in Vesey street. But even if they all go, the block must continue to be one of business importance for some class or classes of business, because of the easy accessibility of Vesey street to new subway routes. What the thoroughfare needs is a structural renewal. It has suffered to a degree from the increase in the number of modern loft buildings farther north; and, yet there does not seem to be any diminution of rental power of these old buildings. The extension of Seventh avenue southward, bringing it directly into connection with Greenwich street, will aid Vesey street to a degree. Property in the street will be subject to assessment for the Seventh avenue improvement, the assessment area extending from 59th street south to Liberty street. West Broadway begins at Vesey street, joining Greenwich street at that point. The commissioners of estimate and assessment in the Seventh avenue proceeding have not yet been appointed.

Builders Are Interested.

Speculative builders have been studying Vesey street lately, especially the block between Church street and Greenwich street and offers have been made for certain parcels there. While the assessed valuation in this block are supposed to represent the real valuation or somewhere near it, asking prices are somewhat higher than assessed valuation by several thousands of dollars; and the prevailing opinion of professionals in real estate is that properties are worth about what is being asked for them. The new subway maps place Vesey street about midway between two important subway stations. There are no store vacancies in Vesey street and there are not many loft vacancies. One property, at 54 Vesey street, an old 5-story brick building, was practically destroyed by fire about a year ago; and it is the only completely vacant building in Vesey street. Owned by the estate of William Z. Larned, the building has not been rebuilt, although the walls are standing and are in good condition. It is likely that the property will be sold to someone who will reimprove it with a modern structure. It is about midway between Church and Greenwich streets, in the north side.

Effect of Freight Terminal.

There is an important new element entering into the value of real estate in Vesey street, especially that part of it west of Church street, and that is the probability that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company will exercise its option to build its West Side terminal improvement in subway form as far south as Barclay street. Discussing the New York Central terminal south of 30th street, the committee on terminal improvements of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in its report on terminals to the Board, says: "The company (New York Central) further requests the privilege of exercising an option to substitute for the subway through Canal street a continuation of the subway southward under Washington street to Barclay street, such election to be made at or before the final signing of the contracts to carry this settlement into effect." If the terminal is extended to Barclay street its presence so far south on the lower West Side would wield a widely beneficial condition on all property in the streets immediately adjacent to the terminal because great freight and shipping advantages would be brought into a section of the city that has not heretofore enjoyed them. It will be recalled that the New York Central, in its early days and during the regime of Commodore Vanderbilt, had a freight terminus at West Broadway and Chambers street. If the railroad company carries out its plan to create a lower West Side terminal, property values in Vesey street, west of Church street, must necessarily ascend.

The Produce Section of the Street.

West of Greenwich street Vesey street is essentially a part of the wholesale produce district, and it is an important part of it, because the north end of Washington Market fronts in Vesey street. All of the old buildings that make up Vesey street, from Greenwich street to West street, are fully occupied and bring rentals of fifty cents or more a square foot a year. Many of the produce dealers occupy entire buildings while others occupy one or two floors. Modern buildings for produce dealers have recently been built in West 14th street and neighborhood, in the vicinity of Gansevoort Market; and, while they have attracted some of the produce men northward the movement is not yet pronounced. If a general building movement sets in in Vesey street, there will be a new trend of business into it; and if one or two improvements are started there others will be likely to follow. Some one operator usually leads the way in the rebuilding of any thoroughfare.

HOW THE TAX BURDEN CAN BE LIGHTENED

A Central Purchasing Agency for the City Could Buy at Wholesale and Save Much Red Tape and Accounting — A General City Storehouse.

By HENRY BLOCH.

IF there is any glaringly inefficient system in the management of our municipal affairs, it is in the method of the purchase and distribution of supplies.

The government of the city is administered through 120 different departments, bureaus, boards and commissions. Each of these receives its own annual budget appropriation and each makes its own purchases. The appropriations to many city offices are further divided under bureau heads. No uniformity exists in the method of purchasing, for each division or subdivision of the government has the power to act as a separate entity, regardless of the operations of every other. The city government is thus divided, so far as its purchases are concerned, into a great number of independent units.

The consequence is that the enormous annual outlay for supplies, materials and equipments of every conceivable variety is disbursed, to a large extent, for comparatively small purchases. Much is actually bought at retail prices. No central records of any sort are kept showing the relative cost of purchases by the different offices. No means now exist whereby the experience of any department in making its purchases may be utilized to the advantage of other departments.

Where a Great Loss Occurs.

A great loss to the city occurs in what is known as the open market order service. The city charter provides that purchases not in excess of $1,000 need not be made after competitive bidding. Considering the fact that each city office makes its own purchases, it is not difficult to realize that a large proportion of all purchases are made under this provision of the charter. It appears from the records of the Department of Finance that during the year 1911 $3,568,797 was expended upon open market order purchases. The department, by careful comparisons, has ascertained that purchases made in this way cost about 25% more than if they had been made under contracts entered into after competitive bidding. Often large orders are so split up as to bring each purchase under the $1,000 limit.

Another source of unnecessary expense is found in the present necessity of maintaining adequate records of all purchases made, in the offices making the purchases, as well as in the Department of Finance. Due to this cumbersome necessity for detailed accounting of innumerable small items, much delay is caused in the passing of pay vouchers, as a result of which many of the largest and most reliable firms do not care to transact business with the city. For this reason much of the contract business is awarded to middlemen and small manufacturers whose prices are higher.

Costly Red Tape.

It is time that the business of the city be conducted in a business-like way. What is needed is the centralization of authority and the abandonment of unnecessary "red tape." No private corporation could long survive were it to follow the wasteful and inefficient methods now practised by the city. Every safeguard should be used to have the city receive the greatest possible return for every dollar expended.

A great stride toward economy and efficiency has been made by the Comptroller in his plan for a central purchasing agency under the supervision of the Mayor, Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. In his report to the Board of Estimate he says:

"Millions of dollars' worth of supplies are purchased annually by the various departments at practically retail prices. The methods now used may be compared to those of over one hundred small stores in no way connected with each other. The inefficiency of present methods will be emphasized when the Municipal Building in Park Row is occupied. There will then be under one roof 48 purchasing officials, each engaged in buying practically the same kind of articles. Supplies should be purchased at wholesale prices or less.

Should Get Wholesale Rates.

"The proposed plan contemplates the centralization of the purchasing of supplies required by every city department, bureau, board, commission and office under the city government. All purchasing will be done by a general purchasing agent, who shall be responsible for the prices paid for all supplies requisitioned for by the various city departments, whether delivered direct, or through the general city storehouse. He shall also be responsible for the preparation of all vouchers to be forwarded to the Department of Finance in payment for supplies received and accepted by the city.

"All supplies required by city departments, except perishable supplies for daily delivery and coal, wood and forage, will be requisitioned for by the general storekeeper and purchased for delivery once a month to the general city storehouse in the gross quantities required for the entire city. Thus, instead of the different lines of supplies being purchased upon a hundred or more different contracts at widely varying unit prices for delivery to as many different departments, entire lines will be bought upon a single contract covering the gross quantities required for all departments, at one lowest unit price, for delivery once a month at a single delivery point —the general city storehouse.

"Instead of bids being asked for covering every conceivable kind of supply in a single contract, bids will be asked for covering the gross quantity required.

WHO OWNS THE RIVERSIDE RAILROAD LANDS?

Property Owners Ask the Terminal Committee to First Determine This Question—N. Y. Central's Claims Disputed—No Park Lands to be Sacrificed.

NO lands along Riverside Drive now held in trust for public parks will be commercialized. The Board of Estimate repudiates the attempt that was made to have the State Legislature terminate the trust by which lands under water belonging to Riverside Park are held for public park purposes. That trust will be respected.

This announcement was made by Hon. John Purroy Mitchel, chairman of the Terminal Committee of the board, at a public hearing on Thursday afternoon. When the railroad company has made new plans in accordance with its tentative agreement with the Terminal Committee, further hearings will be held. Other hearings were held upon the same matter on Tuesday morning and afternoon.

At the close of the last session Mr. Mitchel, evidently impressed by the views he had heard expressed by the most representative assembly of property owners in years, stated that the committee was considering the problem with an open mind, that full opportunity would be given for hearings upon the completed plans and that there would be no foreclosure of judgment. The committee had endeavored to make the best terms it could under the provisions of the Act of 1911.

An official plan for the future development for park purposes of the lands under water of Riverside Park may be prepared by the committee. These lands are now being filled in. A suggestion formulated by the former Dock Commissioner for roofing over this newmade land and using the surface for termal facilities will never be carried out. Chairman Mitchel said he could conceive of no combination of authorities that would ever be able to commercialize this strip.

This determination responds squarely to the main point in the appeal of the West End Association as ably enunciated by Counselor Charles L. Craig, of Hoadley, Lauterbach & Johnson. It leaves unanswered, however, the appeal of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, which protests against the laying out of a huge railroad terminal yard on the Riverside frontage between 137th and 153d streets, the protest of private owners against the construction of another big railroad yard at Dyckman street, and the dissatisfaction with the committee's solution of the problem between 79th and 72d street.

Who Owns the Lands?

A very important question was raised in regard to the ownership of the lands used by the railroad company for its tracks along the riverside north of 58th street. Chairman Mitchel had said that he would like to be informed how the committee could dictate to the railroad company a method of operating over lands which it owned in fee.

Mr. Craig tactfully intimated in reply that perhaps the railroad did not hold the fee of all the lands it claimed. For example he was quite certain that the fee of Twelfth avenue, which the city uses for running its trains upon along Riverside Park was still vested in the city, notwithstanding the claims of the railroad to the contrary, and that by the exercise of the police power the city could actually dictate terms to the railroad company. Hence the assumption of the committee that it had little power to exercise in regard to the railroad in that section of the city was a misapprehension.

J. Bleecker Miller, counsel to the League to End Death Avenue and an eminent authority on land titles, went further and spoke more pointedly than Mr. Craig. He asserted that for a distance of five miles north of 58th street less than one-fifth of the land covered by railroad tracks was owned in fee by the company.

"The ownership of the land is the first question to be settled," he said. "The committee has made a false start. The map is on file in the Register's office; anyone who has eyes can see who owns the lands used by the railroad."

Mr. Miller seemed to have all the facts of the case at his tongue's end. He amended an interpretation of a Court of Appeal's decision as given by Mr. Place, representing the New York Central Railroad Company, and unhesitatingly gave the metes and bounds of the city lands and the railroad company's, repeating in conclusion that the railroad company held the fee of but a small portion of the land it was using for its tracks along Riverside Drive.

Chairman Mitchel in reply stated that the committee had been advised to the contrary by an Assistant Corporation counsel, and the committee was acting on that advice.

"Has he made a report to that effect?"

"No; it was informal advice," answered Mr. Mitchel.

At any rate, Mr. Mitchel said, he had not interested himself in that phase of the question, beyond accepting the advice of the Assistant Corporation Counsel. He was willing, however, to be informed on this question as well as on others. It was intimated that briefs would be submitted on this point.

The Terminal Committee had proceeded on the assumption that the title of the railroad company to the lands was incontestable in all except some few instances of minor extent, and had contemplated quieting the city's claims in consideration of the sum of $500,000, plus, of course, the removal of the tracks from the lower West Side avenues.

When Mr. Mitchel asked Vice-President Place what the position of the company was as to its franchises, Mr. Place said:

"They came to us as a corporation from the Legislature. The city was to give its permission to these franchises, the use of the streets, etc., and once that approval was given, the city had no more authority in the matter."

It is conceivable that the legal question brought up may overshadow all others. The railroad company claims to have inalienable rights. Borough President McAneny, who is a member of the Terminal Committee, was not present at any of the hearings. His absence is interpreted to mean that Mr. McAneny was unable on account of the subway negotiations personally to participate in the labors of the committee and study the problems involved as fully as Messrs. Mitchel, Prendergast and Lewis.

Railroad Tracks Laid Upon Land Owned by the City.

Counselor Craig of the West End Association says the location map filed by the railroad shows a strip of land under water along the shore of the Hudson River from Spuyten Duyvil south, not continuous, but in its several parts aggregating in length over four miles. Under the Dongan charter, the Montgomery charter and the grants made by the People of the State of New York in 807 and in 826, and other grants prior to the incorporation of the Hudson River Railroad, the City of New York had title to all of the lands under water shown upon the railroad location map.

The State did not in any of the statutes relating to the railroad convey any land to the company which belonged to the State or city, either above or under water. It is not contended that the city by the mere giving of its consent that the railroad might locate its tracks in certain places thereby conferred any title or ownership of the soil upon the railroad. It is often asserted by the railroad that it is the owner of the land upon which its tracks are laid along the North river waterfront, and which ownership is asserted upon the plans and profiles submitted to the city, and with respect to which the railroad asks the city to release its rights.

While the city consented that the railroad might lay down two tracks along Riverside Park, it now has for the greater portion of the distance four tracks, and the legal counselors of the West End Association have been unable to find any authority whatever for the laying and maintenance of these additional tracks.

Park Lands in Trust.

Prior to 1894 Riverside Park had been laid out and established from 72nd street northward to about 129th street, and extending down t the easterly line of the railroad as shown on its location map. In 1894 the West Side was very greatly imperiled by the proposal to establish, among other things, a gas works just above 72nd street, and other industries of equally objectionable character, and in order to avert this peril the West End Association exerted itself to the utmost, and as a result of these exertions and in order to carry into effect its plans to protect the West Side and Riverside Park, an act was passed by the Legislature, being Chapter 152 of the Laws of 194, by which Riverside Park was extended from the westerly line of the railroad tracks, as shown on its location map, to what is known as the Central Park Commissioners' bulkhead line (which is about 500 feet off high water line at 72nd street), and extending from the southerly line of 72nd street to the northerly line of 129th street; with two exceptions.

These two exceptions the association was compelled to submit to in order to obtain the passage of this legislation, and related to the reservation of certain parcels at 79th street and 96th street

LANDSCAPE DESIGN IN TOWN BUILDING

It Makes the Land More Valuable and Homes More Salable, and is Not Very Expensive—A Superior Class of Suburban Towns Growing Up.

By A. F. BRINCKERHOFF.

IN 1807, by special act of the New York State Assembly, a commission was appointed to prepare a plan for the future development of New York City, the settled portion of which at that time extended only as far north as Waverly Square.

This commission was composed of Gouverneur Morris, Simeon DeWitt and John Rutherford, undoubtedly very worthy gentlemen, but destined to make one of the most far-reaching and serious blunders of their time, a blunder Olmsted Brothers, Landscape Architects. Grosvenor Atterbury, Architect.

PRELIMINARY STUDY OF FOREST HILLS GARDENS.

which has affected the entire physical aspect of Manhattan Island and resulted in the enhanced values of property to an extraordinary degree over a comparatively small area at the expense of real estate over a more general area.

These commissioners were apparently conscientious and painstaking, and they were not without imagination, for they provided in their plan of future New York for a city larger than any then existing, but they were lacking in technical training, as at that early period I suppose there was no one to turn to for expert advice, a privilege which today is taken full advantage of by our various commissions.

The Fundamental Error.

There is a popular story to the effect that Gouverneur Morris and his colleagues were walking about a newly settled portion of the city and discussing what form the plan of the future city should take when one of the members was attracted by the shadow cast upon the ground by the sun shining through the mesh of a sand sieve. He exclaimed with vehemence that the regular rectilinear blocks thus formed upon the sand composed his idea of a plan, and the more regular and evenly the blocks occurred the better.

Thus it was decided that, regardless of the topography, the peculiar shape of Manhattan Island or the requirements of traffic, New York should be laid out in oblong blocks running east and west, so that today in any given square area of upper Manhattan there are twice and in some cases three times as many streets running east and west, the short dimensions of the island, as there are avenues running north and south, the direction of the greatest traffic. This means that in spite of increased width the avenues are inadequate to provide for the traffic thrown into them.

The plan should have been reversed so that the north and south thoroughfares were greater in number than those running east and west. The effect of this not only would have been the avoidance of our excessive street congestion but undoubtedly a more equitable and larger distribution of high land values.

Must Foresee Natural Focal Points.

The same principle applies in the layout of suburban or any land designed for human habitation. The one responsible for such layout must have sufficient imagination to foresee all natural focal points and accommodate the design to such a condition, endeavoring at the same time to govern or dominate the future growth so that contingent or unforeseen future points of importance will fall in with his design.

He cannot, however, do this regardless of topography and environment. It was in this respect that the early designers of New York made their fatal blunder. The topography and surrounding features, such as other towns or communities, railroads, rivers, and the like, are or should be controlling factors. It is a common practice for each municipality to extend its street layout regardless of neighboring towns and cities. Some day these cities or communities will have extended until their frontier area is all developed and physically they are as one city, but their streets, if they meet at all, are not in alignment, and their intercourse is seriously hampered by inadequate connecting thoroughfares.

This is strikingly illustrated in the absorption by the Borough of Queens of the various towns and villages within its borders, which physically do not merge one with the other as they should. It will also soon become evident where it has not already in the areas along the Hudson River and Long Island Sound, in Westchester County.

A Superior Type of Suburbs Rising.

The environs of New York City are being developed rapidly. The unprecedented growth of New York's population is resulting in an ever widening circle of suburbs stimulated by the automobile and improved public transit facilities. Keen competition between the various realty developers has occurred, which fortunately, owing to the discriminating taste of the public, is resulting in a type of suburb far superior to that of a few years ago, when it was considered sufficient to mark out with the aid of a plow and team of horses a few rectangular blocks, to show their division by a row of white stakes and sell off the property in lots as ideal home sites.

Today paved streets are necessary, water, gas and electricity demanded, and in order to sell readily a plot with a house already on it, the importance of planting the place with trees and shrubs must be recognized. A place properly planted will sell much more readily than one on which the house is bare of adornment and looks as though it had not yet come to stay. The selling price obtainable in nearly all cases is more than sufficient to pay for the cost of such work.

HOMES AT KEW GARDENS.

While the term "garden cities," coming to us from England, where model suburbs are being created to an extensive and perfected degree, is somewhat of a misnomer, like the term "civic centre," it has taken a strong hold on the public's fancy and is doing much toward bringing about a higher standard in our realty development. For many years England suffered under the regime of what are known as "Jerry" builders—men who developed land and erected dwellings according to the cheapest and most superficial methods, regardless of the ultimate comfort and well-being of their patrons.

The evils of this practice, however, were more serious in the thickly populated sections than in the country where the people still enjoyed the redeeming feature of abundant fresh air and opportunity to get out in the open. Notwithstanding this it was realized that even in the open suburbs the public, especially the workers and their families, were entitled to homes which, while within their means, gave them the benefits of a semi-rural existence with opportunities to enjoy their own gardens and the natural features of their community, besides living clean, wholesome lives.

Dwellings in Factory Settlements.

With this object in mind, certain manufacturing companies have built for their employes model communities in the neighborhood of their factories. The employes are enabled to rent or purchase on an easy payment plan their houses at cost plus a sufficient additional rate to allow a small percentage on the investment. In addition to their homes the companies build libraries, public baths, meeting halls and the like for the benefit of the employes. Such communities have been built by Lever Bros., the soap manufacturers near Birmingham, England, and by the Cadbury Co. at Bournville, both of which villages have become widely known and are being copied by other manufacturers. While these enterprises were prompted by philanthropic motives, it was found to be a commercially profitable venture on account of the increased efficiency of the employes.

Cooperative Work.

This work has led to the co-operative town planning enterprises which provide communities for the general public—a movement which has taken England by storm and has done much toward improving the living conditions of those in poor or moderate circumstances. These are not charities in the sense that the purchasers or renters get more than they pay for, but they are demonstrations to show that the poorer classes in the neighborhood of the large cities can obtain comfortable houses amid beautiful surroundings for a price within their means. Formerly this was impossible.

Co-operative Town Planning.

The effect of this movement is becoming manifest in this country and is probably destined within a few years to affect to an extraordinary degree the character of suburban development. A demonstration in our own neighborhood has already been started in the construction of Forest Hills, L. I., of a model community by the Sage Foundation Fund. It is in no sense a charity, for all purchasers or renters pay sufficient for their purchases to allow the company a fair percentage on the total investment. This project is, however, a philanthropy, in that its purpose is to demonstrate in a large and practical way to the public and to real estate developers in particular the feasibility of laying out a suburban property completely, with liberal allowances for streets, park reservations, buildings for the common use of the community, and dwellings having every comfort at a cost to the householder that will enable those of moderate means to enjoy suburban homes amid refined and cultured surroundings.

The Sage Foundation Homes Company has employed various experts in the development of the project, including a landscape architect who has had almost unlimited scope in designing a layout consistent with the requirements of the undertaking. In spite of the fact that a fair return on the investment is required, as would be the case with any developing company, liberal allowances of land have been made for playgrounds, small parks and boulevards. This was made possible by proportioning the size of the streets and lots to their requirements.

Requires But Little More Land.

That is to say, the total area of land available for purchase or for building purposes is but little less than if streets of the regulation width, of say 50 feet, were constructed throughout the property regardless of their purpose. By making the main thoroughfares and other important streets of greater width and the short ones (which accommodate only a neighborhood block) 40 feet in width, the building sites have been made more attractive and hence more valuable. Likewise, the land given over to neighborhood playgrounds has been so adjusted in size and location that the value of the land for sale is greater than without such reservations.

The company has even gone so far as to include for the purchase price of the house sites plans not only for the dwellings but also for the planting arrangements of the grounds, with special inducements to the purchaser when he executes the plans as designed, thus assuring a consistent scheme of treatment for the entire community.

A demonstration that will prove to the public and to professional realty developers that scientific development combined with the keenest attention to aesthetic effects is of economic importance, will be epoch making and will do more toward bringing about more pleasing, to say nothing of more beautiful living conditions than anything of the kind thus far undertaken.

Rights in the Streets.

Where the fee of the street is in the city, the owner cannot use the subsurface for vault purposes without a permit or license from the municipality. Where the fee is still in the adjacent owner, he may use the land without license from the city, so long as he does not interfere with ordinary street uses. This doctrine was upheld in the case of Laurens street (now South Fifth avenue) against the Gilbert elevated railroad company. Laurens street had been laid out and dedicated by a former owner of the lands as a public street, and no compensation was ever paid either for the fee or for the easement to use the land for a public road. Where an owner of property makes a common law dedication, the ultimate fee is unaffected thereby.

FOR THREE-FAMILY HOUSE EXEMPTION

The Building and Real Estate Interests of Brooklyn Say That Tenement House Law Frustrates Erection of Small Houses.

REAL estate professionals, title company officials, builders and owners of vacant property in the outlying as well as in the older parts of Brooklyn and Queens are strongly in favor of the bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Frederick S. Burr, of Bay Ridge district, that exempts three-family houses from the provisions of the tenement house law. It is argued that if the bill becomes a law there will be more extensive building in the boroughs in discussion; that it is unprofitable to build three-family houses under the tenement house law; that there is no substantial reason why they should be covered by the law; that property values are impaired by preventing the improvement of much property that would otherwise be improved with three-family houses; and, that the best evidence that the tenement house law encourages congestion of population is that very few, if any, three-family houses are built. Brooklyn and Queens, it is urged, are logically small house boroughs and that the distribution of population rather than the density of it has been the theme of sociologists for a long time past. It is a fact that under the tenement house law there has been very little three-family house construction.

Realty Interests Cross Swords.

The tenement house committee of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, which is composed of some of the prominent citizens of the borough, are strongly opposed to the proposed Burr amendment to the tenement house law and the committee has issued a pamphlet wherein it assails the proposition. Property owners, real estate men, title company officials and others who know and fully understand Brooklyn real estate say they cannot understand why the committee of the Bureau of Charities mentioned should antagonize the proposed measure, because its enactment into law means the reduction of congestion and better home conditions for the masses, the encouragement of better living conditions and also better real estate conditions.

The committee's pamphlet says:

"If the three-family houses are exempt from the Tenement House Law we would have three family houses, old or new, without water supply in every building, without fire-escapes or egress in case of fire, with dark windowless rooms, with unhealthy basement living and sleeping-rooms, with foul and malodorous stables on the same lot, with prostitutes and respectable tenants in the same building, with undetected and unchecked conditions of overcrowding and uncleanliness, and defective and dangerous plumbing and general unhealthy and unsanitary conditions because of lack of inspection. The people who are to live in these houses, the people who now live in three family houses look to the city for their protection in regard to these matters so important to life and health."

"The owners of unimproved real estate who have prepared the bill to exempt the three-family house, delude themselves if they think the enactment of such a law would encourage home ownership, be a benefit to the City, provide safe investment, or that this law would supply 'home privacy,' a better environment or 'break congestion.'"

Real estate interests declare that this statement is not founded on fact and that if it is true it is a serious reflection on the Bureau of Buildings, the Board of Health, the Fire Department and the Police Department. The same interests also declare that it would be impossible for old sanitary and structural conditions to reappear, that the building laws and the general improvement in living conditions refute such a theory. It is argued, too, that the tenement house committee of the Bureau of Charities is invidious in its illustrations showing poor living conditions in three-family houses, that the committee has not selected the typical house of that kind to illustrate, but the worst.

Fear Wily Speculators.

The tenement house committee of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities has declared that if the three-family house is exempted from the provision of the tenement house law that such structures will become the sport and prey of the speculative builder. Real estate men declare that they would be so to no greater extent than larger tenement houses are now, and in addition, they point out that it was the speculative builders that improved such wide areas of Brooklyn as Prospect Park South, Windsor Terrace, South Midwood, Vanderveer Park, Borough Park, Fiske Terrace, Flatbush, Bay Ridge, and other sections where improvements have been frequent during the last fifteen years and where home conditions are good.

Builders, real estate men and property owners declare that the recent investigation of the Police Department shows that the bulk of immoral living conditions and prostitution flourishes to a greater extent in tenement houses than in two or three-family houses. This is in answer to the statement made by the Charities committee that two-family houses are poorly equipped with light and air as regards their interior rooms and that they promote immorality. The real estate interests insist that housing conditions cannot retrogress so far as any kind of building is concerned and that the more individual and semi-individual houses there are the better for the conditions that the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities say should exist. The same interests declare that three-family houses in the oldest parts of Brooklyn, which are mostly old dwellings remodeled for multi-family purposes, are not typical of three-family houses in the borough; and, these are the types that the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities have illustrated in their pamphlet.

Say Growth is Checked.

Real estate and building interests further point out that a two-family house, 20x55 in size, contains 1,100 square feet of living space for each family; while a tenement house of the same area has only 500 square feet for each family. There are thousands of lots in Brooklyn and Queens, 20x100 feet each, for which three-family houses are the most logical improvement; but it is contended, that the tenement house law frustrates such improvement by its legal exactions regarding such structures; and the friends of the amendment to the law argue that three-family houses are not, within reason, tenement houses in the literal sense. The tenement house law as it now stands is favorable to the congestion of population in large houses instead of a distribution of population through smaller houses, if the arguments for the amendment are true. And, it is argued by the friends of the amendment that the attempt to make tenement houses more and more model has enhanced their cost and consequently caused an increase of rentals for them that is not commensurate with the incomes of the tenants who have to live in them.

Another argument of the champions of the amendment is that the tenement house law's egis over three-family houses acts as a restriction upon thousands of vacant lots, thereby preventing improvement of them for the most suitable purpose and consequently impairing their value. The public is reminded, too, that vast and extensive municipal improvements in all the boroughs are under way from year to year and that the budget is being steadily augmented, with no likelihood of its becoming smaller. The budget, it is urged, must be met with taxes upon real property; and, that the prevention of the erection of three-family houses on vacant property that is more available for that purpose than for any other, is depriving the city of a vast increase in its taxable assets and to a degree retarding the city's growth.

Registration of Architects.

THE attention of the Judiciary Committee of the Legislature was occupied this week by the investigation of the extortion charges against Senator Stillwell. Action was consequently deferred on many of the important measures before that committee, including Senator Foley's bill (No. 1481) providing for the registration of architects. It is understood, however, that this measure is likely to be reported out of committee in time for consideration by both houses of the Legislature.

Similar bills have been passed by three earlier Legislatures, only to be rejected by the chief executive. While Gov. Sulzer has not declared himself concerning the Foley bill, except to say that he will consider it with an open mind, advocates of the measure who have spoken to him about it, freely predict that his approval will not be withheld if it comes before him. Favorable action by the Legislature is taken for granted, partly because of the support received by similar bills in the past and, more especially, because of assurance obtained from influential members of both houses.

The bill carries the prestige of official endorsement of the New York, Brooklyn and Central New York chapters of the American Institute of Architects, the New York Society of Architects and the Bronx-Arts Society.

Bronx County Recorder.

Senator Stillwell's bill providing for the appointment of a commissioner of records of the Bronx to superintend the copying and transfer of real estate records and maps in the office of the Register of the County of New York affecting property in the County of Bronx, made no progress in the Legislature during this week. It was severely criticized, however, both in the Bronx and in Manhattan. The Bronx County Committee, at a meeting in the old court house at Third avenue and 158th street, voted to oppose it, and Register Grifenhagen issued a statement showing that the bill would require an expenditure of $1,473,154. The Register pointed out that much needless copying was called for by the bill, and offered a plan by which the essential purpose of the Stillwell measure can be achieved at a cost of about $225,000.

Hearing On Bill Halving the Tax Rate On Improvements.

The hearing before the Joint Committee on Cities of the Senate and Assembly on the Salant-Schaap Bill was held last Wednesday before a crowd of interested spectators who well filled the Senate chamber. The bill seeks to reduce the tax rate on all buildings ten per cent. per annum for five years, so that at the end of five years the tax on improvements will be one-half the tax rate on land.

The opponents to the bill started the argument and soon showed the far-reaching and confiscatory effect of the measure. The proponents for the measure argued against all forms of land speculation and some of them went so far as to say that no human being should be permitted to own land. The many questions asked of the proponents by the senators and assemblymen soon revealed the fact that they understood the measure and were opposed to it.

The opposition was lead by Henry Bloch, Dr. Harvey W. Berg, Allan Robinson and Dr. A. Korn; while Benjamin C. Marsh, chief advocate of the bill, assisted by Dr. Henry Moskovitch and Alexander Law, representing the New York City Tenant's Union, led the proponents.

The committee, with Senator Cullen as chairman, after listening attentively for four and one-half hours, took the matter under advisement and for consideration in executive session. It is confidently expected that the bill will not be reported out of committee.

Will Survey for Queens Canals.

Governor Sulzer has signed a bill which makes an appropriation covering the estimated cost of making an engineering survey for the proposed canal to cross Queens Borough from Flushing Creek to Jamaica Bay, and also of making a survey for a canal to extend from Newtown Creek to Flushing Creek. A bill in the Legislature provides for a referendum vote on an appropriation of $40,000,000 in bonds for the improvement of State canals, included in which is an item of $12,000,000 for the construction of the Flushing-Jamaica canal. In the Record and Guide of January 27, 1912, will be found a map with description of the route of the proposed canal.

Licensing Engineers in New York.

A bill to require engineers to pass examinations and receive licenses before practising their profession in New York State is again being considered in the New York Legislature. The bill was introduced by Mr. Larrimer and is No. 1126 on the Assembly files. In general, it is similar to the McGrath bill, introduced two years ago, and has the backing of the Technical League of America. The committee in charge of the bill gave a hearing upon it April 1. A number of engineers appeared in opposition.

Must Pay a Higher Scale.

The Public Service Commission has adopted a resolution directing subway contractors to pay the prevaling rate of wages for bricklayers to the men engaged by them in laying brick in asphalt for the waterproofing of the subway structure.

It has been the practice of contractors to employ a grade of labor called "waterproofers" for doing this work, and these waterproofers are not paid as high wages as bricklayers command. The executive committee of the Bricklayers' unions protested to the Public Service Commission and claimed the work for their trade.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Reduces the Rates on Building Materials—Rough Lumber on Free List.

Congress met in special session on Monday, April 7, and a new tariff bill was at once presented in the House, whence it will go to the Senate, perhaps to be considerably modified. Among the tentative items on the bill are these:

Rough lumber, hewn timber, shingles, and lath, iron ore and nails, asbestos, common clay, coal, copper ore, crude rubber, statuary and turpentine are put on the free list.

Rates on all brick have been cut on the average from 30.23 per cent to 10.28 per cent, tile from 47.84 per cent to 23.36 per cent, and asphalt from 37.05 per cent to 9.62 per cent.

Window glass has been given an average reduction on all glasses of from 46.38 per cent to 28.31 per cent. Plate glass, which may be considered a luxury, still retains a duty of nearly 40 per cent, the average being 38.45 per cent in place of the duty of 63.95 per cent in the law.

Sawed cabinet woods, which were 12.75 per cent in 1912, are now 10 per cent; casks, barrels, etc., which were 30 per cent, are now 14.77 per cent, and house furniture, which was 35 per cent, is now 15 per cent.

Lime, from 5 cents per cwt. to 5 per cent ad valorem.

Portland, Roman and other hydraulic cement, reduced from about 32 cents per barrel to 5 per cent ad valorem.

Plaster rock or gypsum, crude, ground or calcined, pearl hardening for paper makers' use, Keene's cement, or other cement of which gypsum is the component material of chief value, and cements not otherwise provided for, 10 per centum ad valorem.

Marble, rough, from 65 cents to 50 cents a cubic foot.

Marble articles, from 50 per cent to 45 per cent ad valorem.

Granite and building stone, dressed, from 50 per cent to 25 per cent ad valorem.

Steam engines, printing presses, machine tools, from 30 to 15 per cent.

Ocher and ocher earths; present rates range from ¼ cent to ⅜ cent a pound; proposed rate, 5 per cent ad valorem. Orange mineral, from 3¼ cents a pound to 25 per cent. Zinc oxide, from 1 cent a pound to 10 per cent. Paints, colors, etc., from 30 per cent to 15 per cent. White lead, from 3 cents a pound to 25 per cent.

Pig iron and slabs, which were 16.35 per cent and 17.79 per cent, have been cut to 8 per cent in each case; beams, girders and all other structural iron, from 23.20 per cent to 12 per cent, and forgings from 30 per cent to 15 per cent.

Round iron, from $8 and $12 a ton to 8 per cent.

Iron and steel forgings, from 30 per cent to 15 per cent.

Sheet steel or iron, now $6 to $18, cut to 20 per cent.

Tin plate, now $24 a ton, cut to 20 per cent.

Steel wire, 20 per cent.

Bolts, with or without threads or nuts, 15 per cent; cast iron pipe of every description, 12 per cent; chain or chains of all kinds of iron or steel, 20 per cent; table, kitchen and hospital utensils, 25 per cent; rivets, studs and steel points, 20 per cent; screws, 25 per cent; copper in rolled plates, sheets and rods, 5 per cent; lead-bearing ores of all kinds, one-half cent per pound on the lead contained therein; lead dross and lead bullion, 25 per cent; nickel, 10 per cent; in sheets or strips, 20 per cent.

—Railroad earnings still show liberal gains, and the supplies of manufactured goods generally are relatively light.

BUILDING MANAGEMENT

Conducted by Raymond P. Roberts, Building Manager for the American Real Estate Company.

JANITOR'S WORK.

Its Well-Doing Essential to the Success of a Building.

BY JOHN L. PARISH.

ONE of the indispensable requisites of the successful management of an investment property of the apartment house order, is a good janitor. And it may as well be recorded here as elsewhere, that a really good janitor is one of the rarest among the phenomena of human nature.

If the building is big enough and the social and financial grade of the tenantry seems to justify the distinction, the janitor is called "Superintendent." This often inspires a generally reluctant flame of personal pride and prompts the superintendent to dress the part a little better than if he were a plain janitor. But whether it has any effect upon the question of efficiency and fidelity is still an undetermined issue.

His Large Responsibility.

From every point of observation the office is seen to be one of much responsibility and of unusual opportunity. The janitor (or superintendent) stands in a peculiarly intimate relation to both the landlord and his tenants. It is not too much to say that he has it within his power, in nearly every case, to make the property successful or unsuccessful as an investment.

But, speaking generally, the janitor seldom appears to appreciate either his opportunity or his responsibility. Seldom does he appear to realize that there is any harmony of interest between himself and his employer. Because of this the janitor has to be closely supervised by the owner, if the latter is to make the best out of his investment.

For to the owner the proper management and upkeep of his property is vital to its financial success. And it appears to be fully demonstrated in practice that the degree of financial success is in exact proportion to the showing made by the janitor, or superintendent. And the scale of efficiency of these gentry ranges between conspicuous success and equally conspicuous failure.

Uses Too Much Coal.

Up in the Bronx there is a janitor who is burning two tons of furnace coal a day in the heating of two 50-foot 5-story flats. His furnace room is like a Turkish bath in temperature, but there is no excess of heat above the basement. And dirt and debris lie heaped in every corner. He is paid $60 a month for this and has his rent, fuel and light free. His opportunities for earning from the tenants are not so good as they are in the better class of apartments, but they make a substantial addition to his salary. He carries the odor of liquor on his breath nearly always and is untidy and slovenly in appearance, and offensive in his manner toward the tenants. He is so conspicuous a failure that the buildings, though fully rented, are being carried through the winter months at a deficit. When asked why he kept this janitor the owner replied that he would "fire" him in a minute if he knew where to get a better one.

In another instance a broker brought a prospective buyer to inspect a large apartment house situated in one of the better residential neighborhoods in Harlem. The building was of better than average construction and finish, but its condition was beyond description for filthiness and neglect.

And this was its appearance after the janitor had been notified by the owner that a possible customer was coming up for an inspection and he wanted the premises thoroughly cleaned up and made presentable. This janitor was a spruced up dandy of about 28, and unmarried, and a famous favorite of most of the domestics in the vicinity. He neither knew nor cared the first thing about the care of property and when reproached for his laziness and neglect, placidly advised his employer to get somebody else to take his place.

Good Janitors are Rewarded.

But there are good janitors in many of the better classes of apartment houses. Indeed, the good janitors soon or late all attain to the command of the better positions, and these are, of course, found in the larger and finer buildings. Yet even in these buildings there are wide gradations in the quality of service obtainable from the superintendents. The price of satisfactory efficiency is eternal vigilance on the part of the owner. For there is no other school for the training of janitors and superintendents than the school of experience. And the recruits for this sort of service are often of so poor quality that they cannot or will not learn even in that school.

An owner whose properties show up so well that they are the subject of remark by all who have inspected them was asked how he managed to get such uniformly excellent service out of his superintendents. He said: "I never fail to visit and inspect thoroughly my properties at least twice a week, and often three or four times. It is an awful nuisance, but it is the only way to keep up the efficiency of these men. I pay them good salaries and I feel then that I have the right to exact good service.

No Drinking Men Employed.

"I will not, for instance, have a drinking man in my employ in such a position. I have only recently made a change on that account. I detected the odor of liquor on the breath of a man, a young man who had his wife and two nice children living in the house, and who was otherwise attending to his work quite properly; I spoke to him about it, telling him I did not like it. Shortly after that he repeated the offence and then I warned him. On the third offense I fired him. Tenants of the class we cater to are entitled to prompt and efficient service from the house staff, and to decent appearance and courteous behavior also. And it means money in my pocket for me to see that they get it. So it pays to be constantly attentive to this branch of my service."

Brokers whose business requires them to show properties of this class to their clients have often been embarrassed by defects in their appearance that could be cured by timely applications of soap and water, and have often wished that owners could realize how important it is to their own interest that their properties should in every part, in the boiler-room no less than in the entrance hall, make a favorable impression on first view.

HELPFUL MANAGERIAL HINTS.

How to Clean Battery Jars.—Keeping Doors in True.

By the use of slender strain bars or wires, which are tightened at will, a large factory has practically done away with delays resulting from doors, screens and gates that drag. The bar runs from the outer lower corner to the inside upper corner of the door, and tightens by a double-threaded nut, or turn buckle, exactly atfer the manner of the strain bar under a freight car.

Cleaning Battery Jars.

Wipe off the jars inside and out, with a piece of waste soaked in kerosene. The oil softens the dirt and removes the saline deposits on the walls of the jars and leaves the jars with a greasy surface, which will not allow them to form again. Care should be taken to remove all superfluous oil, as it gathers dust; also be careful to keep oil from connecting joints, as this tends to destroy electric contact.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Correcting Hot-Water Troubles.

With reference to Mr. Joseph H. Booth's article "Correcting Hot-Water Troubles" in your issue of January 25th, would say, that I reside on the top floor of a five-story apartment. When a tenant on a lower floor draws the water, not a drop reaches me until he turns the water off. Perhaps you can suggest a remedy.

Answer.—The trouble you complain of may be caused by insufficient pressure, especially if the water supply of the apartment house is taken from the street mains. Very often this pressure is not sufficient to raise the water to your apartments when anybody else draws it on a floor below. The remedy for this condition is the installation of a pressure tank in the cellar or a storage roof tank of sufficient capacity to supply the demand per hour in your building, which probably would not require extra pumping facilities. It very often happens that the water pressure is lower in the day time than it is at night, and if such is the case the street pressure may be sufficient to fill the reserve tank over night so that an adequate supply of water can be obtained on every floor of the building simultaneously at any time. This change could be effected at slight cost.

NEW THINGS

Uninfluenced by advertising considerations, this information is offered on its merits for the benefit of building managers.

Cuts Down Drilling Costs.

The Daugherty-Smith-Phillips Company, 500 West Division street, Chicago, Ill., is turning out a drill that is said to operate from five to ten times faster than the old hand method. It is an adaptation of the Phillips spring hammer to the uses of a drill. The spring hammer affords quicker work, hence lower drilling cost. A rapid light blow is struck the tool, and, the drill being constantly shifted back and forth, a reaming, grinding and pulverizing takes place, making it impossible for the tool to hang thus greatly facilitating the work.

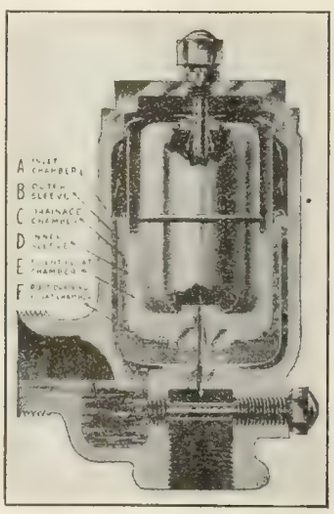
Essentially the hammer consists of a plunger and compression spring working in a metal cylindrical casing. The plunger is slotted to receive a rachet, which is on the end of the crankshaft. As fast as the crank is turned the rachet teeth engage the plunger, forcing it back against the spring, and upon release of the rachet the plunger is driven with all the force of the spring against the drill.

The hammer can be used with a breast plate and two cranks on opposite quarters if desired, as it is so constructed that the crank can be worked on either side of the hammer, right or left-handed. The spring has a tension by turning the thumb-wheel in the handle and increasing or decreasing the compression. Instead of standing to one side of the drill, as in hand drilling, the workman can stand directly in front of the hole and take every natural advantage of this position. The illustration shows the spring hammer used with an extension, which consists of three pieces of steel tubing, and in this way the hammer can be used in scaffold work, which is said to be a great time and labor saver.

A New Sheet-Packing.



The Endura Manufacturing Company, of 6301 Eastwick avenue, Philadelphia, is introducing a sheet packing that should commend itself to building managers in search of a long wearing packing and especially in cases where refrigerating plants are operated. The company makes this packing of a material which increases in toughness the more it is wet and makes the claim that no rubber-rotting liquids, gases, oils, ammonia, or water can harm it. It is said that this material has great pressure-resisting tensile strength, that it caulks well, peels readily from the joint for renewals and yet has clinging tendency which makes an absolutely tight connection.

Detecting Engine Trouble.

The detectorphone is the application of the surgical stethoscope to machinery. As the name implies it is a device having an electro-microphone receiver at one end of a wire while at the other end is a feeler like a surgical probe of sensitized steel. When the engineer is in doubt regarding the behavior of invisible parts of the engine, he merely places the receiver to his ear and runs the "feeler" along the engine and is thereby able to detect destructive hammering long before bearings or cylinder heads are endangered. The device is sold at a reasonable price and has a particular application in the operation of isolated plants. It is manufactured by the Boston Talking Machine Company, of 22 Aimes street, Boston, Mass.

Stops Back-Pressure on Engines.

It frequently happens that when exhaust steam from engines is used for heating purposes, there is a back-pressure which is very harmful to engine parts. A device is being put upon the market by the Monash-Younker Company, of 123 West 42d street, which obviates this trouble. The illustration shows the construction of this device and those who have used it say that it accomplishes very satisfactorily what it is designed to do. The device is also applicable where exhaust steam is used for drying purposes.

High Power Portable Drill.

The Standard Electric Tool Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, has developed and is now placing on the market a new universal portable electric drill in four sizes, one-quarter, five-sixteenths, one-half and three quarters inch.

These drills operate from any lamp socket on either alternating current or direct current circuits, and they will also run satisfactorily on low-frequency circuits as well as on 60-cycle series commutating type motors of special design. Absence of any tendency to run hot are noteworthy features of these tools. An improved method of forced ventilation is also used.

Holds Joists Securely.

The Lane Brothers Company, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., have a joist hanger which is said to save considerable time in framing. Their device is the result of long continued experience looking to the absolute security of joists where they abut their beams in frame buildings and does away with the insecure process of spiking. The accompanying illustration gives a very comprehensive idea of how the problem was solved and incidently provides a means of noting the method of gaining support by reinforcing the carrying lugs as they drop from the top of the beam to the bottom of the joists.

Summer Comfort in Offices.

New York has been called the canyon of the winds. Even on a torrid August day the occupant of the skyscraping office building, though far removed from the blistering pavements, must sit and swelter in a stuffy office because his papers are liable to be blown out of the window by a sudden gust of wind the moment he opens his windows. If he uses an oscillating wall fan, his nerves are constantly wrought up through fitful grabbing of shifting documents. The stationary desk fan ruffles up his hair and his temper and makes perspiration preferable to annoyance.

But there seems to be a solution to the problem this year in the form of a new idea in desk fans being introduced by the Racine Electric Company, of Racine, Wis. The manufacturers contend that it removes every fan objection, because it projects the air away from, rather than toward, the person sitting near. The accompanying illustration shows the application of the fan for table use. The fruit piled above the blades is used to demonstrate, as possibly nothing else could do in an illustration of this sort, the fact that it affords a rest for books or other desk equipment that otherwise would occupy valuable desk space.

In operation, the fan forces the air upward from the desk, dilates it as it strikes the deflecting surfaces directly above, and gives a circulating movement to the heated, impure air above the workers' heads, and so forcing it out of the room through windows opened at the top and at the same time permitting fresh air to find access to the room through the same avenue.

The project for a civic center in Mt. Vernon seems now to be assured, as the bills introduced into the Legislature by Assemblyman Bovie, authorizing the Mt. Vernon city authorities to issue the required bonds, have been enacted. Among the new structures immediately contemplated are a municipal building and buildings for the fire and police departments.

An interesting collection of consular reports on the street cleaning methods of the principal cities of Europe is contained in the "Daily Consular and Trade Reports" for March 12. A number of these cities, it appears, have introduced motor-driven sweeper suction machines. These machines are yet in the experimental state, but the time is probably not far off when pavements may be cleaned without stirring up clouds of dust.

The Cullen-Levy bill, signed this week by the Governor, authorizes every city in the state to exercise all the functions of local self-government that do not involve structural changes in their existing charters or that do not conflict with general state laws. New York City, for example, may establish salary schedules and pension systems for all classes of employees, but it may not alter the structural organization of any department. It may install a municipal lighting plant, operate markets and warehouses, or license occupations generally. In short, the city will no longer be limited to activities specifically enumerated, but there is no transfer power from one department to another. The bill is one of a series of five measures which embody the Municipal Government Association's home rule programme, a programme which is being pushed in other states as well as in New York.

Adjusting Building Heights.

The Record and Guide published in its issue of last week a list of the limitations on the height of fire-proof buildings which are now imposed in certain of the larger American cities. These restrictions belong to two general classes. Many cities simply put a rigid absolute limit upon the number of feet which a building is allowed to rise. This limit varies between 125 feet, as in the case of Boston and Scranton, and 200 feet as in the case of Chicago, Cleveland and Newark. Other cities make the legal limit proportionate to the width of the widest street on which it is situated, the ratio usually being two and one-half times the width of the street. Buffalo has a special provision which limits buildings to a height of more than four times that of its smallest horizontal dimension, but such a restriction, while it might operate beneficially in certain cases, would not meet the situation in New York City. A few cities impose more severe restrictions on lofts and stores than they do upon office buildings.

It is very much to be hoped that no attempt will be made to apply rules of this kind to the case of New York. The principle of adjusting the limit to the width of the street or streets on which it is situated has an obvious propriety and should be adopted in some form, but not in the form which it has obtained in other American cities. Mr. Ernest Flagg in a letter in the Times points out the weakness of the usual methods of regulation adopted in this country. They do not really accomplish the purpose which they are intended to accomplish. They do not insure light over the streets and for the buildings themselves. They do not prevent congestion. They do not secure equality of treatment as regards light between adjacent owners. They do not contribute toward the good looks of the city or make the fire risk a negligible quantity.

The plain fact is that public opinion will not consent to a limit of height low enough to be really effective. As Mr. Flagg points out, the limit of all buildings on a sixty-foot street should be not more than six stories—in case the recognized evils of tall buildings are to be effectually done away with. If they are allowed to rise as high as twelve stories, all the disadvantages of the skyscraper are permitted to continue, although in a somewhat less acute form than is now the case. Yet it is evident that if a limit were proposed which would really do away with these disadvantages, it would not have a chance of adoption and it would tend for many years to lower real estate values in certain parts of Manhattan.

Mr. Flagg concludes, consequently, that if a limit of height, low enough to be really effective, cannot be obtained, it would be better to have none at all. Why burden the statute book with a law that will not accomplish the purpose for which it was designed? A limitation of twelve stories in streets sixty feet wide and of twenty stories in streets or avenues one hundred feet wide would mean that the maximum limit would soon become the minimum, and that New York would continue to suffer from the same disadvantages as at present, the only difference being that the unwholesome conditions would be spread over a somewhat larger area.

The alternative is to abandon the idea of a rigid limit and seek to accomplish the desired end by more flexible means. There is no necessary objection to skyscrapers merely because they are tall. If every skyscraper was surrounded by a sufficient amount of light and air, the city would not suffer from any of the evils against which such a strenuous protest is now being made. The evils come from crowding too many skyscrapers within a certain area. If they could be properly separated they would not obstruct one another's light and would not be materially dangerous in case of fire. The idea is, consequently, to permit the erection of tall buildings to any economically practicable height, provided a sufficient distance divides one skyscraper from another. A general limit of height could be established low enough to be effective, which certainly could not be more than once the width of the street, but on a certain percentage of each lot no such limit would apply.

It is suggested that at least thirty per cent. might be covered with a tall building without any congestion and without depriving the street of light—provided the tall part of the building will set back somewhat from the street line. On corner lots and those facing open squares a greater percentage of the area might be allowed for towers than is the case in less advantageously situated places. Property owners should be permitted to exercise the right of selling their privilege of building light to the owners of the adjoining land, and this knowledge would undoubtedly possess a substantial value. The result of such a limitation would be that every avenue frontage in the central parts of Manhattan would gradually be improved with one or at the most two skyscrapers occupying somewhere between forty and fifty per cent. of the frontage and rarely rising to more than twenty stories.

Some objection may be raised to the effect which such a provision would have on the appearance of the city; but in the opinion of the Record and Guide the consequences of such a method of restriction upon the architectural appearance of New York would be wholly advantageous. New York can never be a well-proportioned and good-looking city in the sense that Paris is good-looking. The process of erecting skyscrapers has been carried too far. From the architectural point of view, it must be picturesque or nothing, and if as a consequence of the proposed method of restriction it should become a city of detached towers, the result would be unique and would afford our architects the opportunity of building the most interesting monuments erected to business energy and enterprise that the world has ever seen. It should be remembered also that under this plan the main cornice line on any street and avenue would be uniform and would be proportionate to the width of the street, so that a certain orderly arrangement would be substituted for the existing chaos. It is sincerely to be hoped that the committees now engaged in the study of this problem will give careful attention to Mr. Ernest Flagg's proposed solution.

Broadway Express Stations.

The Record and Guide cordially sympathizes with the attempt now being made by the Broadway business men to secure the location of the express station on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line at 42d street. If it is physically possible to make this change it certainly ought to be made. Under the circumstances the argument made in favor of the 48th street station, viz., that it will relieve congestion and distribute business, has no force. A general policy of locating express stations, which looks in the direction of distributing business, has much to recommend it; but in the present instance the result would be, not any distribution of business, but a large amount of public inconvenience. The present and future importance of the lower end of Times Square is too great.

When it is remembered that the Belmont tunnel to Queens and the shuttle service connecting with the Grand Central Station and the East Side subway, both terminate near 42d street and Broadway the idea of locating the express station anywhere else becomes absurd. The Times Square station will become the great point of change between the Interboro and Rapid Transit systems. It will be more used probably than any other station in the city. Such is bound to be the case, even though the express station is pushed as far north as 48th street, and the attempt to evade it will be as exasperating as it will be unsuccessful in its results. The engineers of the commission should concentrate their activities upon planning at 42d street and Broadway a convenient clearing house for the rapid transit systems of New York City. Nothing else will meet the needs of the local situation.

THE WEEK IN REAL ESTATE.

Real estate was fairly active at the beginning of the week and the activity ceased only with the week's end. At the outset large transactions were reported and this character of dealing was steadily sustained. Not a day passed but what one or more good sales were reported. It looks as if there might be a revival of old time activity in this substantial commodity. Conspicuous among the purchases were the 12-story apartment house at the southeast corner of Broadway and 77th street; a 6-story apartment house on Wadsworth avenue; a costly residential site in East 96th street, near Fifth avenue, for improvement; a large plot in East 87th street; a good dwelling in the upper West Side; a large corner property at Park avenue and 93d street; a number of other large parcels the particulars of which will be found in our news column; and some first-class sales in the Bronx and in Brooklyn. The suburban market seems to be engaging the attention of many home seekers.

Building Encroachments.

Editor of the RECORD AND GUIDE:

A property owner on Sixth avenue handed to me one of Borough President McAneny's orders directing him to remove, before May 1, 1913, all projections "farther than allowed by the order of the Supt. of Buildings of Jan. 3, 1911." Fortunately, this particular owner's show window was erected prior to May 25, 1899, and under section 646 of the Laws of 1899, cannot be removed, the law stating, it "shall not be removable unless an action shall be instituted by or in behalf of the City of New York for the removal of such structure within one year from the passage of this act."

The resolution of the Board of Estimate under which Borough President McAneny's order was issued, revoked all permits for every possible projection even including flower stands. I asked President McAneny under what section of the City Charter or other legal authority his order of Jan. 3, 1911, was issued. Bear in mind, please, that the basis of the present crusade has been that all projections are illegal, and that not even the Legislature itself can authorize them, whereas President McAneny authorizes 2 ft. of the sidewalks to be "encroached" on.

Borough President McAneny's answer was that there was no authority in the Charter or other legal authority, but that the order of Jan. 3, 1911, was issued at his direction and "prepared after its approval by a body of representative architects and builders." This is an admission that this order is illegal, and constitutes an arbitrary assumption of authority.

Furthermore, in the execution of his various orders, President McAneny shows a discrimination—I had almost said favoritism—which under Tammany Hall would be called by a "shorter and uglier name." Thus while he compels the Mutual Life Insurance Co. to rebuild its Nassau street front, and now proposes a similar course against its Cedar street side, he allows the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to extend 5 feet upon the public highway. Equally glaring inconsistencies may be seen by anyone who will travel in the wake of this vandalism.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. If the crowds on the sidewalks of the mutilated buildings are so great as to warrant imposing a tax of nine million dollars to remove these building projections, they must surge over into the gutter every time they strike one of the "encroachments" or "obstructions" allowed by Mr. McAneny's dispensation.

Orators and statesmen tell us this is a government of laws and not of men. In New York City, at the present time, it appears to be a government of men and not of laws; and there is practically no city building erected prior to the present administration, which is safe from attack. Hence, self-protection should spur property owners to action in defense of their rights and interests. While it may be said that never before in the history of the City was there such abuse of power and there may never again be by any succeeding administration, it would nevertheless seem to be the part of wisdom for the property owners of New York City to get together and secure legislation which would prevent such official lawlessness in the future.

ALBERT E. DAVIS.

New York, April 9.

In the case of the Metropolitan Insurance Company a concession was made by the Board of Estimate because the Metropolitan permits the general public to use as a thoroughfare the main corridor of the building between Fourth and Madison avenues, and also an interior passageway in the basement of the building for access to the abutting subway station.—Editor.

The Salant Bill.

Stewart Browne, of 170 Broadway, makes some pointed comments in a letter to The Sun. If this bill becomes law, he says, the following will be some of its results: "The 1912 aggregate Greater New York land assessment was $4,653,357,514, and the building assessment $2,716,222,137, or a total of $7,279,579,651, the percentage of land assessment being 62.6 running from Brooklyn, 50.5 per cent. to Manhattan, 66.9 per cent., which means that Manhattan taxes would be increased and all the other borough taxes decreased in the aggregate equal to Manhattan's aggregate reduction.

"In individual cases where the assessed land value is less than the assessed building value the assessed land value to total assessed value will run from 20 per cent. to 50 per cent., and where the assessed land value is more than the assessed building value the assessed land value to total assessed value will run from 50 per cent. to 130 per cent.; so that certain individual taxes would be reduced all the way down to two-thirds and other present individual taxes would be increased all the way up to three times. Or, expressed in 'dollar value,' where the present taxes payable average about 15 per cent. of gross rentals some will be reduced all the way down to 5 per cent. of gross rentals, and others increased all the way up to 40 per cent. of gross rental."

Mr. Browne concludes with this observation: "As for the bill forcing the erection and restricting the height of building irrespective of demand, reducing present and preventing future congestion, raising wages and reducing rents, the least said the better."

First Work Under Dual Contracts.

The first actual construction work under the contracts for the dual system of rapid transit has just been started in the Centre Street Loop Subway, which is to be operated by the New York Municipal Railway Corporation (Brooklyn Rapid Transit). Under direction of the commission, the company has begun the work of equipping two tracks in this subway for temporary operation until it can be completed and all four tracks put into operation. The temporary operation will consist in running the Brooklyn elevated trains now coming over the Williamsburgh Bridge into this subway and down to the City Hall. At present these trains stop at the Manhattan end of the Williamsburgh Bridge, where they are turned back to Brooklyn and the passengers have to transfer to other lines to get down town in Manhattan.

As soon as the two tracks in the Loop Subway are properly equipped these trains will continue through the loop, making stops at stations at the Bowery, Canal street and Chambers street. The head wall, separating the subway from the Williamsburgh Bridge, has been broken through and the bridge tracks have been connected with new tracks just laid in the subway. The work of track-laying is proceeding rapidly, and with good luck it is expected to have two tracks ready for operation by the first of July.

Civic Topics at East Tremont.

The East Tremont Taxpayers' Association has put itself on record in favor of the "Five-Cent Fare Bill" introduced by Senator Griffin, the provision of which if enacted into law will compel the New York Central Railroad to charge a five cent fare on its transit lines within the city limits. It also approved the "Station Bill" which will compel the steam railroad companies to have their through-express trains stop to take on or let off passengers at a designated station in The Bronx.

The association believes that the provisions of both of these bills should be enacted into law, since The Bronx with its 500,00 inhabitants deserves some consideration for the privileges which the railroads receive in turn from the citizens of The Bronx.

The rumored encroachment order of President Miler in reference to Third, Washington and Tremont avenues caused a lively discussion at the last meeting of the association. The result was that a resolution favoring the recession of the aforementioned order was passed.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Peterson, Steinmetz, McRae and Hunneke, was appointed to take up with the Borough President and with the Board of Estimate the question of the removal in whole or in part of the car barns at 176th street and Crotona Parkway, in order that the roadbed of the Parkway may be widened at that point to the width of the rest of the roadbed. The effect of the narrow roadbed at this point mars the beauty of the parkway at this particular spot, and with a view to remedying this defect, the aforementioned committee was appointed to see the city officials in respect thereto.

A resolution was adopted condemning the poor protection against fire afforded the people living in the Hill section of Crotona Park North. In this respect the association favors the selection of a site for a fire company in the heart of the section. Owing to the abrupt hills leading from the Boulevard and also the hills to the west, it is a hard matter, at times, for the fire trucks to reach this section without delay in responding to an alarm.

The Salant-Schapp Bill reducing the tax rate on building and raising the same on vacant lands was disapproved.

Building Operations in March.

The month of March witnessed something like hesitation in the building trade. Measured by the large gains shown in the preceding months of 1913 and the last quarter of 1912, the small increase over the month of March, 1912—less than 1 per cent.—reported for 120 cities by Bradstreet's seems a slight one, though the volume of building permitted for in March was much larger than in either January or February. The total expenditure at 120 cities for March aggregated $71,121,145, as against $70,589,363 in March last year and $56,002,485 in February, 1913. There is here shown a gain of 27 per cent, over February, but a gain of only seven-tenths of 1 per cent .over March last year. Of the 120 cities reporting, sixty-eight show gains while fifty-two show decreases as compared with March last year. For the first quarter of the current year the expenditures aggregate $186,602,983, a gain of 9.2 per cent., this following a gain in the first quarter of 1912 of only 1.5 per cent. over the like period of 1911.

—The Borough of Manhattan will spend $1,500,000 for street paving this year. Riverside Drive will be resurfaced at a cost of $200,000 between 72d and 110th streets. The West Drive in Central Park will be rebuilt at a cost of $100,000.

The Brooklyn Superintendent of Buildings, the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate, and the Commissioner of Public Works, L. H. Pounds, have all expressed their approval of the proposal to leave three-family houses out of the tenement classification. For years the leading real estate interests of The Bronx have contended for the same privilege.

Court House Site.

The commissioners in condemnation proceedings for the court house site have finished taking testimony from both parties, and will receive briefs until April 23. The preliminary report of the commission should be rendered about the first week in May, and then both sides will have an opportunity of asking a reconsideration of its findings.

—The new Municipal reference library will be a great convenience for taxpayers. It will be in the Stewart Building, at the corner of Broadway and Chambers street for awhile, but will eventually be removed to the Municipal Building. In the new library the system of collating and indexing will give quick access to all reports, statistics and other printed information which every taxpayer once in awhile wants to know about, without having to be shunted from one city department to another.

BUILDING MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Forward Buying Safeguards the Market Against Immediate Retraction from Tariff Legislation.

Brick Making Interests Plan Insurance Organization to Offset Compensation and Similar Legislation—Coal Shipments Lighter—Oils Firm.

THE inquiry for building materials is strong, although actual buying was sluggish this week. With only three weeks interim before the building season gets under way, distributors find themselves confronted with stiff price levels, but, instead of a strong buying market as the current quotations would seem to indicate, there is only inquiry. This is ver yactive, however, and embodies heavy quantities, in both city and suburbs.

The condition of the money market is favorable to the approaching building season, despite the fact that the tariff is again in the public eye. Construction interests can see no reason why the Administration bills should affect the price of building materials for at least a year, beyond a possible shading of sentiment toward conservation. Steel interests say that there is enough forward business on the books to keep prices steady and the mills busy until well into the spring of 1914, regardless of what Congress may or may not do at Washington. If steel is actually as strong as that, there should be little cause for worry among other building material interests. In fact, other lines were not shaken by the events of the week on that score and all departments, but common brick, which still continues to be the sluggard of the market, ruled firm.

Only forty-four brick cargoes went out last week, as against sixty arrivals and the current prices of $7 to $7.25 weakened, if anything as far as Hudson rivers were concerned. In the Raritan market the quotation of $8.25 Newark yard, held firm to stiff, and in Brooklyn the week's business for this brick was active.

Senator John B. Rose, president of the Greater New York Brick Company, called an extraordinary session of the brick makers of the Hudson river district together on Friday of last week at Newburgh to form a mutual protective insurance company or association to meet any possibe contingency in the event of the Compensation bill and amendments to the Employers' Liability acts passing. It is entirely possible that the scope of this insurance plan will extend into the Hackensack and Raritan districts, especialy since it is understood that similar legislation already is operative in New Jersey without any co-operative or mutual insurance plan in force among brick, terra cotta, tile and pottery interests of the State. Four members of an ultimate committee of five have been appointed to make a survey of the field with a view to finding ways and means of forming such a company. They are: F. P. Luther, of Kingston; H. J. Jova, of Newburgh; John Peck, of Haverstraw; Clarence Blakely, of Yonkers, and another member to be selected by these four later. It is planned to include fire and industrial insurance features in the association.

Only a moderate amount of individual coal is coming to Eastern tidewater at present and the price circular is being pretty well adhered to. The volume of coal arriving in the East during March was considerably less than in the corresponding month last year,

THE COAL SITUATION.

Flood Conditions in the Schuylkill Valley Check Output.

ONLY a moderate amount of individual coal is coming to tidewater first at present and circular is being pretty well adhered to. Apparently about the same amount of this class of tonnage is going to the companies as in past years, and the fears of those who anticipated that the market would be glutted have not yet been realized. There is, however, considerable off grade coal being offered at a discount. Of the steam sizes, pea coal is a little more plentiful, Nos. 1 and 2 buck are easy and No. 2 short and selling at about circular.

Viewed in its entirety, the bituminous trade is in a healthy condition, though the spot market remains in a more or less dormant condition, without any signs of an early return to life. The spot market, however, does not make or break the average producer or shipper, and this fact has to be considered in arriving at a true estimate of the situation.

The total shipments of anthracite over the leading coal roads for the month of March were 4,909,288 tons, as compared with 6,569,687 tons in March, 1912. The returns of the separate roads compare as follows:

BRICK DEMAND LIGHT.

Brick Makers Consider Co-operative Insurance Plan.

CONDITIONS in the common brick market are such as to indicate a temporary slackening in building orders. The causes vary and range from flood conditions to tariff uncertainties, but none is serious enough to warrant any trepidation among builders and prospective operators. There is no quotable change in prices.

Official transactions for North River common brick during the last week with records covering the corresponding week last year follow:

President John B. Rose, of the Greater New York Brick Company, issued a call to the New York brick makers to meet at Newburgh to consider the organization of a mutual insurance company, to protect the manufacturers against hostile legislation, being introduced at Albany under the proposed compensation and liability laws. F. P. Luther, of Kingston; H. J. Jova, of Newburgh; John Peck, of Haverstraw, and Clarence Blakely, of Yonkers, were four of a committee that eventually will consist of five brick manufacturers, who will give consideration to this matter and report back at a later time.

The brick manufacturers of the Hudson River district have for a long time been menaced by many conditions both mechanical and ethical, but they have not in recent years seen fit to co-operate in mutual protection. The recent introduction of compensation laws and the actual operation of recent liability legislation places heavy mutual burdens upon all manufacturers. The far reaching effect of an accident like a boiler explosion or premature action in a dynamite blast could very easily wipe out the entire profits of a year to any brick manufacturer. When competition in the market is keen and cost of manufacture is higher and margins of profit are very much narrower than they were years ago, all manufacturers, irrespective of selling affiliations, have evidently become impressed with the urgency of mutually combining in a protective insurance system of some kind which will give them adequate protection in time of need, and at the same time considerably lessen the burden of premium. To this end the committee has been empowered to work.

BUILDING SUPPLIES STEADY.

Engine-Room Equipment in Good Demand in All Lines.

CURRENT quotations on engine-room equipment for buildings showed no change in prices, although the demand is much improved. The higher price of crude oil and lubricants has not affected the buying market, but quite on the other hand it has resulted in larger orders, because of the reported impending increase in the cost of crude oil and linseed oil.

The demand for fire hose is large, but prices continue unchanged as follows: Underwriters' cotton rubber-lined hose, 2-in. in diameter, 350 lbs. pressure, in 50-ft. lengths complete with couplings is 65 cents per lin. ft. Common hose, 2½-in. diameter, tested to 200 lbs. pressure, is 35 cents per lin. ft.

Prices for cotton waste follows, in bales of 100 to 500 lbs.: No. 1 white picked cotton waste, 9¼ cents per lb.; No. 3, 7¼ cents; No. 1 colored, 5 cents; No. 3 colored, 4¼ cents.

Prices for chain belting continue unchanged. Quotations follow: From 3 hp. to 10 hp., 30-in. centers complete the two sprockets, $7 to $8 per horsepower. From 10 hp. to 25 hp. 36-in. centers complete, $5 to $6 per horsepower. From 25 hp. to 100 hp., 56-in. centers complete, $4 to $5 per horsepower. From 100 hp. to 500 hp., 72-in. centers complete, $3 to $4 per horsepower.

The market for flooring is firm with a good demand. Quartered-sawed oak flooring, A1, is $88 per M. Selected white-oak or red-oak flooring is $50 per M., and common flooring, red or white, is $30 per M.

Maple flooring 13/16 x 2¼-in., is $50 for clear; $45 for No. 1, and $28 for factory. Long-leaf yellow-pine flooring, 13/16 x 2½ in. face, is $60 to $65 for A heart rift, $50 to $55 for sap rift; $36 for No. 1 flat; $34 for No. 2, and $30 for No. 3.

Quotations on plaster blocks are as follows:

	Weight, per sq. ft., lbs.	Price, per sq. ft., cts.
2-in.....	7	6
3-in.....	8½	6½
4-in.....	11	7¼

These blocks are made 32 ins. long by 13½ ins. wide, containing 3 sq. ft. of surface. The 2-in. blocks are solid, but the others are hollow. Plaster boards, ⅝-in. thick, are 16 cents per sq. yd.

TARIFF AND STEEL PRICES.

Current Business Sufficient to Give Market Stability for a Year.

STRUCTURAL steel interests, queried this week as to the possible effect of the proposed steel schedule in the tariff bill on their branch of the market, said that there is no reason why there should be any unsettlement of prices for a year at least, as prospective business is heavy enough to keep the market firm until the spring of 1914. If German and English steel and ironmakers continue as busy as they have been and prices hold up abroad it is expected that American companies will find some way successfully to continue to compete with foreign rivals.

No immediate effect on business is expected by Vice-President King of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, but he says that neither the steel business nor any other business can flourish under free trade, and that inevitably labor will suffer. John C. Oliver, president of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company, states that if general conditions are good that steel mills will be busy and make money even though unprotected by a tariff. Vice-President Sutton of the Crucible Steel Company does not expect any effect in the steel industry from the new tariff until times become dull again, but that the pinch will come then, and that it will be felt by the manufacturer first and then by the workman.

New business booked by steel companies during the week has been in good volume. The demand for some classes of steel products which has nearly used all of the supply in sight for several months ahead has continued heavy and there are indications that semi-finished steel and bars, sheets and other products will be all sold up to the end of the year within a few weeks.

OIL MARKET STEADY.

New Wells Discovered in Louisiana.

THE petroleum market during the week showed evidences of firming. Conditions are good. There is a gradual tendency to get above the $2.50 level, which has ruled for some time. The reports received this week that new oil wells in Louisiana have been discovered may keep prices where they are for a while. Local prices on petroleum and products rule as follows:

REAL ESTATE NEWS OF THE WEEK

Brokerage Sales, Leases and Public Auctions

The Sale of Large Apartment Houses Was a Strong Feature.

The real estate market, this week, showed considerable variety and scope, with apartment houses as the predominating feature. The northern part of Manhattan formed the backbone of its strength, while the Bronx contributed transactions of more than ordinary moment. In Brooklyn dealing in real estate continues to be strong and a new demand for suburban Long Island properties is manifesting itself. All together the total of the week's dealing could be better and it could also be far worse.

The total number of sales in Manhattan this week was 29.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 5, against 16 last week and 17 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 24, compared with 23 last week and 26 a year ago.

From The Bronx 19 sales at private contract were reported, against 18 last week and 9 a year ago.

The amount involved in the Manhattan and Bronx auction sales this week was $1,389,000, compared with $2,148,106 last week, making a total since January 1 of $17,636,061. The figure for the corresponding week last year was $1,928,-305, making the total since January 1, 1912, $14,307,074.

Sphinx Awning Fixtures

This Awning Fixture is so constructed that it is noiseless in operation, and the objectionable features of the ordinary fixture—rattling, breaking and loosening—are entirely eliminated.

It can be attached, by means of screws, to any awning frame. It obviates all disagreeable features attending the use of the old slide attachment, and the danger of breaking windows. There are no rusted, lost or broken nuts, bolts or screws to be constantly replaced, and no tools are necessary for its attachment.

VIEW FROM INSIDE

The Sphinx is the only awning fixture made from pressed steel. They are furnished in pairs, ready to screw on to standard ½ inch iron frames, our wall bracket taking the place of the old slide rod. For extra large awnings we furnish special cast fittings of heavy design to suit conditions.

Operation

Figs. 1 and 2 show a Right-Hand Arm in its up and down position with Angle Wall Bracket drilled for four wood screws, making it suitable for both sidewise and front fastenings. We also make a straight Wall Bracket, suitable for front fastening only.

Fig. 3 shows the method of removing the brass spring pin, by a screwdriver or similar tool. In inserting the pin, drive same lightly after open ends are over the hooks in fitting. They will never work out

Instructions For Taking Measurements

When substituting the Sphinx Awning Fixture for the old slide rod, the length of the arm is determined, being half the sliding distance less one inch for each foot of awning length, exclusive of curtain.

For example: An awning 4' 0" down by 2' 6" out would slide 1' 6"; from which deduct 4" (1" per foot of length), leaving 1' 2", half of which would make an arm 7" long; or again, an awning 6' 0" down by 3' 0" out would slide 3' 0"; deduct 6", leaving 2' 6"; halved, will make an arm 1' 3" long.

The board awarded Mr. Astor $3,750, $7,500 and $20,000 for damage to three parcels of property. MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Public and Local Works Contemplated in the Greater City.

A Summary of the Proceedings of the Local Boards, the Board of Estimate, the Supreme Court and Various Commissions and Bureaus Relating to Street and Other City and Borough Improvements.

The news collected here under the general head of Municipal Improvements is intended to be of service to property owners as well as contractors and brokers. It covers every measure looking toward a change in the City Map, toward the acquisition of title to real estate by the city or toward construction work, including the grading of streets, the laying of sewers, the building of schools, etc. Each such measure is acted upon by one or more—generally by several—official bodies before it becomes a valid ordinance. In these columns the successive official acts pertaining to it are noted from the time it is introduced in a Local Board or in the Board of Estimate. Wherever public hearings on it are granted, the fact is also announced.

Municipal improvements may be divided into two classes—those that are paid for out of the general tax levy and those that are paid for wholly or in part by special assessments on the property owners benefited. The latter, which are the more important to real estate owners, originate in the Local Boards. However, every local improvement, except certain street improvements calling for an expenditure of not more than $2,000, must be submitted to the Board of Estimate for authorization.

The news is classified and is printed in this order: Local Board Calendars, Local Board Resolutions, Proceedings of the Board of Estimate, Public Hearings, Assessments Due and Payable.

LOCAL BOARD CALENDARS.

As regards the majority of city improvements, including all that call for special assessments, the Local Boards are in a sense neighborhood legislatures. They have absolute authority over certain street improvements, costing not more than $2,000. With respect to all other local improvements, they exercise full legislative functions, subject to approval by the Board of Estimate. The Board of Estimate seldom vetoes a measure coming from a Local Board. It is before the latter that the property owner should be most watchful to make himself heard concerning proposed improvements. When a Local Board resolution comes before the Board of Estimate, the presumption of expediency is on the side of the measure, as this has been adopted after open consideration by a body supposed to be familiar with local sentiment.

There are twenty-five Local Improvement Districts in the city, each with its Local Board. This is composed of the Borough President and of the Aldermen who represent the Aldermanic districts within the Local Improvement District. The Borough President's secretary acts as secretary of the several boards. Each board has jurisdiction over matters relating to its district. In the case of matters relating to two or more districts, the boards of the districts affected sit in common. The meetings are subject to call by the Borough President.

Overhead Roads Will Do for Queens, Says Mayor.

Mayor Gaynor told the members of the Queens Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, at their annual meeting at the Waldorf, that he was not in smypathy with their request for subways in Queens.

"I understand," said he, "that some of you are dissatisfied because you are not to have subways, underground roads, in place of overhead roads. You have no right to be dissatisfied with them. The travel on these overhead roads is more pleasant than in the underground roads. More than that, your territory would not bear the expense of it. The difference in the cost of carrying between the overhead roads and the underground roads is more than 10 to 1. You people that pay taxes know what that means, and especially you that own the cornfields and so on out there that you are speculating in. I have not much sympathy with you."

The chamber elected these officers: Robert W. Higbie, of Jamaica, president; John H. Prall, of Elmhurst, vice-president; Louis Windmuller, Woodside, vice-president; William J. Hamilton, of Corona, treasurer, and Edward A. MacDougal, of Flushing; Louis Windmuller and Charles G. Meyer, of Bayside; Robert B. Austin, of Jamaica, and Edward Roche, directors.

Building at South Ozone Park.

Albert J. Wick, the original developer of the town of South Ozone Park, in the 4th Ward of Queens, has begun the erection of 40 moderate-priced dwellings in Lincoln avenue in that suburb. Frank Grumback, another builder, is putting up 15 detached houses in Davis avenue, south of the Rockaway boulevard, and Olcon & Anderson are building 6 cottages on Field avenue. In addition to these larger operations several individual property owners are building houses for their own use. One of these is being erected at a cost of $6,000 by Harold W. Smith, of the Manhattan Postoffice staff; Walter Gardner is building a 7-room house in Boss avenue; Louis Potter is building 2 houses, to cost $4,000 apiece, on Boss avenue; Stephen H. Boss is putting up 2 similar houses in the same street, and Frank H. Chapman is building 2 $3,000 cottages on Leahy avenue.

Plans for a new school house for the place, to cost $175,000, have been already approved by the Building and Art Departments, and work is to be begun within a few weeks. It will be erected on the southeast corner of Lincoln avenue and Rockaway Boulevard.

The Right Rev. Charles E. McDonnell, Bishop of Brooklyn, after a visit to the town, has promised a committee of churchmen that he will have a new Catholic church edifice erected there this summer and that he will assign a resident priest to take charge of it. The town is soon to have another trolley line. This will be an extension, from Jamaica, of the Manhattan and Queens Company's new line through Queens Boulevard from 59th street, Manhattan. The fare to Manhattan on this new line will be five cents.

Cost of Wiring Houses.

Many a Brooklyn home owner recognizes the advantages of using electricity, in lieu of gas, for light, power and auxiliary cooking, but the question of the cost of wiring a house evidently has been a bar to actually making the transformation. The result is that the work is not done and the owner does not enjoy the conveniences of electricity because he may not feel disposed to spend what he supposes will be $200 or $300 for wiring, fixtures, etc.

The Edison Electric Illuminating Company, of 360 Pearl street, Brooklyn, to meet this condition, has inaugurated a plan whereby an electric service may be installed in any home along the line of the company's mains for a small sum on easy payments.

The company is advertising that for $49, payable $9 down and $10 a month; it will arrange to wire the living rooms of any Brooklyn home—parlor, dining-room, kitchen and hall—including fixtures, glassware and tungsten lamps, all complete and ready for lighting.

This is for the Edison Company what the department stores call a "leader." The company does not look to make large profits on the installation work, but being a very large concern, buys fixtures and materials at exceedingly low prices.

Upon the first payment, the company proceeds to do the work, so that a very short time after, the householder is in a position to enjoy the advantages and conveniences of electricity.

The materials used are excellent, the fixture equipment consisting of a dome in the dining-room, a three-light fixture in the parlor and appropriate fixtures in the hall and kitchen. Later on the balance of the house may be wired at the convenience of the owner.

This plan offers a remarkable opportunity for those who wish to make their homes as modern as possible and to enjoy electric light and electric housekeeping.
